COURTNEY RUNS FOR MAYOR

NATION LOOKING TO CONGRESS TO CURB PRESIDENT

Vast Power Yielded to Roosevelt.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt made it clear on the day he entered the White House, March 4, 1933, that he would not hesitate to seek dictatorial power if congress failed to enact the measures he deemed necessary for the nation's welfare. In his first inaugural address he said the necessity for immediate action might call for a "temporary departure" from "the normal balance of executive and legislative authority."

In the event congress failed to deal satisfactorily with specific proposals, the President said he would demand "a broad executive power to wage war against the emergency, as great as the power that would be given to me if we were in fact invaded by a foreign foe."

New Instruments of Power.

In his annual message to congress on Jan. 3, 1936, the President gave his opponents an opportunity to charge that his administration was almost admittedly a dictatorship. He said his administration had built up "new instruments of public power," which, in other hands, "would provide shackles for the liberties of the people."

The 76th congress, which convenes next Tuesday, will have an opportunity to consider and perhaps repossess some of these "new instruments of public power," including the so-called emergency powers which can be exercised entirely at the discretion of the President. These are legislative powers unlike any authority ever before vested in an American President. Under them, the President may issue proclamations having the same force of law as the decrees of the ancient Roman emperors or the modern European dictators.

Under the Thomas amendment to the agricultural adjustment act of 1933 and the gold reserve act of 1934, the President may revalue the dollar any time he chooses between limits of 50 and 60 per cent of its former gold content.

Power to Inflate Currency.

Under the Thomas amendment the President can inflate the currency by issuing up to three billion dollars in greenbacks.

Under the Thomas amendment the President can put the United States on a bimetallic standard overnight by decreeing the free and unlimited coinage of silver; he can fix the value of the silver dollar at any ratio to gold that he sees fit; he can accept silver in payment of war debts up to a maximum of 200 million dollars and use it for the issuance of additional silver certificates. Under the silver purchase act of 1934 the President can buy silver at a discretionary price until that metal comprises one-fourth of the total monetary stock.

Under the emergency banking act of 1933 the President can prescribe rules and regulations under which gold can be held and acquired, transported, melted or treated, imported or exported.

Manages Two Billion Fund.

Under the gold reserve act of 1934 the President can and does, through his secretary of the treasury, manage secretly a stabilization fund of 2 billion dollars, his decisions in this matter being "final, and not subject to review by any other officer of the United States."

Under the securities and exchange act of 1934 the President can suspend trading on any stock exchange for ninety days.

Under the reciprocal tarif act of 1934, the President can and does exercise a taxing power the power to raise or lower tarif duties by 50 per cent—although the constitution vests the revenue power in congress alone. Under this same act, he can and does exercise a treaty making power in the reciprocal trade agreements, without ratification by the senate, although the constitution says that treaties shall be made with the advice and consent of the senate.

Spends at Discretion.

Under blank check appropriation measures the President can spend at his own discretion for relief, farm benefits, public works and other purposes more money in a single year than was entrusted in the aggregate to the discretionary spending of all

Uncover Huge French Movie Swindle

NAB FILM CZAR AND 3 OTHERS; 3 MILLION GONE

Demand Probe; Hint Political Scandal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 29.—A film scandal involving millions of dollars shook France today. It threatened, like the $60,000,000 Stavisky pawnshop upheaval, to reach into political circles.

Seven thousand stock holders of the French Pathé Film company, now bankrupt, threw the situation open by obtaining warants charging fraud and conspiracy to defraud against a former head of the company—one time czar of French filmdom—and three other persons formerly connected with Pathé.

Rene Dedoux, investigating magistrate, gave a preliminary estimate that the alleged embezzlement would be at least 140,000,000 francs [about $3,698,000]. Robert Dirler, chairman of the stockholders' protective committee, however, predicted the figure would be much higher, probably reaching 605,000,000 francs [about $15,941,750].

Foresee Billion Franc Scandal.

Some investigators late tonight went so far as to talk in terms of a billion francs [about $26,350,000].

The staggering totals worried many Frenchmen less, however, than the whisperings that the principals in the alleged embezzlement enjoyed political protection. Already demands for an official investigation were heard in parliamentary circles.

The most prominent figure among those arrested was the "czar," Bernard Tanenzapf, or Natan, said to be a Rumanian. He adopted the name Natan after coming to France, where he gained French citizenship with what some sources said was amazing speed. As head of the Pathé concern, whose control he wrested from its founder, Charles Pathé, in 1928, he gained the title of "czar."

Entertains for Deputies.

It was charged that Tanenzapf entertained members of the chamber of deputies with dinners, parties, and film showings. The demands for a government investigation were based on the belief that only in this way could it be found just how many accepted his hospitality, and whether he gained any influence helpful in his affairs.

Arrested with Tanenzapf were Alexander George Joannides, a Greek engineer who professed to be inventor of patented Pathé film equipment, but now has admitted this was false; Jean Cerf, well known as a sportsman and owner of a racing stable, and an attorney named Caron.

Charge Fake Companies Formed.

Among charges against the four are that they formed fictitious companies to handle movie apparatus. Dirler, chairman of the stockholders committee, announced that thirty-three dummy companies were formed. It is alleged that assets of the Pathé company were thrown away in these companies and in purchasing non-existent patents from some of these fictitious corporations.

Other charges are that Pathé stock was watered and that the defendants dealt in false theater leases. The Pathé company at one time managed a string of theaters.

The investigations which resulted in today's revelations have been under way since April, 1935. At that time stockholders obtained complaints charging Tanenzapf with violating French corporation laws, which ban the formation of dummy companies.

Declared Bankrupt in 1935.

Bankruptcy of the company was declared the same year and confirmed in 1936 by the Appeal court. The "czar's" prosecution on a charge of "fraudulent creation of a fictitious majority" in Pathé stock was approved by the courts last April.

The mystery surrounding Tanenzapf, or Natan, and his rise to a powerful position recalled the story of Philip Musica. As F. Donald Coster, Musica rose to a position of prominence as head of McKesson & Robbins, a drug company, until its failure unmasked him and resulted in his suicide Dec. 16 in the United States.

Frenchmen recalled also that many events in the career of Serge [Hand-

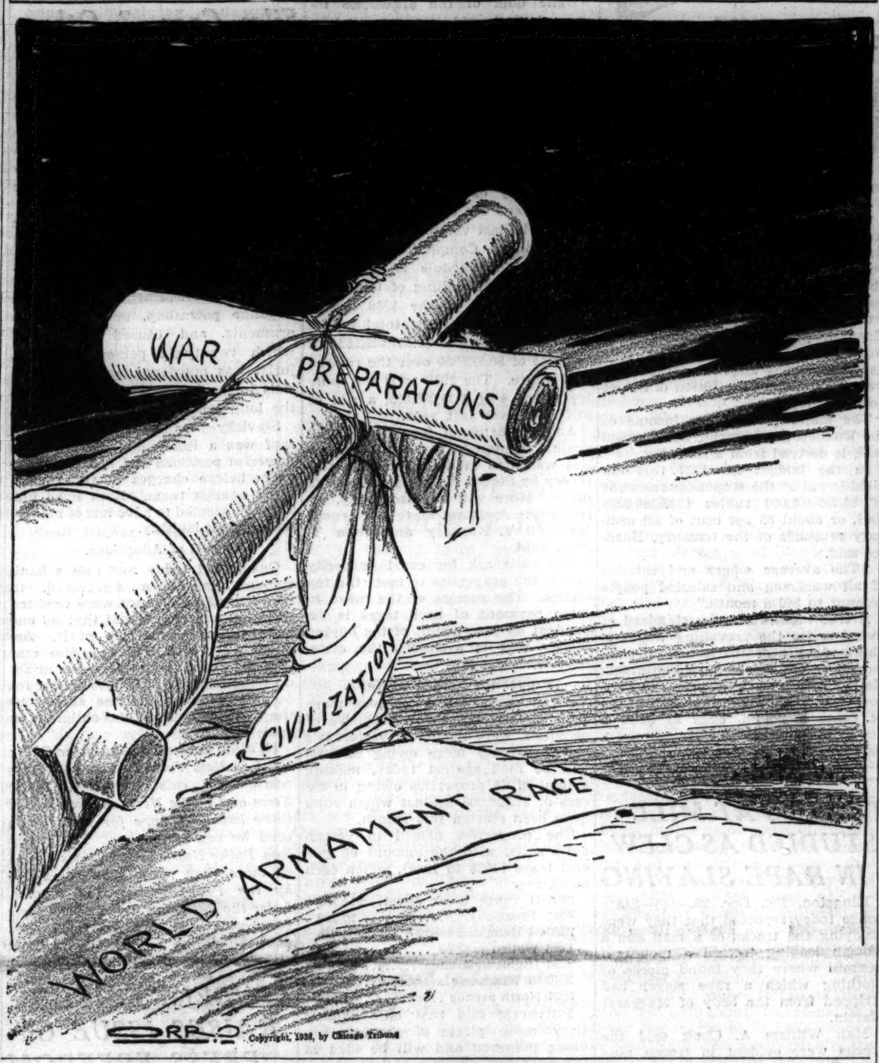
THE ROAD TO CALVARY



Slug Attorney in Sonja Henie Plagiarism Suit

Four newspaper photographers went to the Lake Shore Drive hotel yesterday. They hoped to take pictures of Sonja Henie, the ice skater, as she was handed a summons in a $3,000,000 plagiarism suit in which she and the Twentieth Century-Fox Film corporation are defendants.

Fred Walton, who started the suit.

The photographers saw William Russell, deputy United States marshal, take the summons into the hotel manager's office to ask if Miss Henie were in her rooms. They saw Alvin R. Katz, attorney for the plaintif, wait in the lobby. Presently they saw Katz approached by Arthur M. Wirtz, vice president of the Chicago Stadium and president of the corporation sponsoring Miss Henie's tour.

Asks "Nice, Quiet Way."

The photographers heard:

WIRTZ—Let's talk this over. Why don't you go and see my counsel and do this in a nice, quiet way?

KATZ—No. I'm staying here.

Wirtz went to a telephone. When he returned he told the photographers, "If you'll stick around you might get a better picture than you expect."

Presently the photographers saw four men walk into the lobby. They lined up against the wall. Wirtz conferred with Katz again. Then the photographers saw Wirtz turn to the strangers and heard him say:

"O. K. boys. Take him out."

Rush Lawyer to Door.

The photographers saw two of the men seize Katz by the neck and rush him to the door. The photographers followed to see more, but found the two other men blocking the door.

They got outside in time to see Katz picking himself up. He was hatless and his face was marked. They noticed that he had a black eye.

The camera men went back into the lobby to look for Wirtz, who had complained that the whole thing had interrupted his bowling game. They didn't see him.

They did see two squads of park police drive up. "Warant case!" called one of the policemen as they hurried off again.

Denies Hiring Sluggers.

"I wasn't there at the time," Wirtz explained later. "But I heard Katz was raising a rumpus in the lobby and that some one told him to get out. And in the scuffle, I was told, he got mussed up. I didn't hire those fellows. I don't know them. I think he just wanted some publicity.

Katz said he would ask warants today for Wirtz and one of the sluggers.

The suit was brought by Fred Walton of 5 West Delaware place, on the ground that a motion picture in which Miss Henie recently starred was taken from a scenario he wrote. Charles Watson, Stadium attorney, accepted service in the suit for Miss Henie at the Federal building later in the day.

ZOO FIRE ISN'T MUCH, BUT LLAMA'S PURSUIT OF PHOTOGRAPHER IS!

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 29.—(AP)—A photographer's flash bulb battle with a llama stole the show from a fire at Hogle Gardens zoo. Two buffalo and seven elk sidestepped when News Photographer Ross Welser entered their pen to take a picture of the fire, but the llama charged at him.

"I flashed one bulb in his face and he stopped for a moment," said Welser. "Then we both went round and round—with me shooting flash bulbs as fast as I could and the llama in hot pursuit. I yelled for somebody to get me out or bulldog the llama. But the firemen were busy fighting the fire and the spectators were watching the fun."

Welser finally escaped by diving through a gate. The fire did $200 damage. The pictures? Welser didn't get any!

Alimony Cut So He Can Hire Boy to Awaken Him

Edward Hankel is hard of hearing. Now that he and his wife have separated, he has to hire a boy at $5 a week to wake him up in the morning, because he can't hear the alarm clock. That's why, Hankel told Judge Robert C. O'Connell yesterday, $10 a week seemed too much to pay in temporary alimony to Mrs. Celia Hankel, 27 years old, of 1415 South 2d avenue, Maywood. The judge said he was right and made it $8.50 a week.

Oil Magnate's Wife Killed in 35 Story Leap

New York, Dec. 29.—[Special.]—As a nurse made frantic efforts to stop her, Mrs. Miriam Rieber, wife of Torkild Rieber, chairman of the board of the Texas company, leaped to her death late tonight from a window of her 35th floor apartment in Manhattan.

Mrs. Rieber had been under the care of physicians for a nervous disorder. A nurse was in constant attendance on her. Tonight Miss Helen Koerner, the nurse, told detectives afterward, Mrs. Rieber seemed unusually restless. She frequently got up to open or close windows or drawers.

Asks to Be Left Alone.

Just after 11 o'clock she asked Miss Koerner if she could be left alone for a minute. The nurse refused.

"Well, then, may I have some tea?" Miss Koerner quoted her as saying.

Agreeing, Miss Koerner went to the kitchen to boil some water. While she was there she heard her patient go into the bathroom. Becoming suspicious, she followed, in time to see Mrs. Rieber standing on a chair, about to plunge out of the window, which faces an inner court. Miss Koerner seized her by both legs and tried desperately to drag her back, but failed.

Breaks Nurse's Hold.

"Let go or I'll drag you with me," she said Mrs. Rieber screamed, pulling herself free and leaving the terrified nurse holding a part of her bathrobe, which had been torn off.

Mrs. Rieber was 56 years old, the police said. Her husband, whom she married in New York on Sept. 26, 1909, was reported to be on his way back to this country from a business trip to Europe. A son, Harold, is in Mexico. A daughter, Ruth, had been living with her mother, but was not at home tonight.

Fast Playing of Anthem Irks Hitler; Slow Order Issued

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler has complained that the German national anthem, "Deutschland Ueber Alles," is being played too fast, resulting in the "massacre of the hymn." As a result, the newspaper National Zeitung of Essen announces a decree by Heinrich Himmler, head of the German police, that henceforth the anthem must be played "in a tempo worthy of the hymn."

Story Involves Goebbels in a Love Scandal

[Copyright: 1938: By New York News Syndicate, Inc.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 29.—For an affair with the beautiful wife of one of Germany's leading motion picture actors, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi minister of propaganda, was beaten almost to death seven days ago, it was learned tonight.

Since Dec. 22 Goebbels has been confined in a closely guarded Berlin clinic, his head cut and bruised, both eyes blackened, and with at least one of his teeth missing.

The scandal has caused his wife, Magda Goebbels, official hostess of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler at most state functions, to prepare to go to Denmark. It was reported she plans to sue for divorce.

Ill of Flu, Press Says.

Goebbels was "ordered to bed" a week ago today because of an attack of acute intestinal influenza, DNB, the official German news agency, announced. His Christmas activities, DNB said, had been canceled.

But Goebbels was taken to the hospital, it was learned, because friends of Gustav Froelich, actor husband of Lida Baarova, the actress, surprised him in the Froelichs' apartment and there sought to avenge the imprisonment of Froelich in a concentration camp so that Goebbels might make love to the Czech beauty. Only the intervention of Goebbels' chauffeur, it was said, saved the cabinet member's life.

[Other sources denied Froelich had been placed in a concentration camp. Residents of Berlin said they saw him on the streets this month.]

The amazing story, of which no word dare be uttered in Germany, has almost official confirmation. Hitler's displeasure is indicated by the fact that all films in which Miss Baarova appears have been withdrawn without explanation. Goebbels, according to rumors, previously had sought to elevate her to stardom.

Hitler Reconciles Couple.

And it is the second time in less than three months that Mrs. Goebbels has decided on a divorce because of the affair. Only the personal peace making of Hitler healed the first breach.

Froelich was sent to a concentration camp last October after he had challenged Goebbels to a duel because of the latter's attentions to his wife. News of the challenge reached the ears of Mrs. Goebbels, who went to Zurich, Switzerland, determined to obtain a divorce.

Hitler succeeded in reconciling the couple and Mrs. Goebbels returned to Berlin with her five children. To quiet persistent rumors Hitler visited the Goebbels home and there posed for photographs with the propaganda minister's family.

Froelich was forced to leave Germany because his first wife, Gitta Alpar, an actress, was the daughter of a Hungarian Jewish rabbi. Driven into exile in what was then Austria, Froelich's love for his homeland triumphed over his affection for his wife and the two were divorced in 1935 so that Froelich could return to Nazi Germany. There he met and married Miss Baarova.

CHICAGO NEEDS A CHANGE, HE SAYS IN OPENER

Raps Machine Rule; Pledges Economy.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

State's Attorney Courtney announced himself last night as a candidate for mayor in the Democratic primaries Feb. 28.

His speech, made over the air, indicated to the politicians that the fur is to fly in an old fashioned knock down and drag out mayoralty fight. After hinting that the campaign is to be no pillow fight Courtney opened with an attack on the Democratic city organization and Mayor Kelly. The Kelly managers claim the support of 43 of the 50 ward committeemen.

After his speech Courtney was asked how many committeemen were backing him.

"You'll be surprised," he replied.

"I wish to state definitly," said Courtney at the start of his speech, "I am a candidate for the office of mayor of Chicago."

Pledges American Fundamentals.

"Be assured," he said in conclusion, "I will never use the high office of mayor to attempt to control a political machine. I am anxious to see the progress our city would make with the American fundamentals of simple honesty, straightforwardness, economy, and sincerity restored to the mayor's office."

In political circles the Courtney avowal caused no surprise. The politicoes had been expecting it for weeks. The state's attorney's message was delivered over station WENR exactly a week after Mayor Kelly announced his candidacy from the same station. In his speech the mayor said he hoped for a dignified campaign, but if his opponents defamed Chicago they could get fight a-plenty.

Cites Record as Prosecutor.

Courtney dwelt on his record in the state's attorney's office. He attacked portions of the mayor's address of announcement. In blistering phrases he assailed the Nash-Kelly Democratic organization. He accused it of having a leadership repudiated in the 1936 primaries in the Horner-Bundesen contest and this year in the primary fight over the state ticket and over County Judge Jarecki.

The question now engaging the politicians is what position will be taken by Gov. Horner, who is convalescing in Florida. In the November election the governor expressed his gratitude to Kelly for rounding up the Democratic plurality in Chicago that put their state ticket over.

Taxes and gambling were stressed by Courtney as issues.

"Take your tax bills to the polls," he said, "and let them tell you how to vote.

Lists Other Issues.

"There are many other important issues, such as the affiliation of crime with politics, the public schools, the cost of the park system, the administration of civil service, vote frauds, local transportation, the stimulation of the building industry, the necessity for severing the mayor's office completely from the management and domination of a political machine."

Courtney assailed the Democratic city organization for supporting the mayor.

"I have watched with a great deal of interest," he said, "the maneuvers of the Kelly-Nash machine in the selection of their candidate for mayor. Bear in mind the managing committee, which made the selection, is made up of the ward committeemen. Every one of these men is fully cognizant that the battered leadership of their machine has been staggered into defeat by the people at the last two primaries, the only occasions the people had to voice their sentiment on the Kelly-Nash system of government.

Assails Machine Dictation.

"The wisdom of ordinary, prudent men would have told them to select a man who had not been repudiated by the votes of the people. But no! Remembering the important fact that most of them are on the machine pay roll, and not forgetting the substantial financial political reward which follows the ability to vote 'yes,' they stood up in obedient chorus.

"They proclaimed to the walls of the Morrison hotel penthouse, 'Mayor Kelly is our choice for reelection to a third term.' A group of stalwarts composed chiefly of officials occupying high public offices in the party, realizing the mowing machine would be in action, absented themselves from the meeting and are now standing shoulder to shoulder with me in carrying the banner voiced by the people on all sides, 'Chicago needs a change.'

"Another program of interest was the 'draft Kelly' program. He wanted to run but his lieutenants knew he had to be built up. The word was designedly passed around that the mayor was reluctant to run, a ballyhoo process. Col. Sprague, representing large public utilities and the remnants of the Insull interests, was selected as chairman of a business men's group to start the ballyhoo, the State street merchants were represented, other groups were told to make daily calls and attempt, as it were, to overcome the reluctance of the mayor.

"The plain truth is Mayor Kelly had his eye on a third term when he threw Gov. Horner off the ticket in 1936. Mr. Kelly was a definite candidate for a third term when he directed the ousting of Judge Jarecki last spring.

Plans Fight Without Quarter.

"But we finally got his word last Thursday that he is a candidate, and he is getting my word this Thursday, he is going to have to fight to get it. As for myself I am asking no quarter, nor will I give any."

Courtney said in 1933 when Mayor Kelly took office the tax rate was $6.73 and in 1936 it was $9.52. In 1933, he said, the cost of running the city government was 44 million dollars, and this year it is 56 millions. In the state's attorney's office, he said, in six years the average operating cost per year has been reduced by $174,000.

"As your mayor," he said, "I will substantially reduce the cost of your government."

Courtney took up the subject of gambling.

"The gambling syndicate," he said, "is a group of underworld characters employing paid killers and agents, who by threat, intimidation, and sheer muscle, abundantly supplied with police and political protection, control and regulate all gambling houses permitted to operate in the city.

"Because of their alliance with the powers that be they determine who shall and shall not operate a gambling joint. Last July and August six murders were committed because of this syndicate. Still no aggressive action was taken by the officials whose duty it was to act.

"With the courts and police officials indifferent to these murders quick and decisive action was necessary. I took that action. This syndicate should not and will not be permitted to grow in Chicago."

NEW COLD WAVE SETTLES ON CITY; RELIEF PROMISED

The second severe cold wave of the season reached Chicago early today, hard on the heels of the first. Forecaster J. R. Lloyd predicted the temperature would be down to zero or a shade above before dawn. Northern and western suburbs were warned to expect temperatures as low as 5 below.

During the day, Lloyd said, the mercury should rise no higher than 10 or 12 degrees above zero. But, by tomorrow, as the arctic wave spreads eastward, he looks for slowly rising temperatures. The weather New Year's eve, he said, should not be so cold, probably in the lower 20s.

From the maximum of 28 degrees at noon yesterday, the mercury began a steady decline, of more than one degree an hour. At 3 a. m. it had dropped to 6 above on unofficial thermometer.

Temperatures as low as 40 below were recorded yesterday in the Dakotas, which bore the brunt of the icy blasts. Lloyd said both the first cold wave, which began Tuesday, and today's are part of the same huge mass of frigid air over Alaska which may send Chicago more bitter cold later.

New York, Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, U. S. A., retired, who is chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, notified the police of Rye, N. Y., today that $200 worth of jewelry was stolen yesterday from his home.

GREEN PETITIONS SIGNED AT RATE OF 10,000 A DAY

Leaders Point to National Aspect of Mayor Race.

More than 50,000 voters already have signed mayoralty nominating petitions for Dwight H. Green, candidate of the regular Republican organization. G. O. P. leaders pointed to this figure yesterday as evidence that Green, former United States district attorney, is the man who can bring back voters who have been missing from Republican ranks for years.

"The drive to complete the petitions hasn't even been started in earnest, but voters are signing at the rate of nearly 10,000 a day," said Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Republican city committee.

"Indications are that our original estimate of 300,000 signers will be exceeded."

Push Nance and Chapman.

Workers started yesterday to get signatures to petitions for Clement A. Nance and John William Chapman, who will be Green's running mates. Nance has been indorsed for city treasurer and Chapman for city clerk. They are supported by regular Republican ward committeemen in forty-eight wards.

Green spent the day in Kansas City presiding as supreme justice at the national convention of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity. In his absence Moore and Ferre C. Watkins, campaign manager, perfected plans for next week's formal opening of the campaign.

Stress National Aspects of Race.

National aspects of the mayoralty race were stressed by both Moore and Watkins.

"For ten years Republicans everywhere have been pleading for candidates who are young, but sound and courageous," Watkins said. "They have wanted men who have not been connected with any party machines—men who have fought their way to success.

"Green is a man 41 years old, who is liberal and progressive in his attitude toward every civic problem.

"He never has sought public office, but twice, as a world war aviator and as United States district attorney, has served his country well and honorably.

"In working for Green, Republicans of Chicago are leading the way for the nation."

SUES FOR $100,000 BLAMING I. C. FOR RAPE AT STATION

Asserting that she was raped while waiting at the Riverdale station for an Illinois Central suburban train, Miss Agnes Neering sued the railroad for $100,000 in Circuit court yesterday. She charged the railroad with negligence in failing to provide a guard or attendant for protection of passengers.

The railroad had been warned on the morning of the attack, she said, that vagrants were loitering in the station. Miss Neering, who is 23 years old, lives at 13813 Atlantic street, Riverdale. She says he was raped by a colored man who dragged her beneath the station platform early on Sept. 6.

Landlords Warned by City to Provide Adequate Heat

Operators of apartment buildings were warned by board of health officials yesterday to provide adequate heat for tenants. Many complaints have been received, officials said, since the cold spell. The municipal code requires a minimum temperature of 60 degrees at 6:30 a. m.; 65 at 7:30 a. m.; 68 at 8:30 a. m., and thereafter until 10:30 p. m., from Oct. 1 to June 1.

1938's Accident Death Toll 11,000 Lower than in 1937

New York, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Accidents took approximately 11,000 fewer lives this year than in 1937, a report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company showed today. The death toll for all forms of accident was 95,000, the report said, compared with 106,000 in 1937, and 110,000 in 1936.

Price Comparison

Comparison of prices in Russia and the United States.

A terrific burden of taxation on the consumer in Russia, coupled with low wages, has made it difficult or impossible for the average citizen to obtain simple commodities, a study of soviet public finances shows. The study was prepared by Dr. Paul Haensel, professor of economics at Northwestern university, and published yesterday under the title "The Public Finance of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

The major part of the income of the Russian government, Dr. Haensel said, is derived from a sales tax.

In the budget for 1937 this tax yield is put at the stupendous amount of 76,795,400,000 rubles [$15,360,000,000], or about 83 per cent of all ordinary revenues of the treasury, Haensel said.

"The average wages and salaries of all workmen and salaried people amount to $46 a month."

TRACKS AT MILL STUDIED AS CLEW IN RAPE SLAYING

Kingston, Pa., Dec. 29.—(AP)—State police today reported that they were studying the tracks of a man and a woman leading toward a mountain sawmill where they found pieces of clothing which a rape slayer had stripped from the body of Margaret Martin.

Maj. William A. Clark said the tracks were evident in frozen mud near the mill. He said that at one point the woman's footprints disappeared and thereafter there were signs that some object had been dragged.

He also announced that a man living near the mill had reported seeing a light in the sawmill as some one opened the door about 9 p. m. Dec. 17, the day Miss Martin left her home here to keep a street corner appointment with a man who had promised her a job.

Aldermen Will Inspect Work on Subway Today

Members of the city council's local transportation committee this morning will inspect the start on the State street subway excavation now going on near State street and Chicago avenue. A shaft 27 feet in diameter and 45 feet deep has been dug on private property near the corner and the subway workers have started a tunnel to lead under State street.

BUILDING GAINS BOOST ASSESSED VALUE OF REALTY

Fix $1,698,235,205 as '38 County Tax Basis.

New building in the last year has resulted in an increase in the assessed value of Cook county real estate for 1938. Assessor John S. Clark so reported yesterday in announcing the new assessment rolls. This is the first upturn in real estate valuations since 1930.

The 1938 assessed valuations total $1,698,235,205. This is $2,154,909 greater than the assessor's 1937 valuations and $11,083,898 over the 1937 total after it was reviewed by the board of tax appeals.

"The bulk of the $11,083,898 increase," Clark said, is represented by new construction. Since the assessed value is 37 per cent of the full value, Cook county has approximately $29,000,000 more in building value than it had for 1937.

Assessment Completed on Time.

"The assessment was completed on time, according to the schedule filed for delivery of the books to the county clerk for computation of tax rates. The last volume will be in his hands today. Completion of the assessment on schedule is important for the prompt mailing of tax bills."

A breakdown of the 1938 assessments showed that the total in the city of Chicago was $1,367,949,169, an increase of $6,312,350 over the revised 1937 figure. The 1938 total for country towns was $330,286,035, a rise of $4,771,548 over last year.

Another batch of foreclosure suits against delinquent real estate properties was filed in Superior court yesterday by State's Attorney Courtney's office. More will be filed today, according to Assistant State's Attorneys Marshall V. Kearney and John T. Fitzgerald.

The suits ask for court authority to sell the properties to meet the tax claims. The success of the move to force payment of back taxes is dependent on the amount of tax buying money that is available, the attorneys said.

Properties Named in Suits.

Seven properties which owe more than $40,000 back taxes, exclusive of penalties, were named in yesterday's suits. Twenty more owing $110,000 will be filed against today, making a total of 74 properties owing in excess of $1,150,000 against which suits have been started this month.

The properties named in yesterday's suits, with the amount of general taxes [1928 to 1936], which each owes, are:

2901-11 North Clark street	$14,122
4941 Broadway	10,268
2730-34 Hampden court	4,756
1752 Wallen avenue	4,130
2223 Highland avenue	3,896
2646-50 Winnemac avenue	3,016
5527 North avenue	1,018

Fitzgerald said that bills naming sixty more pieces of property are being prepared and will be filed in the next few weeks.

HUSBAND SLAYS BRIDE, 15, HER FATHER AND SELF

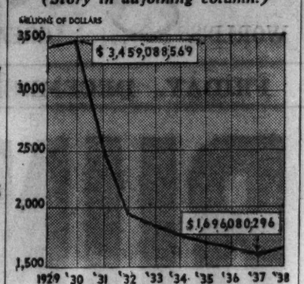
Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—William Query, 33 years old, tonight shot and killed his bride, Betty, 15 years old, whom he married on Christmas eve. He also killed her father, Ralph D. Kendall, and then committed suicide.

Query, a state highway department truck driver, took his bride to his home in Cloverdale after their marriage, and her father brought her back to the family home the next day. Query had not seen her since then, and apparently was enraged because of the separation.

He entered the Kendall home after supper tonight and shot Betty's father through the heart with a revolver. Betty ran toward a door, and her husband shot her twice. Then he shot himself in the head.

Realty Assessments

(Story in adjoining column.)



Cook county real estate assessments show an increase for 1938 for the first time since 1930. However, they are still only half of the 1930 figure.

CHARGE 3 MILLION FRAUD IN FRENCH MOVIE COMPANY

Film Czar, 3 Others Under Arrest.

some Alex] Stavisky, who precipitated the financial and political maelstrom of 1934 in France, were paralleled by those in Tanenzapf's meteoric rise.

The Stavisky scandal, which broke in December, 1933, and reached its peak the next month, was the worst of the 20th century in France. His gigantic embezzlement wrecked the Bayonne pawnshop, upset two governments, and caused rioting in which twenty-six persons died. A jurist was murdered, and many officials in good jobs were dismissed as the long examination dragged along.

Stavisky was a Russian. Tanenzapf was a Rumanian. Both gained powerful positions and held them for years before charges of fraud were made against them. Both lived luxuriously, seemed to have lots of money, and spent it lavishly.

Tell of Adoptions.

One report today was that a bank account had been discovered, in which 24,000,000 francs were credited to Natan and others, but that no one had admitted ownership of it. Another story was that the film czar adopted two French orphans and set up trust funds of 20,000,000 francs for each, stipulating that he should be the beneficiary until the children became of age.

[Walton Ament, speaking for Pathe News in New York, said no corporate relationship exists between Pathe News and Pathe News of France, and there has been none for more years than he can remember. The American Pathe News, he said, was founded more than twenty-five years ago by the Pathe brothers of France. Later the Pathe brothers severed their connection with the American company by selling out to American interests, he asserted.]

STUDENT EDITOR RAISES ISSUE OF PRESS FREEDOM

The freedom of the press, as the student editors view it, has become an issue at the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero. Editor Russell Allen of the school paper said last night he and other staf members would confer with J. J. Cerny, board president, and other officials.

Allen charged that in two instances school news was suppressed in the student newspaper. One item, he said, concerned the dismissal of Irene Roland, a teacher, who criticized the board in a letter to a newspaper. The other, he said, was a criticism of the board for not providing a completely equipped playing field.

BOMBING CITIES TOO FUTILE AND COSTLY IN WAR

Negligible Results Told by Air Officers.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Threats that London, Paris, and Berlin—and by implication Chicago and New York—can be destroyed by aerial bombs and their populations slain wholesale were branded empty bosasts today. Military authorities here said practice has shown such attempts to be so costly that they are unsound.

Air corps officers said studies of world war bombings and of more recent aerial bombardments in China and Spain have shown that indiscriminate aerial bombardment of civilian centers is an entirely worthless expenditure of money, bombs, and aircraft. Such indiscriminate bombing, they said, generally has stiffened resistance and had an opposite effect from that intended.

Civilians Become Enraged.

Studies of bombings during the war of 1914-'18 in London and Paris, and recently in Madrid and Barcelona, Spain, and Chinese cities, have shown that civilian populations became accustomed quickly to air attacks. Instead of being terrified by bombings, civilians became enraged at the destruction caused by bombers and generally strengthened their morale.

These studies also indicated that the economic results of bombing have not justified the costs of such raids. Instead, according to air corps reports, the damage done by bombardment and the numbers of killed and wounded by bombing have been far less than lurid estimates made by fiction writers and by other persons unfamiliar with the possibilities of such attacks.

"There is no question," said an air corps officer here, "that the threats of indiscriminate air attacks on London and Paris have been used to frighten civilian populations who do not know what to expect from air attacks.

Use Fear for Propaganda.

"There is no doubt that certain European countries have allowed their civilians to believe that aircraft could and would bring wholesale destruction. Such ideas have been used to justify enormous expenditures made for rearmament.

"On the other hand, there is no need for civilians in the United States to begin fearing air attacks at this time. The oceans which surround this continent are the most effective defenses that could be arranged. The only attacks that could reach this country now would come from Canada, Mexico, Central or South America.

"Even these attacks could penetrate only a few miles from the closest borders. And if such air attacks were started the bombers would aim at targets that promised to be worth the costs in money and planes. These would be manufacturing centers, docks, power plants, water supply plants, rather than mere collections of people."

Shelter for the People.

Experience in Madrid, which has been attacked by the latest types of German and Italian bombardment planes said to be the equal of any in the world, has shown that proper dugouts and trenches can shelter most of the population.

Unless direct hits were made on dugouts or trenches, civilians thus protected have escaped unharmed. Large death tolls have been reported only when bombers dropped their loads of explosives into crowded streets.

The bombardment of Barcelona, which caused hundreds of deaths, was unusually effective because there was literally no defense, either from the ground or from the air, of this beleaguered city during the attacks. In addition there was no effective air raid warning system so that the bombers caught civilians on unprotected streets.

A more logical comparison, according to the army's experts, is that of the German bombardment of London during the world war. The assumption is that defenses have kept abreast of air development since the war so that the advantages for the raiders are no greater than they were before.

Only 487 Killed in Raids.

Casualties in the London area for the entire duration of the war were 487 killed and 1,444 injured. Counting each trip of an airplane as a separate airplane, about 436 German planes were used in these attacks during the entire war. And these airplanes dropped approximately 73 tons of bombs during their raids.

Comparison shows that the average was 1.1 persons killed for each plane sent over. The bombs, in material damage, cost the British nation about 6 million dollars. The cost of the anti-aircraft defenses of London hardly could have been less than 15 million dollars. Loss of production may have amounted to another 15 million dollars, according to British figures.

This brings the total cost in dollars to 36 millions. In order to do this damage to the British the Germans spent approximately $100 a pound for the explosives they dropped. This includes the cost of the planes, training the personnel, fuel, bombs, losses to defenses, etc. At this rate the raids cost 146 millions, and, consequently, were unjustified.

New Accuracy Claimed.

A number of air corps officers recently have announced that modern bombardment is so accurate fixed targets can be attacked with absolute certainty that they will be destroyed. In comparison with modern accuracy, the bombardment of the world war was haphazard, they declared.

Nevertheless, they said, the relative costs of aerial bombardment have increased to the point where only military targets can be attacked. It is a fixed policy of the United States forces, they declared, that indiscriminate civilian bombing is futile. It is probable, they added, that foreign powers with the same bases of comparison available have come to the same conclusions.

MARTIN JOHNSON DAMAGE SUIT IS LOST BY WIDOW

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 29.—(AP)—A Superior court jury tonight denied Mrs. Osa Johnson the $706,539 damages she sought for the death of her husband, Martin Johnson, explorer, and her own injuries in an airplane crash near here Jan. 12, 1937.

The jury found for the defendants, Western Air Express corporation and United Airports company, after deliberating since this forenoon.

Mrs. Johnson charged negligence by the defendants in the operation of a transport plane which crashed in the San Gabriel mountains shortly before reaching Union Air terminal at Burbank. The defendants contended the accident was unavoidable.

MEET TO DESIGN ISLAND AIRPORT BUILDING PLANS

May Use Dredgings from Sag Channel.

Ways and means of building the proposed downtown island air terminal for Chicago were considered yesterday at a meeting of representatives of the city, the park district, and the Works Progress administration. The meeting followed approval of preliminary plans for the airport by the federal Civil Aeronautics authority, announced on Wednesday in Washington, D. C.

Airport engineers of the authority approved a layout for a 325 acre flying field. They suggested its location at a point in Chicago harbor about 2,750 feet east of Northerly Island. The island's axis would be an extension of Chicago's 16th street.

To Loop in Eight Minutes.

Airplane passengers landing at such an island terminal could reach the loop in eight minutes. The time required now for traveling from Chicago airport to the loop is approximately forty minutes.

A. M. Crain, chief engineer for the Illinois WPA, represented the federal government at yesterday's meeting, which was concerned with engineering phases of the project. He suggested that dirt and rocks dredged from the Sag channel during construction of Chicago's sewage disposal system might become the chief source of materials for filling and creating the island flying field.

"Naturally we are looking for the cheapest and most accessible material," Crain said. "One of our considerations is that large amounts of manual labor must be used efficiently in the project. We are considering proposals to have crews of men shovel dirt into barges that could be floated to the desired spot. Once there other crews could shovel the dirt into the lake.

Plan to Reduce Costs.

"We also are considering a scheme that we believe would be unique from the engineering standpoint. This would be a method of combining a bulkhead and breakwater for the proposed field. If the combination works out it would reduce the cost of the project materially."

The Sag channel dredgings represent millions of cubic yards of dirt, sand, limestone, and gravel that are now entirely wasted. The material taken from the channel was piled alongside the banks of the channel in huge mounds rising to the height of 100 feet or more for nearly twenty miles from the Calumet river to the point where it joins the Chicago Sanitary and Ship canal.

Easy to Transport Material.

While the exact amount of this material is unknown it is certain that between fifteen and twenty million cubic yards are available. Rough estimates indicate that nearly 17,000,000 cubic yards of fill will be needed for the island airport. It is pointed out that the proximity of the Sag dredgings to a water channel makes the problem of transporting it an easy one.

Use of 1,800,000 cubic yards of clay to be taken from the Chicago subway borings also is contemplated.

Chop Up 4 More Gaming Joints; Total Now 756

State's Attorney Courtney's police continued their ax raids on gambling places yesterday. At 1252 Madison street the raiders made a second visit in two days. The other places raided were at 1521 East 63d street, 1020 North Clark street, and 874 North Wabash avenue. These brought to 756 the number of places raided and chopped by the state's attorney's police in the war on handbooks.

Shot by Lover

MRS. INEZ DEVINNEY.

Jacques Affelder Jr. — Barton Devinney.

Apparently disappointed in love, Jacques Affelder Jr., 36 years old, shot and killed himself yesterday in his room at 3906 Lake Park avenue after critically wounding Mrs. Inez Devinney, 39 years old. Physicians in the Chicago Memorial hospital last night operated in an effort to save her life.

For an hour and a half the hospital denied that Mrs. Devinney was a patient. Hyde Park police had difficulty in seeing her to obtain a statement. Her husband, Barton, a house painter, was with her.

Later Mrs. Devinney said that Affelder, whom she had known for a year, had been on a drinking spree he started Christmas eve in her home at 442 Oakwood boulevard. She visited him yesterday, Mrs. Devinney said, at his invitation. After an argument, Mrs. Devinney said, Affelder remarked: "If I can't have you, no one else can." Then, Mrs. Devinney said, he shot her in the back. Affelder, a taxi driver, was separated from his wife and two children.

3 WPA WORKERS AND WIFE HELD TO JURY IN ROBBERY

Three WPA workers and the wife of one of them were held to the Lake county grand jury yesterday by Police Magistrate Clarence Brown at Waukegan. They confessed a robbery last Thursday to get funds for a Christmas celebration.

The four are George Foster of Zion, John Paddock of 427 Franklin street, Waukegan; Robert Holm of 647 Walnut street, Waukegan, all charged with robbery, and Holm's wife, Adele, charged with being an accessory to the holdup.

The band confessed they drove to the home of Mark Caldwell at 536 North avenue, Waukegan, and took $341 from him. They spent the money in Christmas presents for each other and in making whoopee in several Lake county taverns, they told police.

LET JUDGES FIX CRIME PENALTY, LAWYERS URGE

State's Attorneys and Law Tutors Rap Paroles.

The wisdom of allowing judges, rather than juries or parole boards, to fix the prison sentences of criminals, was under discussion yesterday at two gatherings of men high in the legal profession. The consensus was that the judges should have this power.

At the meeting of the Association of American Law Schools in the Stevens hotel, transfer of the power to fix sentences from juries to judges in state criminal courts was recommended by the committee on survey of crime, criminal law, and court procedure.

State's Attorneys for Change.

At the forty-second annual convention of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association in the Morrison hotel, sentiment was freely expressed in favor of a determinate sentence law. Under such a law judges fix the number of years to be served, whereas under the present Illinois indeterminate sentence statute the parole board actually makes the final decision.

However, the parole system was defended by Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, in a speech before the prosecutors.

Chamberlin took issue with the Ward-Schnackenberg bill, which was passed by the last session of the general assembly, but vetoed by Gov. Horner. This bill would have empowered the trial judge to fix the maximum and minimum sentences for offenders. Chamberlin admitted a similar bill seemed certain of passage at the assembly session which opens next week.

Fears Higher Prison Costs.

Chamberlin asserted this would result in increased prison costs because of longer incarceration of some criminals, inequality of sentences imposed by different judges for like offenses, and destruction of the parole system.

"The argument that one-half of the crime in Chicago is committed by parolees is impressive, although not in accord with the facts," he said. "It may properly be used in criticism of the manner of the administration of the parole system, but not for destruction of the theory of parole."

These arguments were met and others advanced in behalf of determinate sentences by John E. Dougherty, state's attorney of Peoria county, in an interview yesterday.

Assails Parole Abuses.

"The determinate sentence law should be passed," said Dougherty, "because it will end a host of parole abuses. There is no reason why Illinois courts should not follow the procedure of the federal courts. Federal judges always impose definite sentences.

"In federal prisons criminals are never eligible for parole consideration until they have served one-third of their terms. In contrast, a prisoner sentenced to a year to life in Illinois may be paroled in eleven months.

"There are never any scandals in the federal parole system.

"At the time the defendant is to be sentenced the trial judge and state's attorney know all the facts of the case. The parole board knows little of the facts when it takes up the case months or years later."

Report on Georgia Statute.

The report of the survey committee to the law school association commented on a recent Georgia statute that put the sentencing power in the hands of the trial judge.

"It provides that the judge shall investigate case histories in imposing sentence, and he is given wide powers of suspending sentence and of granting probation," the report said. "There is a strong belief among lawyers and judges that there are distinct advantages in having the jury fix the penalty, especially in misdemeanor cases.

"On a balance, however, of all the considerations that are involved, it seems clear that this sentencing power should be placed in the judge rather than the jury."

In discussing increased punishment for repeated offenders, the same committee reported that a study of 2,400 robbers recently released from prisons in Illinois, Massachusettes, and New Jersey showed that the repeater served little more time than the first offender.

LAIRD TO MOVE AIRPLANE PLANT TO LA PORTE, IND.

E. M. [Matty] Laird, builder of many famous racing airplanes, announced here yesterday that he will move his aircraft construction corporation from Chicago to Laporte, Ind. A new plant will be erected there, and the Laird corporation will begin production of two and three place cabin monoplanes already designed.

The new plant, on the Laporte airport, is expected to be in operation by next summer. The Laird company, now located at 5917 South Cicero avenue, is one of the two airplane manufacturing companies in Chicago.

Laird racing planes won the Bendix and Thompson trophy races in the early '30s, and Matty Laird rebuilt in his shops here the Laird-Turner racer in which Col. Roscoe Turner won the Thompson trophy race at Cleveland last September, setting a new world's record of 283 miles an hour for closed course speed flying.

Permit Asked to Operate New York-Bermuda Airline

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—(AP)—The New York and Bermudian Air Line asked the civil aeronautics authority today for permission to operate a passenger service between Newark, N. J., and Plaice's Point, Bermuda. The company proposed to make four round trips weekly with new 24 passenger amphibian planes.

18 GUNS SEIZED IN BIG HOME OF LEO MONGOVEN

Dry Era Gangster Dodges Lake County Raid.

Deputy sheriffs and special constables from Waukegan, in a raid on the Lake county home of Leo Mongoven, a prohibition era public enemy, seized eighteen guns and more than 100 pounds of ammunition, it was learned last night. The home, which has twenty rooms, is at Bluff Lake, three and a half miles southwest of Antioch.

The raiders, however, missed Mongoven. He was being sought and his home was being watched by armed details.

His arsenal, meanwhile, is in the hands of Coroner Frank Walsh, of Cook county. The guns are to be put through ballistics tests to determine whether they have been used in any crimes. They include six shotguns, five rifles, three revolvers, two carbines, and two derringers. Most of them were loaded.

Special Prosecutor Leads Raid.

The raid, on Wednesday night, was led by Special State's Attorney Charles E. Jack, of Lake county.

Mongoven was notorious as first lieutenant to George [Bugs] Moran when Moran headed a north side beer syndicate in prohibition days. Mongoven has made his home in Lake county for several years.

The raid was an outgrowth of Jack's investigation, which began last July, into slot machine and other forms of gambling. Search warants were obtained. They alleged that guns were stored in Mongoven's home. Mongoven has tried to keep the place secluded. Only three weeks ago he was enjoined from barricading a road leading to a tavern and hunting lodge.

Nine men were in the raiding party, including Jack's chief investigator, Claude Warner, and deputies from Sherif Thomas E. Kennedy's office. They said they were greeted by howls and barks from about a dozen police dogs on the place. The only person in the house was Harry La Bounty, 55 years old, a caretaker.

Shells with Single Balls.

Some of the shotgun shells were loaded with single steel balls rather than small shot. One shotgun had a 15 inch barrel and another a 17 inch barrel. Jack said both guns violate the federal law establishing a minimum length of 18 inches.

Most of the guns were of the repeater, automatic, or double barrel type, and also mostly of heavy caliber, Jack said. The numbers had been effaced from some of the weapons. As a result Jack obtained additional warants yesterday charging Mongoven and Caretaker La Bounty, who was arrested, with defacing the gun numbers.

Jack said he wants to talk to Mongoven not only about the arsenal, but about slot machines in Lake county. He said Mongoven was reputedly the head of a slot machine syndicate.

GERMANS DICKER FOR HUGE CZECH ARMS FACTORY

Expect to Buy the Skoda Works Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—Germany's already gigantic armament industry soon will be reinforced by one of Europe's biggest and most efficient armaments concerns, the Skoda Works, Ltd., political circles predicted here today.

The sale of the controling interest in this firm by the Schneider-Creusot works in France to Czecho-Slovakia was interpreted as meaning that Skoda soon will come under German influence. The Krupp company in Essen and the Borsig Rhine metal works were mentioned as the most likely buyers.

Urges Czechs to Give Up Friends.

The Berliner Zeitung, organ of the German armed forces, said: "After the collapse of the system of political friendships in southeastern Europe, the economic relations based on such friendships now fall apart. The more Czecho-Slovakia liquidates her political friends the better are the prospects for satisfactory relations between this country and its greatest neighbor, pan-Germany."

The extent to which the Skoda works already depends on Germany was disclosed by the Berliner Tageblatt which said: "In recent times Skoda suffered from a marked shortage of coal which was only removed after the Skoda works got in touch with the German authorities. Coal now is supplied from the Bruex coal mines." Under the Munich agreement, Czecho-Slovakia ceded these mines to Germany.

Rumania to Be Affected.

Rumania also would be affected indirectly if Germany obtains the Skoda works. Rumania placed large contracts for armaments with this concern before the Munich agreement. The acquisition of the Skoda branch in Brunn also would increase German influence in that Czecho-Slovak territory.

How far Germany's industrial preparedness for war has progressed was disclosed by Rudolf Brinckmann, secretary of state in the ministry of economics.

"Without presumption it can be said that German industry is surpassed by no other country in the systematic completion of military requirements," he said. "German economic life is completely permeated by the military spirit."

Germany's output of pig iron in 1938 was announced as 18,600,000 tons, compared with 16,000,000 in 1937. Raw steel production increased by 3,460,000 tons to 23,300,000 tons.

30,000 Italian Laborers to Work on Nazi Projects

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—Thirty thousand Italian laborers will come to Germany in the early future to work on construction projects, thereby augmenting the reich's depleted labor force, it was announced here today. Dr. Robert Ley, leader of the German labor front, made the deal on his recent trip to Italy, and also arranged for 30,000 German Strength Through Joy vacationers to visit northern Italy between March and May, 1939.

U. S. LAUNCHES HUGE DRIVE ON FOREIGN SPIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—The United States today began a counterespionage drive involving more than 50,000 government agents, clerks, and even messengers in a campaign against foreign spies.

The first step came from the treasury department, where 23,000 internal revenue employés of every classification were instructed by confidential circulars to report any hint of foreign espionage. Also instructed or scheduled to be instructed in the treasury department were 500 employés in secret service, 9,000 in customs, 400 in the narcotics bureau, and 10,500 in the coast guard.

Other departments said to be represented in the counterespionage program include the war department, with ninety-seven officers assigned to G-2, military intelligence; the navy, with about fifty intelligence officers; special department of justice agents, 610 postoffice inspectors, and 2,500 immigration employés of the labor department.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Guy T. Helvering issued the confidential order to the 23,000 employés in his bureau.

21 TO FACE COURT IN HUGE TREASON TRIAL IN GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—One of the biggest treason trials held since the Nazis assumed power is scheduled to begin early in January. Ernst Niekisch, former right wing writer and publisher, and twenty of his friends will be tried by the People's court as plotters against leading men of the Nazi régime.

Niekisch formerly edited the rightist periodical Widerstand. He was arrested in 1934 and placed in a concentration camp.

After serving several months he was released only to be rearrested in 1936. Released for lack of evidence, he is now held on a charge of organizing a terrorist group.

Asks Nazis to Exempt U. S. Jews from Ban on Managers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—The German foreign office tonight was considering a note presented today by Prentiss Gilbert, American charge d'affaires in Berlin. The note asked that American citizens of Jewish race be exempt from a decree eliminating Jews as managers or assistant managers in industrial concerns after Jan. 1.

REBEL SHIPS DRIVE FOE AGROUND ON GIBRALTAR SHORE

Shells from Naval Battle Hit British Houses.

GIBRALTAR, Dec. 30.—[Friday.]—(AP)—The Spanish government destroyer José Luis Diez was forced aground near here early today after attempting a dash for freedom through a gantlet of rebel warships.

Seven of her crew were killed and eleven wounded.

Before running aground, it was reported here, the vessel rammed and sank the 1,500-ton rebel minelayer Jupiter. Insistant gunfire from rebel land batteries at Ceuta and from the rebel cruiser Canarias and other rebel vessels forced the fleeing warship aground on Eastern beach, about fifty yards from shore.

The destroyer began landing a few wounded, who were brought to a hospital in Gibraltar. The extent of casualties was not determined immediately. Apparently the José Luis Diez was not hit directly.

Rebel shells struck two houses of villagers living on Catalan bay, injuring some of the occupants. The houses, which were in British territory, were destroyed. Catalan bay is on the eastern shore of the Gibraltar peninsula.

The José Luis Diez had been undergoing repairs in the refuge of this British port since last August 27, when she limped in after a punishing battle in the strait with rebel warships.

Rebels Breach Loyalist Line.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish frontier], Dec. 29.—(AP)—The Spanish rebel offensive against Catalonia was reported tonight to have broken through the government central front at Balaguer and rolled back the right flank through Granadella.

The day's most important and violent action was at the Balaguer bridgehead, in a vital zone on the Segre river front about fifteen miles northeast of Lerida.

There, the rebels said, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's planes, tanks and men finally battered a breach in the fortified line to which government troops had clung stubbornly against all attacks since the rebels' general offensive started on Dec. 23. The width of the gap was not stated.

A government communique acknowledged that the rebels had occupied the Montero heights of the Balaguer sector after a series of "costly" infantry attacks.

On two flanks, the government communique said, the rebel offensive was held at a standstill, with the southern battle raging around Bobera, just southwest of Granadella.

Comparison of military advices from both sides showed that the day had been one of the rebels' most fruitful since the start of the drive.

On the right wing of the rebel drive, government reports acknowledged the advance had reached Granadella, which the rebels reported captured, but the bulk of the government's defenders already had withdrawn to the Llena mountains, to the southeast.

Granadella is eighteen miles south of Lerida and eighty miles west of Barcelona. Earlier rebel dispatches had said that the attacking troops had captured Albages and were swinging around Granadella and cutting roads north to Soleras and south to Flix.

British Ship Bombed.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Lloyds' agent at Gibraltar reported today that an SOS had been received from the 4,236 ton British steamer Marionga, which read:

"Bombed. Crew took to boats."

The steamer's position was between Castellon, on Spain's eastern coast, and the Balearic islands, where Palma, on Mallorca, is a big Spanish rebel air base. The French vessel Oued Yquem steamed to the rescue of the Marionga.

The Marionga formerly was of Greek registry, named at one time Grelstine and later Eddystone. She carried a crew of about thirty. The freighter left Oran, Algeria, on Saturday, and her owners, Neill and Pandelis of London, said she was carrying a general cargo to Barcelona and had an observer for the nonintervention committee aboard.

Fight Naval Battle

Spanish rebel warships in a naval battle today drove aground on the Gibraltar shore (1) a loyalist warship attempting to escape a rebel trap. The rebels in the seventh day of their Catalonian drive claimed to have breached the loyalist line northeast of Lerida (2). The British steamer Marionga was bombed yesterday near the Balearic Islands (3). The crew of about thirty took to boats.

The New York Herald Tribune is closing 1938 with more department store business on its books than at any time in history, and more women's wear business carried than at any time since the peak year of 1929. The meaning of this to manufacturers, buyers and sellers of any merchandise at retail in New York during the coming year is clear. The billion dollar spending bulge incidental to World's Fair points the way. Advertisers will schedule 1939 selling where most recent retail activity in New York shows it will do most good.

BRITAIN REFUSES TO AID ROME IN ROW WITH PARIS

Chamberlain Declines to Act as Mediator.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The British government tonight appeared to be making clear to Premier Mussolini that it has no intention of furthering Italy's claims to African territories at the expense of the French unless Italian troops are withdrawn from Spain. Considerable alarm has been felt here by the disclosure that nine Italian divisions are operating in the present offensive of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, rebel commander-in-chief.

British officials do not believe there is anything particularly alarming in the row between the Italians and the French. But they apparently hope that the situation can be used to put pressure on Mussolini to carry out his promises to get out of Spain.

Refuses to Act as Mediator.

The British, it was indicated, are giving Mussolini to understand that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain will not act as mediator in the Italian-French dispute when he goes to Rome on Jan. 11. They also are letting it be known that Il Duce will have no chance to play the game with regard to France's African empire which Adolf Hitler played in central Europe. Chamberlain presumably is telling Italy she had better drop the theatrical demonstrations and enter direct negotiations.

[Dispatches from Rome said the Italians insisted that Chamberlain would be unable to avoid the role of mediator. It was indicated that Mussolini intended to raise the French-Italian problem in his conversations with the prime minister.]

Need No Aid: France.

The British and French governments are in close contact over the situation. Roger Cambon, French chargé d'affaires, gave the British foreign office a report on the steps Premier Edouard Daladier of France is taking in face of Italian threats to Tunisia, French protectorate in North Africa, and French Somaliland in East Africa.

Cambon was believed to have told the British that the French government is fully confident of its ability to deal with Mussolini's threats and will not require any assistance from Britain. It was reported that the British informed Cambon that Chamberlain will not intercede with the French in behalf of Mussolini. But that, of course, might become a different matter if Il Duce should consent to deal about Spain.

France Ready to Yield.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—(AP)—A person close to the government tonight said that France was willing to grant some colonial concessions to Italy to keep the peace of Europe, but without actually yielding any land.

After putting up a strong military and naval front to discourage Fascist ambitions for territorial expansion at the expense of the French empire, Premier Edouard Daladier's government was described as "ready to open diplomatic negotiations to appease the Italian hunger."

Two French warships and Senegalese troops were en route to Djibouti on the heels of rumors—denied in Rome—of an Italian military threat to French Somaliland.

Among possible subjects for negotiations were a new statute for Italians in Tunisia, further concessions on the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway, and a voice in the direction of the Suez canal.

Demand Direct Negotiations.

But the French insisted that French-Italian problems must be settled by direct negotiations between Rome and Paris rather than through London and Berlin or any four power conference like the Munich assembly which dismembered Czecho-Slovakia Sept. 29.

A brief storm which arose in the chamber of deputies over communist charges that Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet had withheld news of Italy's denunciation of the 1935 colonial pact was weathered safely by the Daladier government.

The deputies approved special foreign ministry expenditures for 1938 which provided occasion for the debate.

Bonnet explained he announced the denunciation as soon as the cabinet was informed. Deputies said the denunciation was conveyed in a note handed to the French ambassador to Rome Dec. 17. It was disclosed Dec. 22.

The chamber voted 309 to 279 to suspend session until Bonnet could appear to answer questions under a motion by Deputy Gabriel Peri, a communist. Bonnet appeared at once. Peri charged the foreign minister's attitude had given Italy grounds for believing her aspirations might be achieved as were the German demands against Czecho-Slovakia.

Map Faces New Change

(Story in adjoining column.)

Another change in the map of Europe, involving Italy, Hungary, and Jugo-Slavia, is anticipated by European diplomats. Under the proposed scheme Jugo-Slavia would cede a few border villages to Hungary, including the community of (1) Senta. Jugo-Slavia would be compensated by receiving from Italy the Adriatic port of (2) Zara.

FUEHRER AGREES TO RELAX DRIVE ON ELDERLY JEWS

LONDON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Robert T. Pell, assistant director of the intergovernmental refugee committee, said today that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had agreed to relax his campaign against elderly German Jews provided their children emigrate as soon as possible.

Pell, an official of the American state department, said he would go to Germany within the next few weeks to work out plans for the removal of "approximately 150,000 active young Jews." He said the refugee committee would ask specific assurances that elderly Jews would be guaranteed a decent living.

Pell will go to Germany as a member of a delegation including George Rublee, American director of the committee; Joseph Cotton of New York, and a British financial expert. They will see Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, using as a basis of negotiations suggestions made recently in London by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German Reichsbank.

Under this plan governments sympathetic to Jews would be asked to increase their purchases of German goods. Germany would devote part of the foreign exchange thus provided to enable Jews to transfer money into foreign currency.

Djibouti, capital of French Somaliland—Jee-boo-tee, accent on last syllable.

NEW YEAR SAFETY TIP: DRINKS AND AUTOS DON'T MIX

The National Safety council made this appeal yesterday to New Year's eve revelers: "Stay alive — don't drink and drive." The council urged pedestrians not to jaywalk. "Stay out of a car whose driver has been drinking," was its advice to every one. And to parents: "Urge your sons and daughters not to ride with drinking drivers. And set them a good example."

3 NATIONS PLAN TO CHANGE MAP OF EUROPE AGAIN

Hungary, Jugo-Slavia and Italy Figure in Deal.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The possibility of another change in the map of Europe, involving Italy, Hungary, and Jugo-Slavia, was discussed tonight with the announcement that Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Italian foreign minister, would arrive Jan. 19 on an official visit.

Milan Stoyadinovitch, Jugo-Slav premier.

Among diplomats it was said that Jugo-Slavia was being won over to the idea of making a "symbolical cession" of a few border villages to Hungary.

For this, Hungary would be expected to give up forever her persistent demands for territorial revision at the expense of Jugo-Slavia.

Serbs May Get Adriatic Port.

Jugo-Slavia would be compensated further by receiving from Italy the Adriatic port of Zara, perched on Jugo-Slavia's Dalmatian coast without any land connection with other Italian territory.

Italy's gain from this double shift, according to the belief of diplomats, would be close political and economic coöperation with Jugo-Slavia and Hungary, perhaps based on a Jugo-Slav-Hungarian pact, which Italy regards as essential to the peaceful adjustment of many problems which disturb the Balkans.

The official announcement said Ciano would be the guest for two or three days of Premier Milan Stoyadinovitch. The premier has arranged a hunting party on a government estate formerly belonging to Archduke Friedrich, a Hapsburg, at Beliye on the Hungarian border. Hungarians are expected to join the party.

Italy Serves as Mediator.

Such details lent color to belief that Italy was playing the rôle of mediator between Jugo-Slavia and Hungary.

Informed persons said that should Jugo-Slavia be persuaded to make the "symbolical cession" to Hungary it probably would be the community of Senta, largely populated by Hungarians, south of Szeged.

It was pointed out that Italy, if certain of lasting Jugo-Slav friendship in return, could well afford to give up Zara, a city of 20,000, without depriving herself of anything essential.

It was taken for granted that any Jugo-Slav-Hungarian accord would be under influence of the Rome-Berlin axis, but dominated more by Rome than Berlin. Also such an accord was envisaged as an instrument of Italian influence in southeastern Europe.

Joseph Gahlbeck, 26 years old, of Palatine, accused of being the hit and run driver whose speeding car killed a young couple last fall, was sentenced yesterday in Criminal court to a year in the Bridewell and fined $500. Judge William J. Lindsay imposed the maximum punishment on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

"If the evidence had been a little bit stronger," Judge Lindsay told Gahlback, "I would have sent you to the penitentiary for manslaughter."

Gahlback was indicted for manslaughter in connection with the deaths last Aug. 28 of Miss Jean Szajko, 18 years old, 2142 Medill avenue, and Nicholas Garbus, 21, of 2333 North Hamilton avenue. They were struck while walking along Milwaukee avenue near Wheeling.

GRAYBEARDS OF LANGUAGE

By CALEB

WHO OF us has not had frequent moments of wonder about words? Where did they begin? What keeps them in circulation? What of their "mortality" along the march of the centuries? What about their vitality and longevity?

Space so brief as this can suggest only the fascination of answers to such queries. For man's life and man's language have run curiously parallel courses, embedded deep in romance and vicissitude. . . . From the dim dawn-days when it was writtenly conveyed in crude markings on bark and shells, and spokenly intimated in intonations and gestures, down to the infinite refinement of its expression today, the story is human beyond belief.

Take the single instance of so-called "slang." Originally the idiom or cant of thieves, gypsies and vagabonds, it is in and of itself a division of language picturesque as a pirate coast—racy as the winds in a pirate's sails. Yet much of it—far more than any but scholars suspect—has survived to our own time, livening conventional English with a tang, speed and instantness of meaning which literary English wholly lacks. Eventually, too, parts of such jargon slip by the guardians of purism, and are "adopted into the family"—become English in good standing.

Many another telling phrase, however, was scholar's English in long ago periods; but declined as it survived, and is now either so new or so old that it is merely a snappy wisecrack! Such as "my better half," to indicate one's wife; first used by Sir Philip Sidney in 1586. Or "nuts to you," which traces to John Byrom's "nuts to Johnathan," written in 1773. Or "the game is up," and "not so hot," coined by Shakespeare more than three centuries ago. Or "tell it to the marines," used by Sir Walter Scott in 1730. . . .

Marked first editions of works in which occur more than a hundred and fifty such graybeards of language were exhibited last Fall at the University of Buffalo library. They are typical of speech vagaries which make even a casual study one of the most intriguing of pastimes. Language makes possible man's intellectual existence; and it is of the deepest significance that our vocabulary of today exceeds that of any other tongue. For civilization's greatest need—to express, in order to progress—finds its greatest hope in the fact that English is tomorrow's likeliest world-language.

COUNTY BOARDS URGED IN DRIVE TO RETAIN WPA

Plan Proposed by Barkley Immediately Assailed.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—To offset a growing demand in congress for abolition of the WPA, the Roosevelt administration today proposed the creation of so-called "nonpartisan boards" in every county in the United States to investigate complaints of political activity in the work relief organization.

Senator A. W. Barkley.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] outlined the plan which has President Roosevelt's approval. He said the county boards to be set up would not only keep an eye on the spending of relief money for political purposes but would receive complaints from WPA workers and other citizens concerning waste and extravagance in the Works Progress administration.

Senators Quick to Attack.

Barkley also suggested the adoption of civil service for all WPA officials in an attempt to improve the caliber of the administrative personnel of the agency.

The plan was immediately assailed by several senators who doubted the effectiveness of such "nonpartisan boards," especially after Barkley said he saw no reason why the "nonpartisan" members of the boards should not be appointed by the WPA. Moreover, the boards would act merely in an advisory capacity and would have no real power to curb evils in the distribution of funds, it was pointed out.

"Not only for the good of the country but for the good of the relief workers themselves, WPA must come to an end," Senator Pat McCarran [Dem., Nev.] declared.

Study PWA as Job Giving Agency.

McCarran and other senators suggested that congress study the possibility of establishing the Public Works administration, which makes loans and grants for projects of a permanent nature, as a semi-permanent job-giving agency in place of the WPA which has been criticized for squandering millions on leaf-raking and hole-digging activities.

But Barkley insisted that the "nonpartisan board" system would clean up WPA. He said he doubted if legislative authority would be needed to set up the boards which would be composed of "outstanding men in each community."

DISBAR LAWYER FOR TAKING $500 ON JOB PROMISE

Attorney Edward Richard Piszatowski, 1355 Chicago avenue, has been disbarred by the Illinois Supreme court, it was learned yesterday. A petition for a rehearing of the disbarment order, handed down Dec. 15, will be heard the first week in February.

The high court held that Piszatowski, twice a Republican candidate for congress from the 8th district and a former assistant corporation counsel, was guilty of dishonorable conduct involving moral turpitude. The attorney was accused of taking $500 from Leo Madden, 2608 Haddon avenue, a former policeman, on his promise that he would get Madden back on the police rolls.

A report recommending that Piszatowski be disbarred was made to the Supreme court by the board of managers of the Chicago Bar association. The board acted as a friend of the court in hearing evidence on the case.

PARENTS CAN'T AGREE, SO BOTH LOSE CHILDREN

Walter and Edna Nay could not agree as to who should have custody of their two daughters and so neither parent will get to keep the girls. Judge Rudolph Desort placed them in permanent custody of the court yesterday when he granted Mrs. Nay a divorce.

Mrs. Nay, 35 years old, lives at 10214 South Park avenue. She testified that her husband had her committed to the state hospital for the insane at Manteno after she suffered a nervous breakdown in 1936. She was adjudged sane and freed a year later.

For more than a year she and her husband have been disputing custody of the daughters, Barbara, 12 years old, and Shirley, 9. Mrs. May's attorney, Norman Becker, said the girls are now in a private school. The divorce was granted on the ground of cruelty.

Union League Member Has Money, Doesn't Want It

A member of the Union League club has nearly $500 that belongs to somebody else. He found it in the loop a month ago, and since then has been trying in vain to find the owner. Up to yesterday he had received fourteen replies to advertisments, but none has been able to identify the money. The Union leaguer, who withheld his name, asked that inquiries be addressed to the club.

NATION LOOKING TO CONGRESS TO CURB PRESIDENT

Unprecedented Power Given Roosevelt.

his predecessors in the entire history of the country.

For the period 1933-1938, the President has been entrusted with the discretionary spending of more than 20 billion dollars. During the entire period from 1789 to 1933, the amounts available for discretionary spending by the chief executive, mostly for national defense at the time of the civil war, aggregated only 1 billion, 687 million dollars.

In the discretionary spending of these gigantic blank check appropriations, the President exercises far more than the appropriating power reserved to congress by the constitution. He exercises such powers as building dams, reservoirs and flood control works; putting the government into the real estate business with allotments from the federal housing authority; putting the government into competition with private enterprise through PWA allotments for public utility plants or farm security administration grants for coöperative factories; or putting the government into any other field of endeaver, including state political campaigns.

Virtual War Making Power.

As related in a previous article, the President has a virtual war-making power through his discretionary authority under the emergency banking act of 1933 to institute a boycott on financial transactions, and thus on trade, with foreign countries. This power could be used to lay economic sanctions upon an aggressor nation, such as Germany, Italy, or Japan.

The President was accused of dictatorship ambitions by leaders of his own party when he submitted his bill to subjugate the Supreme court in 1937 and his bill to reorganize the federal government along authoritarian lines in 1938.

The President's message to congress explaining the court packing scheme was accompanied by the bill, the proposed law, all ready for rubber stamping. Such a thing was unprecedented in American history.

Thwarted by Congress.

These assumptions of authority were thwarted by congress. The President was rebuffed by the Supreme court when he assumed the power to remove William E. Humphrey, a federal trade commissioner, because their minds did not go along together. Nevertheless, he assumed the same power to remove Dr. Arthur E. Morgan from the chairmanship of the Tennessee Valley authority, although the act specifically vested in congress the power of removing members of the board. Senator George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.] author of the act, said the provision was put there to place the board members beyond the power of any President.

The Supreme court, in its decision invalidating the NRA, put an end to the most sweeping grant of discretionary power ever delegated to the President. The National Industrial Recovery act gave the President dictatorial control over the trade practices and labor policies of the whole of American industry.

The President had blanket authority to create by executive order as many new agencies as he saw fit and to delegate his own delegated authority to subordinates. Under authority of some 600 executive orders, having the force of law, the NRA alone produced more than 10,000 pages of administrative law, according to an estimate by the American Bar association.

Vast Power Over Business.

Although the NRA is no longer in existence, the administration has "new instruments of public power" for the control of business and industry in the fair labor standards act, under which wages and hours are regulated politically subject to the limits imposed by congress; in the national labor relations act, under which the labor relations board exercises dictatorial discretionary power over employer-employé relations; in the securities act of 1933 and the securities and exchange act of 1934, under which five politically appointed commissioners, acting as plaintif, witness, prosecutor, judge, and jury exercise a dictatorship over the world of finance.

The bituminous coal industry is under the dictatorial control of a "little NRA," with a politically appointed commission to fix minimum prices and prescribe trade practices in the minutest detail.

The agricultural adjustment act of 1933 gave the administration dictatorial powers over the nation's agriculture, and while it, like the NRA, was held unconstitutional, the agricultural adjustment act of 1938 gives the secretary of agriculture even broader powers.

Control Through Allotments.

The secretary must have the approval of two-thirds of the producers participating in referendum to fix compulsory marketing quotas, but actually he controls the production of basic commodities by states, counties, and individual farms by acreage allotments. Farmers who do not comply with the acreage allotments receive no benefit payments under the AAA subsidy system.

Senator Harry F. Byrd [D. Va.,] has called attention to the vast discretionary powers of thirty government corporations with authority to issue a total of 16 billion, 229 million dollars in bonds, debentures, and notes, all guaranteed by the government. To date, according to Senator Byrd, the corporations have issued contingent liabilities of the government totaling 7 billion 940 million dollars, and more than three-fourths of this amount actually has been sold to the public.

U. S. in Power Business.

Besides thus indirectly increasing the public debt these corporations engage in a vast field of activities hitherto unknown to government except in a collectivist state.

The Tennessee Valley Authority produces and sells electric power. The Commodity Credit corporation and the Surplus Commodities corporation have power to buy, sell, or lend upon commodities, agricultural or otherwise. The Reconstruction Finance corporation has power, through the purchase of preferred stock, to engage in the banking, insurance, and mortgage loan businesses.

The Farm Credit administration engages in the farm mortgage business and the Home Owners' Loan corporation in the real estate business. The Federal Housing administration insures real estate mortgages and the United States Housing authority makes loans and grants for the construction of so-called slum clearance projects.

The Rural Electrification administration makes loans for the construction of utility systems and the installation of equipment and the wiring of rural homes. The Export-Import bank has power to finance and facilitate exports and imports, and is preparing to undermine Nazi Germany in the South American markets.

Ex-Policeman Tries to Beat Train at Crossing; Killed

John Kenny, a retired city policeman, was killed yesterday when he was struck by the Rocket, Rock Island railroad streamliner, at the 103d street and Vincennes avenue crossing. He was 75 years old and lived at 1221 West 78th place. Witnesses said he ducked under the automatic gates and tried to run across the tracks ahead of the train.

JEALOUS INSANITY BLAMED BY JURY IN DUAL SLAYING

Roy Gadke's jealousy was blamed yesterday at the inquest into the tragedy in which he shot himself and his wife to death Wednesday in their apartment at 1041 East 47th street. Gadke pushed the couple's three little children into the bathroom just before he opened fire.

Witnesses told Deputy Coroner Chris J. McGarigle that the Gadkes had frequent quarrels because Gadke suspected Mrs. Gadke of other romances when she came home late from work. The jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide while Gadke was temporarily insane because of marital troubles. Gadke was 32 years old. His wife, Mary Monica, was 30.

Robbers Hold Guns on 4; Get $2,500 in Men's Clothes

Four robbers drove away with 100 suits and overcoats valued at $2,500 yesterday from a clothing store at 6442 Cermak road, Berwyn. Two of the robbers, armed with revolvers, stood guard over the owners, Otto and Jerry Malacek, the janitor, and a customer while the others transferred the clothing from the racks to their car. Jerry Malacek fired four futile shots after them as they drove away.

WISHES FAMILY HAPPY NEW YEAR, THEN HANGS SELF

Walter Bozen left his wife and three children at a gay Christmas party and went home early on Wednesday night. When they returned they retired, assuming he had gone to sleep in a downstairs bedroom, as he often did.

Yesterday morning they found him hanged in the basement of their home at 2850 North Hamlin avenue. On a table was a note that read, "Good-by and Happy New Year." Police said Bozen, who was 49 years old, might have been despondent over inability to get work as a tailor.

FARM MACHINERY MAKER SEIZED ON FORGERY WARANT

Taylorville, Ill., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—John J. Ulrich, 28 years old, president of a Shelbyville farm machinery firm, was arrested today on a forgery charge. State's Attorney John W. Coale said a special Christian county grand jury may be impaneled to consider the case.

Ulrich was head of the Ulrich Implement company, which manufactured piston expanders until it closed several days ago. It had been in existence for nine years and employed about twenty persons.

The official was seized on a warant charging he presented a forged check for $700 to the First National Bank of Assumption, Ill. It was indicated, however, that other losses were involved, for Justice of the Peace Dean Dunbar said he probably would fix Ulrich's bond at about $50,000.

Bank officials who obtained the warant said an investigation was being made of notes on which they had made loans to the manufacturer.

SUES RAILROAD FOR $50,000.

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Cora V. Daugherty, a boilermaker's helper, fell and was fatally injured while repairing an engine.

MANKIND TO RISE OVER DICTATORS, SAYS SCIENTIST

Victory in Ageless Quest for Freedom Is Cited.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Richmond, Va., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—The spirit of mankind is never dominated for long. Kings put man under the yoke; man resisted and asserted his freedom. Now come the dictators with their regimented states. The era of the kings passed. The dictators can look for no better fate.

Dr. John R. Swanton of Smithsonian institution made these statements today before the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Swanton is the dean of the country's ethnologists, who study the division of mankind into races and their origins, distribution, and relations.

Mankind's Triumph Told.

"In spite of the efforts of political, social or clerical groups to coerce the spirit of man," he said, "man in all ages has been able to resist and reassert his freedom.

"Christianity, the great revolution of the 18th century, and the growth of science have been man's answer to all attempts to dominate him. Those who took part in these victories had visions of truth and justice beyond that prevalent in the world around them. That's why they won."

Regimentation, said Dr. Swanton, was centuries old before Hitler and Mussolini came along. But such regimentation was designed to care for the underprivileged. It was a government of law and custom that flourished in primitive communities. Except for certain taboos, private lives were not interfered with. Rights of the individual and family were respected.

A Government of Men.

"But the modern regimented state," he continued, "is a government of men rather than of laws. What is worse, it is a government in which foreign policy is a major interest and military motive is a primary concern.

"The dictator knows that fear and hate will induce masses of people to submit to regimentation. So he sets up a bogey to keep in the minds of the people. This bogey may be supplied by a foreign country, a capitalist or communist class or party, or by a religious group.

"The dictator can't afford to have any one disagree with him. So there must be no opposition press and no dissenting voices."

This, Dr. Swanton said, cannot go on indefinitly. The dictator's slogans grow stale and be becomes the butt of jokes, first whispered, then told openly. Then he must prime the prejudice pump with a foreign war or the end of the régime is in sight.

Cites Blow to Civilization.

He said dictatorships do great harm to civilization before their fall. They destroy family happiness, making it doubtful that high pressure methods of creating potential cannon fodder will succeed.

"You cannot raise men and women to be cogs in a machine without endangering their usefulness for anything else," he said. "The damage to science is great, for scholarship withers wherever and whenever it must subscribe in advance to political, social, financial, or economic superstitions."

Other addresses and papers of the day dealt with a variety of subjects, which included the relationship of religion and science; a hormone that makes hens crow; the difference between the dreams of men and women; the discovery of a manganese pavement on the ocean floor, and the development of an electron microscope.

Science and Religion Meet.

Sir Richard Gregory, editor of Nature, a London science magazine, said that while there are differences of opinion on the respective fields of religion and science they meet on common ground in the pursuit of truth and its influence upon human life and conduct.

"In science there are no final interpretations or unchangeable hypotheses," he said. "If the same principle were recognized in theology religion would share some of the vitality of the natural sciences."

The hormone which produces the basso effect in hens is called testosterone. It was described by W. C. Allee and N. E. Collias of the University of Chicago. It already has been reported by physicians as giving ageing men renewed enery. The experiments with the hens indicated it can be used to relieve human beings of inferiority complexes. Meek hens who never pecked back at their sisters were injected with the hermone and soon ruled the roost. They even crowed about it.

Women's Dreams Studied.

Dr. Charles M. Diserens of the University of Cincinnati, reporting on dreams, said that women more often dream of seeing colors and hearing music and have more nightmares. Men have more dreams that are embarrassing and dream more often that they are thirsty.

Manganese, widely used in the manufacture of steel, exists in vast slabs covering many square miles of ocean bottom, said Charles S. Piggot of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. Why it's there in that form is not known. The manganese was discovered with the aid of depth bombs, which drove a can-shaped bit into the rocks of the ocean bottom.

A new microscope that magnifies objects 1,000,000 times was demonstrated by Dr. V. K. Zworykin of the Radio Corporation of America. With it disease viruses, such as cause colds, infantile paralysis, and smallpox, are visible. Bacteria look like basketballs. The atomic particles called electrons are used in the microscope to convert unseeable things into visual images.

WAR VETERAN DIES OF FALL.

Jacob Muszynski, 61 years old, a world war veteran, died yesterday in the Hines hospital of injuries suffered when he fell in his home at 1462 North Fairfield avenue on Dec. 19.

MRS. VIVIAN BRANSFIELD.

Mrs. Vivian Bransfield had one complaint to make about her husband. He deserted her, she told Judge Oscar Nelson when she came into court yesterday with her attorney, Frank B. Teed. And so she asked a divorce from Michael K. Bransfield, a paving contractor who, she said, is a grandson of the late Michael J. Bransfield, one time city treasurer. Mrs. Bransfield is 28 years old. She lives at 1111 Balmoral avenue. A decision in the case is expected soon.

U. S.-JAPANESE AMITY IS URGED BY GEN. MOSELEY

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, U. S. A., retired, today recommended that the United States effectuate an enduring peace with Japan in order to leave its entire fleet available for duty in the Atlantic ocean. Gen. Moseley spoke here to 500 Republican party leaders.

He urged the American people to continue their crusade with the ballot within the nation, to rid the country of communism, and to set an example for domestic orderliness. He criticized the attack on German leadership by Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, although he did not mention Ickes by name.

"While we all abhor the brutal treatment of refugees in Germany," he said, "we do not alleviate their suffering by entering a name calling contest with German leaders. I have three sons and I do not want them led to war to sustain a cabinet officer in his choice vocabulary. Although I hold no brief for Mr. Hitler, I would much prefer to have him release a barrage of names that would accurately describe that same particular cabinet officer."

Admits Slaying 5 to Steal Coins and Bits of Clothing

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Solicitor General Samuel A. Cann said tonight Marion Hunter, 25 years old, a Negro, confessed the slaying of five persons here on Dec. 21 in a robbery in which he obtained only dimes, nickels, and pennies from slot machines, a shotgun, and bits of clothing. J. S. Tillman, his wife, and two young daughters were bludgeoned to death with an iron pipe as they slept in their two room home. Thomas Chester, watchman at a nearby filling station, was found shot to death.

EXTENT OF SOVIET HELP TO CHINESE BARED BY SURVEY

Instruct Army and Flyers, Provide Planes.

KWEILIN, Kwangsi Province, China, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The extent of soviet Russian aid to China in both supplies and personnel is one of the most closely guarded secrets in the Chinese-Japanese war. Even so, there are enough evidences to justify estimates.

Any visitor to this capital of Kwangsi, 400 miles southwest of Hankow, can see a score of Russian military instructors sent here to demonstrate new Russian artillery and machine guns.

A hundred miles farther west in Kwangsi, at Liuchow, there is a group of seventy Russian aviators and mechanics.

Seen At Many Posts.

Near the borders of Tibet, in the western province of Szechwan, several small groups of Russian pilots, varying from eight to twenty men each, are giving advanced instruction to Chinese flyers.

Another Russian group, at Suchow in the northwest province of Kansu where the highway from central Asia crosses the Chinese frontier, is said to number 300 automobile mechanics and drivers and possibly forty air instructors.

There have been frequent rumors that Russian staf officers are replacing the former German military advisers of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. To investigate these rumors an Associated Press writer spent two weeks at Chiang's headquarters and visited the larger military bases, but not one Russian adviser was seen.

Including a large number of aviation mechanics whose present whereabouts are unknown, the total Russian personnel in China does not exceed 800. Its work is of a technical nature, having little or no influence on Chinese policy.

Supplies Difficult to Estimate.

The extent of Russian supplies is more difficult to estimate. Supplies began arriving by truck from soviet Russia by way of Northwest China in October, 1937, and continued for five months until spring rains washed out the road. These supplies included aviation parts and gasoline, artillery, machine guns, anti-aircraft guns, light ammunition and a few small tanks.

Estimates of the total brought by this route before last spring vary from 5,000 to 8,000 tons, although the lower figure is more probable.

After transport over the northwest highway was bogged down, Russian munitions were sent by ship through Hongkong until Canton fell on Oct. 21. A shipment of heavy artillery and large tanks for the defense of Hankow arrived by this route, but Chiang is reported to have declined to enter a political bargain involved in acceptance. Hankow fell on Oct. 26. The new tanks have not yet been used.

Largest Aid in Planes.

By far the largest Russian aid to China was the agreement to supply and equip an air force of 200 planes after January, 1938. Of approximately 500 planes flown in under this agreement most have been shot down or cracked up by Chinese pilots. The air force now is definitly less than 200 fighting planes.

The highway into the northwest has been reopened in the last few months and supplies are dribbling in again that way. For example, when this writer visited Sian, Shensi province, in October, a caravan of eighty trucks loaded with rifles arrived at Paochi, terminus of the Lunghai railway.

On return trips the Russian trucks have been carrying hides, furs, wool, and tea. In this way some of the munitions have been paid for, but the great bulk apparently has been an outright gift. The Russians argue that Chinese armies indirectly are defending the Siberian frontier.

BANDITS GET $500—IN CHECKS.

Ernest Showers, sales manager of the Apex Motor Fuel company, was robbed of between $400 and $500 in checks by two men yesterday in the company yard at 1401 North avenue.

Stewardesses in News

Marion Maguire. Helen Moseley.

Miss Marion Maguire and Miss Helen Elizabeth Moseley had cause to congratulate each other yesterday, although each is stewardess for rival aviation lines. Miss Maguire flies with United Air Lines and Miss Moseley with Transcontinental and Western Air.

Miss Maguire, according to the airline publicity office, is the youngest air hostess in the country. She is 20 years old, and a graduate nurse. She has just completed her air training course and will leave for duty on the west coast route.

Miss Moseley had a different cause for jubilation. She exhibited a pearl engagement ring, given her by Edwin J. Ahrens, pilot-dispatcher for the Airline Feeder system. They will be married Jan. 28. On their honeymoon they will be guests of Thomas D. Taggart at his French Lick Springs hotel.

JAPAN KICKS OUT CHIEF OF MILITARY AFFAIRS BUREAU

Lost Important Papers, War Office Charges.

TOKIO, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The war office announced tonight the removal of Maj. Gen. Kazumoto Machijiri as chief of its military affairs bureau on a charge of losing "important military papers."

Gen. Machijiri, a former aide de camp of Emperor Hirohito, had held the post since Oct. 5, 1937. Two of his assistants, a colonel and a major, were suspended on the same charge.

The announcement did not disclose the time or place the documents disappeared and authorities refused to comment whether they believed the papers had been misplaced or had fallen into the hands of foreign spies.

"Armed Chaos" in Nanking.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29.—(AP)—M. S. Bates, American professor of history in Nanking university, reported today that "armed chaos" existed in the Nanking region, which the Japanese occupied on Dec. 13, 1937.

"During the last year the area has been thoroughly plundered, with the process continuing; privation is common, with life maintained on a distressingly low level," Bates said in a report of findings during a survey of crop and economic conditions in the former Chinese capital and the surrounding countryside.

The investigation was made for the international relief committee.

Fight Chinese Guerrillas.

Meanwhile severe guerrilla fighting along the Tsientang river in Chekiang province southwest of Shanghai was said by Chinese to have caused 1,000 Japanese casualties. The Japanese said 254 Chinese were killed and 62 captured during a two day drive against guerrillas around Soochow, 50 miles west of Shanghai.

Another development today was the statement of a Japanese naval spokesman that the American owned Shanghai university would not be returned to its owners, despite Tokio's promises to the United States, while hostilities continued in China.

The spokesman said the adjoining area was being converted into a military zone, making it impossible for foreigners to enter. The property—53 acres on the Whangpoo river five miles below Shanghai—was occupied by Japanese in the 1937 campaign.

3 Poles Wounded in New Border Clash with Czechs

WARSAW, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The semi-official newspaper Gazeta Polska today reported a new border incident in the Teschen territory, which Poland acquired from dismembered Czecho-Slovakia. It charged that hand grenades and machine guns fired from the Czecho-Slovak side gravely wounded two Polish frontier guards and a Polish policeman at Freistadt, on the Polish side of the frontier.

CUT TAXES IN HALF.

In continuing in our masthead the plank, "Cut Taxes in Half," we regret to report that little progress has been made in the five years since it was adopted. The need for reducing taxes has, however, never been greater than now. A review of the circumstances surrounding the increase of 300 per cent in local and state taxes in the past 25 years should convince any one of the feasibility and importance of our plank.

The wave of prosperity during the 1920s did not alone affect business men, bankers, and stock buyers. It had a remarkable effect upon state and local governments. Every function of government was expanded, salaries of all public employés were boosted, and new activities were undertaken. The tax exemption conferred upon state and local bonds made it easy to get funds for building, and the electorate was willing to approve of any bond issue that was proposed. Unprecedented building activity and a speculative rise in property valuation increased the tax base, but government expenditures increased far more than property valuations, and rates were boosted year after year.

All of the states taken together spent 383 million dollars in the last year before the world war. Ten years later that had been increased to a billion and a quarter. The 2 billion dollar mark was passed in 1929, and for last year the total was over 2½ billions. The cities managed all their activities on 1 billion 844 million dollars in 1913. They had boosted their expenditures to 5 billions in 1923, and last year they spent more than 6 billion dollars.

Taxes which can conceivably be paid when times are good become a burden in periods of depression. High taxation has been a basic cause of stagnation in real estate. Property cannot be sold because potential buyers understand that to own real estate is to possess a liability for heavy public dues without the means for paying them. A cut of 50 per cent in real estate taxes would make it possible to operate buildings at a profit. A net income from real estate would be promptly capitalized, restoring prosperity to many a property owner who doesn't know where the money to pay last year's taxes is coming from.

The ills of agriculture are to a considerable extent traceable to the same source. Farmers have had to bear the same steadily increasing burden which fell upon the shoulders of their city brothers. Taxes on farm lands and buildings are, according to a government study, 155 per cent higher than before the war. And a report issued by the bureau of internal revenue showed that 65.3 per cent of farmers' profits were required to pay taxes other than federal income and excess profit taxes. If farm taxes were cut in two the net profits available to buy automobiles, clothes for the children, and barn paint would be more than doubled. This would certainly go a long way toward solving the farm problem.

By depressing the value of all kinds of real estate high taxes have thwarted efforts to bring about a revival of building construction, which is essential if jobs are to be found for any considerable number of those now unemployed. For, as long as existing properties cannot meet expenses, more money is not going to be invested in new buildings. A 50 per cent cut in all of the various kinds of taxes a property owner has to pay would make building profitable.

The power to tax is the power to control the economic welfare of the people. When the taxes are made exorbitant the power is employed to deprive the people of their prosperity. But it is also possible to employ the taxing power to promote prosperity by moderate taxation and economy of expenditures. For a number of years the taxing power has been used to destroy business. The time is at hand to employ it to revive business.

A 50 per cent cut in taxes is a sound proposition. Cutting city taxes in two would still leave mayors and aldermen with twice the money they had to spend in 1913. And states, if their revenue were cut in two, could still spend 150 per cent more than in the year before the war and keep their budgets in balance. Cutting taxes in two would bring prosperity back without resulting in the curtailment of any essential governmental service.

TRIUMPHANT DEMOCRACY.

Former Premier Van Zeeland of Belgium, sailing for home, said that Americans should appreciate their great good fortune in which he included, as observers generally do, the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The seas are not enough. The American aborigines might have asked what good the water did them. It brought the ships.

Americans are fortunate and realize it now more than ever, but their geographical situation is not the complete explanation. It helps enormously, but if the people so protected had cultivated a different behavior they could have reproduced here the evils which torment Europe and Asia. If there had been room in the mind there would have been room on the land.

Democracy is ridiculed as a failure by the peoples elsewhere who need it most and who suffer most for the lack of it. In truth it is now the triumphant form of social organization and the only successful one. In the history of mankind democracy never before was so justified. As a way of life it is made more desirable by the daily march of events in lands where the people either could not attain it or could not retain it. It is not a failure. It is a triumph. It permits a dignity of life free from the silly exhibitions of hysteria necessary to the senseless and inhuman autocracies.

The behavior pattern of the swaggering dictatorships is moronic. Their objectives are nursery nightmares. Their statesmanship is that of bedlam. With the dictators howling on the horizons democracy appears as a far advanced civilization in which the human breed has come of age.

CONGRESS AND RECOVERY.

Mr. Roosevelt has said several times that he has no must program for the 76th congress, which begins its sessions next week. This, if true, is a reversal of form, because the members of the new congress have a must program of their own. The mandate comes out of the demand for a correction of New Deal abuses of authority and proved errors in legislation and administration. There have been six years of testing of the Roosevelt program and the New Deal ideas.

The revolutionary experiments have had injurious consequences which can be stopped only by the correction of the acts of congress responsible for continued national misfortune. Specifically, the social security act, the labor relation acts, the New Deal hydro-electric program, the budget, and the government spending agencies require amendment and curtailment. Congress has the light of experience now. The New Deal program was conceived by doctrinaires who undertook to substitute government restriction, repressive regulation, and state socialism for private investment and private enterprise.

For six years these policies met no effective resistance, and the failures are now visible on every side. It has taken some time to bring the lessons home, but the November elections indicated that they have at last been taught. It is probable that as soon as congress shows its independence the encouragement will be reflected in the revival of the private enterprises which have been discouraged since 1933. The federal government has tried to run the business of the United States and has succeeded in diverting national resources from profitable enterprise to governmental use. It has absorbed a paralyzing amount of the national income and has wasted it on unproductive undertakings. When that is stopped recovery will begin.

EASY SPELLING.

The 13 year old boy who won the Illinois state spelling championship in a contest with fifty-six other boys and girls from various counties misspelled only sixteen of 200 words. Most of his misses were understandable, the words being tricky where an e would get in where an i ought to be or where two consonants would crowd into the place of one. Many people who have never been able to feel any confidence in their spelling have deplored the disposition to error which will double up consonants where they shouldn't be keeping company and which will confuse the e's and i's in words which shouldn't be too difficult to remember accurately.

THE TRIBUNE has been bold enough to experiment with new spelling, which some of its readers continue not to like, and it is true that here and there the simplification does continue to stick out like a sore thumb, as, for instance, lether, aile, herth, and hefer. A person going down an aile still seems to be starting out on some adventure into the unknown, pursued by a pernicious disease.

However, we persist in spite of outcries, of which there is no derth. The crum of comfort in the experiment is in the thought that words, although they are changed slowly, are gradually simplified for the better. No excuses need be offered for ameba, catalog, demagog, fantom, rime, and other shorter forms of the sort which are in the line of natural evolution. We have yerned for more and probably have hustled the dictionary. Readers who are agast remain agast and would send the writers as rifraf to the hemloc.

A WORD FOR THE TRUSTEE.

Remarks of the dean of faculties of Northwestern university, Dr. Snyder, acknowledging important contributions by business men on boards of trustees to the solution of educational problems will probably not be very warmly applauded by many members of his profession. The pedagogical hierarchy, we suspect, views the board of trustees as a necessary evil to be strictly kept to its proper function—the acquisition of funds and management of physical property. To assert that the business men on the boards of American colleges and universities actually contribute importantly within the field of educational policy will no doubt be taken for mischievous heresy.

But why should it be? There are many technical questions of education with which the business man, lawyer, banker or other layman is not prepared to deal advisedly, and we doubt if he has any wish to touch them. But education, after all, deals with human life, and men who have had much experience in human activity may bring something of value to the consideration of general questions of educational policy.

Most of these laymen are after all college men. They have gone through the process of education and if it has not fitted them to think usefully on that process and its objectives there is something radically wrong with education.

Education, even what is called higher education, ought to be more than a special training. It ought to be, and we think primarily, a training and discipline in the use of the mind, a preparation in some substantial measure for useful living, and to this surely the adult man and woman can profitably contribute without specializing in pedagogy or acquiring a Ph. D. degree.

Editorial of the Day

TRUE STORY.
[Baltimore Sun.]

A gentleman of our acquaintance has two smart children, a daughter and a son. At considerable sacrifice, he is planning to see them both through college. The daughter, now in her first college year, returns to the bosom of her family today. Tomorrow the family will celebrate her 18th birthday. As this gentleman puts it, "Tomorrow my taxable income goes up $400, because at 18 she ceases to be 'dependent.'"

Thus does the income tax law serve to discourage persons of moderate income to seek to give their children a decent education.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

AN OLD SCOTCH CUSTOM.

As nearly as we can determine from the records of the Anglo-Saxon Folklore association, today is nothing in particular except Dec. 30. It is merely one of "the holidays" that failed to get itself tangled up with any legend, tradition, or ceremonial. Tomorrow, however, is something more than the last day in 1938 and the prelude to New Year's eve; among the Scotch it bears the formidable name of Hogmanay. You have probably seen this word often in novels of Scottish life without knowing exactly what it meant.

Early in the morning of Hogmanay, in those sections of Scotland where ancient customs survive, poor folk and children go from door to door of the well-to-do, expecting to receive a gift of food, generally in the form of a kind of bread called "hogmanay cakes." They sing rimes such as the following:

Hogmanay,
Trollolay
Give us of your white bread and none of your gray.

Get up, good wife, and shake your feathers,
And dinna think that we are beggars;
For we are bairns come out to play;
Get up and gie's our hogmanay.

The origin of the word Hogmanay puzzles the philologists. The various explanations, including that to which the Oxford English dictionary pins its faith, appear to be far-fetched guesses. [See Webster.] The American Scotch have not preserved the custom.

Last Call for Wassail Bowls.

The town has been decidedly wassail-bowl conscious during these holidays, possibly because of this column's remarks on the subject. For example, when asked what he had been doing since Christmas eve, a Michigan avenue wit remarked: "Just wossilating from one bowl to another."

RESOLUTION AGAINST LOVE.

The stately candle of the year burns low,
And in its flick'ring flame I hold review.
I wonder why the paths o'er which I go
Hold peaks and depths only because of you.
I must forswear those dazzling joyous heights,
The sun-swept summits of my hour with you;
The dragging aftermath of restless nights
When spirits slip into valleys blue,
As skimming skiers slide down snowy slopes,
Are far too hard to bear alone with naught
To aid the upward climb but flagging hopes
That you will care some day, unasked, unsought.
Henceforth on level ground I'll keep my feet;
My heart must learn all it needs do is beat.

Recalling Mr. Spoopendike.

"M. Quad" [mentioned 12-3-'38] was several columnists on the Detroit Free Press in the late seventies.

For a long time the Sunday editor regularly received contributions from a mysterious source, "M. Quad." He finally, by accident, discovered "M. Quad" to be the pseudonym of a young typesetter in the composing room named Charles B. Lewis.

Immediately brought down to the editorial floor, Lewis began a most voluminous literary career covering more than three decades. What a joy he would have been to the pulp publishers of this day!

Under the name of "M. Quad" he contributed one type of humor. Under the name of "Luke Sharp" he told the adventures of "Spoopendike," a well meaning, lovable, old German blunderer of the Andy Gump type. Under his own name he wrote serious commentaries of the day—all in the same issues of the paper. It was years before the public knew that the three writers were really but one.

His work was syndicated to the Toledo Bee, the Cincinnati Enquirer, and various other papers—one of the earliest, if not the original, syndicate.

AN OLD LADY WAITED.

She waited quietly within her room
For Death. She knew her life was over, yet
She wanted very much to see the bloom
Of daffodils in April, mignonette
In June, her hollyhocks climb up the wall
And flaunt their gypsy colors to the world;
Leaves flame and flutter to the ground in fall,
Chrysanthemums with petals small and curled.
She loved the warmth and wanted now to go
Her window, autumn winds turned chill, the snow
Came sifting down through naked trees, plants died.
She was content, accepting stronger Reason
Allotting to each living thing its season.

To Take a Kink Out of Football.

Since the football coaches' rules committee has been in session, perhaps our scheme for getting rid of that mysterious scoring gadget called the "safety" is in order. So listen: The logic of the game will be followed and the ball will continue in play at the point where it was downed behind the goal line. A severe penalty will be inflicted—the team causing the safety will be deprived of the privilege of punting until it advances the ball across the goal line. If it fails to get out of the end zone, the ball goes over to the other team after fourth down and the situation automatically becomes a touchdown. If the safety happens on fourth down, this procedure is also followed. Thus many safeties will probably become touchdowns.

BATHING FOR HEALTH AND HEALING.

SOME one has remarked that the state of civilization of any nation or people may be determined by counting the bathtubs. According to this dictum America should be the cultural center of the universe. Despite the belief of certain ancient patriarchs that bathing was dangerous—inimical to health because it exposes the body to chill which may strike inward—nevertheless we must agree that the evolution of the arts and sciences has gone hand in hand with personal cleanliness. In addition, physicians have long recognized the benefits of sponging with cold water as a means of reducing temperature and conversely, that soaking in a hot tub would raise it. Springs have had a popular appeal from time immemorial as healing agents and spas exist throughout the world—Meccas for the lame and the halt.

There is much to be said in favor of bathing as a curative measure for arthritis. In beginning a course of hydrotherapy for the ailment, the temperature should range between 92 and 97 degrees Fahrenheit. This level is considered "warm" and the period of immersion may be from five to ten minutes. After a few days it may be raised as high as 105 degrees and, without risk of inducing a feeling of faintness, the time may be extended to twenty minutes or longer.

Now, the system will endeavor to accommodate its heat to that of the liquid and when the sufferer emerges the reading on a mouth thermometer may be 100 degrees F. or even slightly higher. This is as it should be. Without drying, the patient is then wrapped in warm towels, placed in bed, and covered with a goodly number of blankets. If the weight of the bedding is annoying, cradles made of half-hoops may be utilized for protection. Well wrapped heating pads are then packed snugly on either side and perspiration is permitted for approximately ten minutes. Bit by bit the individual is then unwrapped and given a tepid sponge. Thereafter massage with cold cream or cocoa butter completes the procedure.

The above plan is recommended not only for chronic arthritis but for all joint, muscle, and tendon pain. Occasionally brisk rubbing while the patient is submerged is of considerable help and if there seems to be some delay in the response of the capillaries a half teacupful of freshly ground mustard stirred into the fluid will supply just enough irritation to give the epidermis a healthy glow.

Warm or hot packs will accomplish much the same results but they are far more difficult to regulate. In addition, they require more nursing skill, and there is slightly more danger of chilling. It should be understood that the temperature of the room can be approximately 76 to 78 degrees without discomfort.

If a sense of suffocation or dizziness is exhibited this may be eased by a cold compress to the forehead, a cup of weak tea, or a teaspoonful or two of brandy. Care must be taken not to keep the person in the bath too long as weakness, which is due largely to salt loss, may be experienced. It is quite customary to give a half-teaspoonful of common salt dissolved in a glass of water during the perspiration stage.

Heat applied to a single joint—while of some value—is not as effective as when the entire body is warmed. The trouble is that the circulation tends to cool—the region of the knee, for example—carrying the caloric to remote parts for dissipation. I know of no utility that mud packs possess over water unless, as is contended by some, they may retain the heat longer. Inasmuch as twenty to thirty minutes is about the limit at 105 degrees perhaps this is not an aid after all. Plain water only is needed. There is no advantage in employing medicated, flavored, or mineralized liquid.

We should recall that this method of relief as applied to arthritis is but one of many useful devices. Diet, sunlight, vitamins, sulphur, salicylates, and the removal of infections play important rôles.

TROUBLED WITH SCABIES.

F. L. T. writes: For the last three months I have been troubled with scabies. Can you suggest a remedy?

REPLY.

You have too many insect friends. This is a case where mites are mighty. The use of sulphur preparations or Danish ointment is advised. Treatment should be intensive and thorough. If the parasite is not completely removed the disease will again spread. Underwear and bedding must be boiled or steamed. We have a leaflet on scabies which we will be glad to send on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

ENLARGED KIDNEY.

Mrs. B. writes:

1. Is surgery the only remedy for an enlarged kidney?

2. Is an operation dangerous in a woman of 50?

REPLY.

1. Much depends upon the cause. If the structure is honeycombed with abscesses or riddled with tuberculosis, surgical removal may be necessary.

2. No, if her general health is good and an expert surgeon is in charge.

AS CAXTON SPELLED.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—The first printer of England, in a reincarnation, wrote me the following letter. Its spellings are those current in English when he did his printing:

"I feele itte is juste awfulle howe these moderne worde-butchyrs haue maltreatyd oure gude olde Englishe bye theyre choppynge offe of letteres from wordes. I haue juste glanct thryuge some reproducciones of pagys emprynted by me, ye fyrst printer of Englonde, whyche showe how moche ye wordemangelyrs haue sins then aulteryd ye speeche from its olde, treure forme. "See this list of wordes they haue spoilyd: Alle, chirche, bokes, crucey-fyed, brynge, ende, eyen, blessyd, euerlastynge, brede, eyther, shalle, maye, nyhe, synnes, shoppe, myn, kynges, oure Jhesu, mankynde, thurgh, sauyour, saynt, thynge, redemcion, wylt, whate, wyth, fourty, dyd, yere, sayd, praying.

The above is sent you by one who wants even more changes in spelling than Caxton would complain of, so that our recording of speech would be more scientific and informative [as regards pronunciation] than it is.

BRENDA'S $50,000 PARTY.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—I have just finished reading the account of the Brenda Diana Duff Frazier coming out party in New York City. The impression it makes upon me is deep and lasting; $50,000 spent for an evening's entertainment in the life of one individual—and some 10 or more millions of unemployed workers in the United States alone!

Do not think of me as some crank proponent of any of the "isms"—except, perhaps, Americanism. I was born and bred in this country and one ancestral line, at least, extends as far back as the Boston tea party or farther.

But this I do insist upon: Any intelligent and thinking citizen, without adhering to some foreign system, must certainly admit the utter failure of capitalism as an economic [can it be separated from the political?] system. It has been dominated since its very inception by the wealthy class—a statement that can be only too easily supported. And depressions and wars, rather than being regarded as impediments to the system—as capitalists would have us believe—should be seen for what they really are—the offspring of the system.

Knowing the extreme bias of your paper — another offspring of a system whose failure is being brought more and more home to us all—I have little expectation of this letter being printed. But it has served a psychological purpose, at least, as a means of release.

A POEM COMPLETED.

Dowagiac, Mich., Dec. 24.—I do not know the balance of the verse Miss Fink has reference to, but think it should read:

"Mother, Teddy's sleeping yet,
And the chickens say it's day.
If it were Franklin, place of Teddy,
Continue sleeping, I would say."

A CURE FOR UNEMPLOYMENT.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Perhaps my economics are all haywire, but if the powers in Washington honestly desire it I fail to see why this same unemployment problem cannot easily be solved.

Of course if they want to maintain unemployment so that 8 to 10 million votes can be controled, that would put my theory to rout. The way they keep talking of it and nothing is done leads one to believe it is planned that way.

In round numbers there are 40 million people now gainfully employed in this country. It is given out that there are about 11 million unemployed. Of this latter group there are at least 3 million who would not work even if given Edsel Ford's job. This leaves 8 million to be cared for, or about 20 per cent of the number employed.

Industry could easily, and I believe would gladly, absorb this 20 per cent. The factory employing 100 men could find places for twenty more men. But industry is not going to attempt this without a quid pro quo. This quid pro quo could come in the nature of repeal of some of the insidious and devastating taxes now heaped upon the shoulders of industry in such numerous different forms that final failure or death seems to be the only surcease.

If a plan for such a swap as this is feasible why could it not be brought to the attention of proper officials in Washington by some one who amounts to something? A. T. PERRY.

DRUG STORE PROFITS.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—I was astonished at the articles of the last few days by Arthur Sears Henning in regard to Mr. Patman's efforts in promoting the fair trade bills, which he had a perfect right to do.

I have listened to Mr. Henning for years on the radio and read his articles in the paper, and to have such falsehoods in an article under his name utterly flabbergasted me. He sounds as if he were lobbying for the big shots, the chains.

He states the independent gets a 50 per cent markup under fair trade. I would like to find one such article, "just one," so I could get behind it in a big way and make some money.

According to the bureau of commerce reports last year, the cost of doing business as a retail druggist was about 24 per cent and very few of the patent medicines carry such a markup and there are plenty below 20 per cent.

The condition of the independents is very little better, and we have gone through a good many years of cut-throat competition. RUPERT L. KING.

CURSE UPON WHISTLERS.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—J. W. B. pictures the fellow who whistles while he works as a joyous bird radiating happiness and sunshine wherever he goes. Our canary is of the buzzard type, intent only on satisfying the urge of his own craw without regard to any annoyance he may cause other people. We, being peaceful souls who try to please every one and make them happy, are continually distressed by this persistent warbler and would welcome an air raid, a tornado, or an earthquake, if it would come quietly and permanently rid us of this vulgar fowl. ESTATE PROBATE.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there any time limit in which an administrator must be appointed after a person is deceased? 2. When there is only a bank account to be administered and no claims involved. [3] is it necessary for a lawyer to handle the administration? If not, [4] what documents are required and where can they be obtained? 5. Also, what taxes would have to be paid on an amount of $2,300?

W. W. J.

1. No, in the sense that probate proceedings can be entirely dispensed with on the proper facts.

2. See if you can get the bank officials to waive probate.

3. We are not in a position to estimate your ability and resourcefulness as to handling such proceedings.

4. We suggest that you examine the files of similar estates in the office of the clerk of the Probate court.

5. Presumably there will be a personal property tax. The inheritance tax would depend on the relationship between the deceased and the beneficiaries.

HOTEL BILL.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I want information in regard to owing a [1] hotel bill of $30. I have a $300 radio, seal coat, two expensive cloth coats, trunk, and other belongings. Can they keep these? 2. How can I get it? I am not employed and it seems hard to raise the money. A. J.

1. If you were a transient guest, the hotel keeper would have the legal right to hold your goods under his lien, but if, instead, the relationship was merely that of landlord and tenant, then he would have no legal right to hold your things without court proceedings.

2. We see no way for you to force matters without court proceedings, which would involve the employment of an attorney. It probably would be better economy for you to pay your bill.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SIDEWALK DISPLAYS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—I understand there is an ordinance regarding the displaying of merchandise in a business district. Please investigate the merchant at No. 1647 of our block, who allows the public only three feet of a twelve foot walk. S. S.

The officer assigned reports that he visited the location complained of and found that the proprietor of the store was exceeding the two feet of space which the permit he had allowed him. He was issued summons and was discharged by the judge after promising he would not exceed the two feet of space allowed on his permit. Patrolmen have been instructed to give this location their special attention, and if any violations are found to take proper action.

BANKRUPTCY ASSETS.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I enrolled in a correspondence civil service school, and when I was one-third through with my lessons the school went bankrupt. I paid in $80, full amount for tuition, and I wish to know how I can get some of my hard earned money back. How should I go about this? G. A. A.

Bankruptcy means that the debtor, which would be the school in your case, surrenders its assets, and after deducting the costs of proceedings the proceeds are distributed among the creditors who filed claims. You do not indicate whether the assets left any surplus over the costs of administration, nor whether you filed a claim. If your claim was scheduled and the proceedings have been completed, then it is too late for you to collect. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RETAIL PROFITS UP 50 PCT. UNDER PRICE FIXING BILL

Consumers Pay More as Result of Lobby.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Fifty per cent profits for retailers and increased prices to consumers are the outstanding results of the legislation put through congress and the state legislatures by the price fixing lobby.

Early in the campaign the lobby proclaimed its objective to be profits for retailers amounting to one-third of the retail price, which would be equivalent to 50 per cent of the cost of the merchandise to the retailer.

When the President in August, 1937, signed the Tydings-Miller bill exempting interstate price fixing contracts from the federal anti-trust laws the druggists hailed with exultation the triumph of the drive for 50 per cent profits.

Trade Paper Rejoices.

Typical of the rejoicing was the advertisment in Drug Topics, a retail drug trade paper, of McKesson & Robbins, the gigantic wholesale drug concern, the looting of which by the ex-convict Philip Musica masquerading as F. Donald Coster, is a current scandal. Coster-Musica, who committed suicide following his exposure a fortnight ago, was a leading figure in the price fixing lobby and friend and patron of Representative Wright Patman [D., Tex.], promoter of price maintenance and anti-chain store legislation.

"The long, long fight is won—the Tydings-Miller bill at last is law!" ran the McKesson & Robbins advertisment. "In the nation-wide rejoicing that welcomes this notable triumph of the retail druggist to insure a fair deal in the operation of his business, McKesson wholeheartedly joins. It was a masterful job.

Cites Higher Profits.

"Under Tydings law stabilization, the McKesson average profit of 50 per cent on McKesson products means that you will make as much profit on the sale of one McKesson product as on "Three products stabilized at a 15½ per cent profit.

Two and half products stabilized at a 20 per cent profit.

"Two products stabilized at a 25 per cent profit.

"One and half products stabilized at a 33 per cent profit.

"Under the Tydings law, stabilized McKesson products still will pay you the largest profit on any stabilized, advertised line.

"To thousands of druggists, the average 50 per cent profit on McKesson products is a business protection—means more store revenue, more store prosperity and more store safety.

"Remember—Yesterday . . . Today . . . Tomorrow . . . McKesson Products Always Pay You an Average Profit of 50 per cent."

Chicagoan Greets Tydings.

The publication printed a picture of Charles Luckman of Chicago, vice president of the Pepsodent company, congratulating Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] on the enactment of the law he had sponsored.

Senator Tydings' law partner, Herbert Levy, at the time was counsel for the National Association of Retail Druggists, leading unit in the price fixing lobby.

There is much evidence of the increase of the prices of trade-marked articles to consumers after the enactment of the state and national price fixing legislation. Federal Trade Commissioner Robert E. Freer stated that the average price of cosmetics had been advanced 8½ per cent, of drugs 17 per cent, of liquor 13 per cent, and of books 33 per cent.

Data furnished by the National Independent Pharmacists, Inc., showed that in New York City drug store prices were advanced from 3 to 67 per cent following the enactment of price fixing legislation. The average increase was 29 per cent on the articles surveyed.

How Prices Were Advanced.

The following table states the prices before the legislation, the minimum resale price fixed by the manufacturer afterward and the percentage of increase in the retail price:

Gets $5 a Week

MRS. DOROTHY RYDER.

Mrs. Dorothy Ryder, 4319 North Laramie avenue, came to court yesterday to tell Judge Joseph Sabath why she should be permitted to keep her daughter. When she left, Mrs. Ryder still had her daughter, Sandra Doreen, 3 years old, and an order for Sandra's father to pay $5 a week for the little girl's support.

Mrs. Ryder is 21 years old. Howard Lesley Ryder is suing her for divorce on grounds of desertion. He asked custody of Sandra, asserting that her mother was unfit to have her. But Mrs. Ryder's attorney, Robert E. Cherry, told the judge Mrs. Ryder had taken care of the child for two years without help from Ryder. The judge ordered the support money paid until a full hearing can be held.

DISMISSES SUIT FOR ACCOUNTING OF JARECKI FEES

The suit to compel County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki to account for $6,000,000 in inheritance tax fees was dismissed yesterday by Judge Denis J. Normoyle. Judge Jarecki's attorney, John D. Black, argued successfully that the statute under which the suit was brought applied to state but not county officials.

The suit was filed last Nov. 3 by John E. Northup, counsel for Mrs. Clarence Ford Smith of the Women's Civic council. It was based on a complaint filed with the Chicago Bar association by Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the Women's Civic council. Her complaint charged that Judge Jarecki had approved payments of the $6,000,000 for estate appraisals and experts' fees to persons who made no pretense of rendering any service.

Jarecki contended that the suit was a political move made to discredit him in the November election. The suit accused fifty-six other persons of conspiracy with Judge Jarecki. Action against them all was dismissed by yesterday's ruling.

GUN DEATH CALLED ACCIDENT.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Joseph P. Ashknas, 45 years old, of Grafton, Ill., who was fatally shot Christmas night when Albert Brewer, 32, of 2013 Canalport avenue, dropped a revolver.

DISBARRED ATTORNEY DESCRIBES ANOTHER SWINDLE BY MUSICA

New York, Dec. 29.—[Special.]—A. J. Vitale, a Brooklyn insurance broker now dead, was said today to have been swindled out of $20,000 ten years ago by helping F. Donald Coster-Musica, who killed himself after looting the treasury of the McKesson & Robbins drug company.

This was related today by Walter H. Cragg, a disbarred attorney, who is one of five persons accused of blackmailing Musica by threatening to expose his criminal past. Cragg said that in 1928 Coster, using his real name of Philip Musica, obtained $20,000 from Vitale on notes which the broker subsequently was forced to make good. Cragg said he was hired by Vitale to investigate Musica after this deal and discovered that Musica and Coster were the same man.

Held with Cragg on charges of conspiring to blackmail Musica are Joseph Brandino; his sister, Mary Brandino; Michael Petrella, and Joseph Paracandola. Petrella and Paracandola were arrested today.

WOMAN ROBBER OF BANK HELD TO JURY IN 2 THEFTS

Mrs. Margaret Allen, whose arrest as a shoplifter disclosed she is a bank robber and fugitive from prison, was held to the grand jury in Felony court yesterday on two charges of larceny. Police said she is accused of taking more than $10,000 in clothes and jewels from Chicago homes where she was employed as a maid. She was arrested last Friday on charges of stealing an $18 purse from a loop store. Convicted in 1936 of aiding five bandits in the robbery of a Detroit bank, Mrs. Allen was sentenced to two years in prison. She escaped last May from the Cincinnati workhouse and has been sought by federal authorities.

3 TEACHERS QUIT UNION WHEN REDS SEEK TO RULE IT

Balk at Asking Browder to Confer with Them.

New York, Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Three members of the faculty of Teachers' college of Columbia university, all actively identified with liberal and labor causes, resigned from membership in the New York branch of the American Federation of Teachers last spring, it became known today.

Prof. John L. Childs, who for many years has espoused the view that teachers should ally themselves with organized labor, said his resignation was prompted by a belief that its New York City locals are dominated by adherents of the communist party, the so-called "Stalinist" group.

A suggestion by a union member that union matters be discussed with Earl Browder and Clarence Hathaway, editor of the Daily Worker, was the culminating factor in the series of incidents that led Prof. Childs to resign, he said.

Reveals Why He Resigns.

The others who left the union are Prof. F. Ernest Johnson and Prof. R. Bruce Raup. Prof. Johnson expressed the opinion that the union at teachers college is controled by "a group dominated by a certain economic and social philosophy that was anything but representative of the membership as a whole."

An unqualified denial that the three New York locals of the union, representing public school teachers, WPA teachers and college teachers, were dominated by any political group was issued tonight by the joint board of the union, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Came from Russia's Divisions.

Prof. Childs said he joined the American Federation of Teachers early in 1935 because he believed in a "workers' society," but he soon discovered that major questions were discussed "on the basis of political sects that stemmed from Russia's tragic divisions."

"My inference was," Prof. Childs declared, "that all important decisions were taken in sectarian caucuses, not in assembly. The favored interests of the Stalinist group would always emerge in frequently wholly irrelevant resolutions."

The suggestion that union affairs be discussed with Browder and Hathaway came from Dr. Howard E. Langford, an instructor in psychology, according to Prof. Childs.

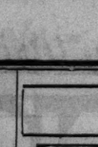
SUPREME COURT BARS 4 MILLION TREASURY RAID

Madison, Wis., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Orders by Gov. Philip La Follette's emergency board, which would have depleted the state's general fund by nearly $4,000,000 just before he turned over the state helm to newly elected Republicans, were declared illegal today by the state Supreme court.



F. R. Zimmerman.

The high court ruled that the emergency board acted without authority when it voted Nov. 16 to pay the state's civil war debt and a tax balance owed to the teachers' retirement fund. It enjoined Secretary of State Theodore Dammann and Treasurer Solomon Levitan from carrying out the board's orders.

Secretary of State Elect Fred R. Zimmerman brought an action before the Supreme court to test the validity of the 1937 budget bill under which the governor's emergency board derived conditional powers to make appropriations from the general fund. The court held the legislation unlawfully delegated its authority to make appropriations.

MURPHY FACING SENATE QUIZ ON SITDOWN VIEWS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Several senators predicted today that, if Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan were nominated by the President for attorney general, he would be questioned about his handling of sitdown strikes but would be confirmed ultimately by the senate.

There was increasing talk in the capital during the day that Murphy was slated for the nomination to succeed Attorney General Cummings, who is returning to private law practice some time in January.

White House officials declined comment, but said the President probably would have some appointments to announce next Monday or Tuesday.

Senator Burke [D., Neb.], who is advocating amendment of the national labor relations act to make it less "one-sided," was among those who predicted Murphy would be confirmed if nominated.

HENRY W. BINNIE, EARLY SETTLER IN COUNTY, DIES

Funeral services for Henry W. Binnie, an early settler in Cook county, will be held at 4 p. m. today in the Rosehill cemetery chapel. Mr. Binnie died Wednesday at 539 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, where he lived with his daughter and son-in-law, J. K. Walker. He was 83 years old.

As a boy Mr. Binnie, his five brothers, and their parents came to Dundee, from Dundee, Scotland. The father drove the family to their new home in a lumber wagon, carrying the family fortune, $10,000 in gold, in a nail keg. Later he divided this equally among the sons, who bought farms, and went into the cattle business.

Mr. Binnie later entered the real estate business. After moving to Chicago about thirty years ago he helped organize a composition roofing company. He retired on his 60th birthday.

CHANGES MIND; GIRL, 16, TO WED FOSTER UNCLE, 42

Winifred Sammler, 16 years old, who ran away Oct. 21 rather than marry her foster uncle, Walter Sammler, 26 years her senior, again is back home, and ready to be married to him. The Sammler home is at 2618 Magnolia avenue.

Winifred returned home Tuesday after a disillusioning stay in New York where she worked as a taxi dancer and as a maid. After losing her job and facing eviction from her room, she appealed to her foster father, Alfred Sammler, for aid. He sent railroad fare.

The girl was surrounded by neighborhood chums in her home last night. There was a Christmas tree and there were presents. She said she couldn't make up her mind last October about marriage, but now she had decided, and hoped to be married within a month. Walter Sammler is a clerk.

MISS ELLA BELL LEAVES $750,000 TO FOUR RELATIVES

The estate of Miss Ella E. Bell, formerly of Toledo, O., was valued at $750,000 yesterday when her will was filed with Probate Judge Martin C. Decker of Lake county. Miss Bell, 83 years old, died on Christmas in the home of a niece, Mrs. Myrtle Keating, 309 Ravine drive, Highland Park.

Miss Bell's estate consisted chiefly of Libby-Owens-Ford Glass company securities. From a small beginning, she increased her investments without financial advice, relatives said.

Miss Bell had been judged incompetent in 1931 in Toledo. She left her estate to four relatives. Mrs. Keating received two shares. Equal shares were left to the others, Franc Jones of Youngstown, O., a niece, and two nephews, Arthur Bell of Toledo and Harold Bell of Kansas City, Mo.

Two More Debutantes Bow

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Sally Perry (left) and Miss Carolyn Chapman, who were presented at a dinner-dance at the Casino last night.

Sally Perry and Miss Chapman Are Presented

Miss Sally Perry and Miss Carolyn Chapman made their debuts last night at a dinner-dance at the Casino. It was an old fashioned debut party in the sense that the guests included a number of friends of the buds' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Newton Perry and Mr. and Mrs. John Adams Chapman. There was nothing else old fashioned about the party, however, and the music was as "hot" as the most swing minded could have wanted.

I. Newton Perry Jr., better known as young Newt, and his orchestra, made up of college mates at Yale, furnished the music. Miss Perry, petite and very dark, wore eggshell tulle sprinkled with sequins of mother-of-pearl. Miss Chapman, also a brunette but not so dark as Miss Perry, was gowned in bouffant tulle, too, but hers was the color of cyclamen. Mrs. Perry was in fawn colored satin banded in sable and Mrs. Chapman wore fuchsia velvet.

Tonight's debutante party is a ball Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson are giving at the Blackstone hotel for their debutante daughter, Miss Mary McBirney Ryerson. She made her formal bow at a tea in the Astor street home of her parents on Nov. 9.

Two orchestras will play at the ball so that dancing will be continuous. Supper will be served continuously, too. Although the party is for the young people a few of Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson's friends have been invited. Miss Ryerson will wear an exquisite white tulle strapless dress with a hooped skirt, and tight bodice decorated with two small bow knots of magenta crystals.

Miss Mary Stimson and her brother, Henry, cousins of Miss Ryerson, are here from their home in Rye, N. Y., for the party. Preceding the ball Mrs. Hugh Johnston McBirney will give a dinner at the Casino for her two granddaughters, Miss Ryerson and Miss Stimson.

Mrs. Ryerson and her daughter are sailing for Europe on Jan. 4, where Miss Mary will join Miss Stout's school in Florence and spend the winter traveling on the continent and in England. Mrs. Ryerson will return to Chicago around the end of January.

Field Museum to Close on Sunday; Open Monday

The Field Museum of Natural History will be closed New Year's day. The museum, however, will be open as usual from 9 to 4 o'clock on Monday.

The Housewife

Now that phonographs are becoming increasingly popular many housewives are wondering where on earth to put all the records the family received for Christmas. It pays to provide a place for them, too, before they get nicked or broken.

So, select one of the stunning new cabinets especially designed for the purpose of filing your phonograph records. One of the handsomest is called a librarian and combines filing space with a stand for the phonograph itself. It accommodates eight 10 inch albums and eight 12 inch ones.

Made of beautifully figured walnut, it is absolutely plain. The corners are rounded and the whole front opens. The price is moderate.

EDITH WEIGLE.

The Stage

Monday evening, Jan. 23, will be the occasion of two important play openings. "Our Town," Thornton Wilder's drama of New Hampshire life, will begin a limited engagement at the Selwyn theater. The cast includes Frank Craven, Evelyn Varden and Helen Carew. This will be the sixth subscription play of the Theater Guild and the American Theater society.

On the same evening a production of George Bernard Shaw's "Candida," starring Cornelia Otis Skinner, will move into the Grand Opera house. Chief among the supporting players are Dorothy Sands and Derek Fairman. The engagement will be restricted to two weeks.

"Golden Boy," current at the Grand Opera house, has posted Saturday, Jan. 7, as its closing date. The usual Saturday matinée will be omitted tomorrow, and an extra New Year's eve performance beginning at 11:45 p. m. will be substituted. An additional holiday matinée will be given Monday.

"The Mikado" will likewise present an extra New Year's eve show at the Great Northern theater tomorrow night, starting at 11:30. "Shadow and Substance" will give an extra Monday matinée at the Selwyn theater.

New 'Les Elfs' Ballet Appears Bit Too Sugary

BY CECIL SMITH.

With the première of "Les Elfs," the ninth of this season's new productions, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo completed the exposition of its novelties at the Auditorium theater last night. A venture in the realm of pure dance, with no plot and no decors beyond some pale blue curtains, "Les Elfs" is an attempt to give animate existence to some of Mendelssohn's airy music—the overture to "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and the last two movements of the violin concerto.

The chief recommendations of this slightly saccharine ballet are its delicacy and lyricism of movement. Almost continual elevation becomes the dancers' principal concern, so that their bodies are floating in the air, or their legs are higher than their heads, a good deal of the time.

While the style is undeniably unified throughout, Michel Fokine's choreography remains rather on a dead level. The dance patterns have not the exquisite simplicity of "Les Sylphides," nor have the steps and tableaux the variety.

Mia Slavenska and Igor Youskevitch danced agreeably in the midst of a rather ragged ensemble. George Ockner's excellent playing of the violin solos won him a curtain call.

The bill was completed by "St. Francis," which seems more magnificent on each repetition; "Le Spectre de la Rose," with Alicia Markova and Mr. Youskevitch and "Prince Igor." Efrem Kurtz conducted with that unobtrusive skill which so often passes unnoticed.

Disabled Veterans Hold Annual Dance Tomorrow

Funds to aid needy world war veterans will be raised at the annual New Year's eve dance of the Chicago chapter of the Disabled American Veterans. The dance will be held at the 131st Infantry armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. There will be continuous dancing, entertainment, military maneuvers, and the selection of a Miss Monte Carlo who will receive a free trip to Hollywood.

Winter Sports Draw Throngs to Northland

BY JUDITH CASS.

SOME young people who enjoy winter sports as well as the traditional New Year's eve variety of gayety are going to have both this year, proving that occasionally one can have one's cake and eat it, too.

By taking a train at 2 o'clock on Sunday morning a group that has planned to attend watch parties here will awaken on New Year's day in LaCrosse, Wis., the headquarters of the Snow Chase club. Then they will have two days of skiing if—there's always a big if when planning anything outdoors—there is enough snow. The latest report is that there is plenty and probably will be more.

The Stewart Boals, who will go as usual to the Philip W. Moores' annual New Year's Eve party, and Henry Meers, who will see the new year in at Mrs. Emmons Blaine's party for her granddaughter, Miss Nancy Blaine, will board the sleeper for LaCrosse before 2. Everett L. Millard Jr. left Wednesday for LaCrosse, and Miss Frances Jeffery, Miss Florence Hermes, Miss Patricia Kelly and her fiancé, Lauren Healy; Alan Healy, Joseph Roby, and possibly Kendall I. Lingle, are going north tonight. Mr. Lingle's wife and little son are spending the holidays with her family in North Carolina.

Howard Fisher and the Charles Eliasons also are going to the Mississippi Alps, as the Snow Chase members call their skiing terrain.

Others Will Travel to Michigan Resort.

Another group is leaving for a Michigan skiing resort, Ishpeming, tonight. Mr. and Mrs. Roland K. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins Jr., the John R. Hurleys, and probably the Henry L. McIntyres are in this group.

Donald Douglas and his son, Donald Jr., have gone to Sun Valley for the rest of Don's vacation from Princeton. Mrs. Douglas and William, who goes to the Los Alamos school, stayed in Lake Forest.

The David Crawfords and their family and Miss Elizabeth's fiancé, Nathaniel Duval, left last Monday to spend the rest of the holiday season at Sun Valley, where one may enjoy warm outdoor bathing as well as skating, skiing, and skijoring.

The junior Charles S. Deweys are going to the Seigniory club in Quebec for the New Year week-end. They will arrive at the club tomorrow in time to witness the ski competitions for the MacKenzie and Common trophies.

Wisconsin Homes Opened for Week-end.

The Edward M. Tourtelots, the Hoyt Thompsons, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Crowe, and Mrs. Tourtelot's sister, Mrs. Tripp Nelson, are going to Ephraim for the week-end. Mrs. Nelson has come from her home in Oakland, Cal., to spend the holidays with the Tourtelots.

The Orville Taylors are going to Oconomowoc for the week-end. They will be guests of the Robert R. Bakers, who are having a house party.

Many of the Lake Geneva homes will be open over the New Year holidays. Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne is postponing taking her son, Nathan, to Black Point, until after the junior assembly tomorrow night. Nathan will have a few days of winter sports, however, at the lake before he returns to Andover.

The William O. Hunts are having a house party at Lake Geneva over the week-end. Up until recently the lake was better for sailing than skating or ice boating, our correspondent reports, but the recent cold wave has changed that condition.

Gives Tea Today for Ambassador Wilson.

Mrs. Charles K. Little is giving a small tea this afternoon for her brother, Hugh R. Wilson, ambassador to Germany, who is spending a few days with Mrs. Little. Next week Mr. Wilson will spend a few days with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Morris K. Wilson, in Winnetka.

Mrs. Bruce MacLeish is giving a mothers' and daughters' luncheon today for Debutante Priscilla Payne and her mother, Mrs. Frank E. Payne.

A jolly party for the subdebs today will be a skating and supper party Ann Buffington, Peter Dole, and Dort Fauntleroy will give at the Dunham Woods Riding club.

Anne, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Buffington, lives in Barrington. Peter is the eldest child of the John Doles of Wayne, and Dort is the only child of the Gorton Fauntleroys of Geneva. Anne goes to the Latin school in town, Peter to the Fountain Valley in Colorado Springs, and Dort to the Berkshire school in Massachusetts.

Other subdebutantes and their young beaux have been invited to a party Mr. and Mrs. Clay Judson and Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell are giving tonight for their daughters, Alice Clay Judson and Nathalie Bell. The party is to be a dinner-dance at the Ambassador East hotel. The two girls are seniors at Milton academy.

Holiday Party of Dinner Club.

The big party of the Dinner club season is the Christmas party, which is being given tonight at the Exmoor Country club. Several dozen extra boys and girls who go away to school have been added to the invitation list for this party.

The hosts tonight will be the John S. Broeksmits, the Donald S. Boyntons, and the Howell W. Murrays.

The George Senseneys, who live in Fullerton parkway, are giving a cocktail party today for Miss Katherine Young and John Cromelin, whose engagement just has been announced.

Miss Jane Weary is entertaining at cocktails this afternoon for Debutante Jane Kreuscher. The party will be given at the home of Miss Weary's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kovas, in Sheridan road.

Miss Mary Jane Brummell is entertaining at cocktails today for Miss Rosemary Sauer and her fiancé, Trevor A. Cushman Jr. of Melrose, Mass.

The Milton Wilsons and their daughter, Miss Dorothy Wilson, have come from their home in Santa Barbara to spend the holidays with Mr. Wilson's mother, Mrs. E. Crane Wilson, in Evanston.

Cliff Dwellers Will Have Tea.

Mrs. Bradley Downing is to be the hostess this afternoon at the Cliff Dwellers' last tea of 1938. Assisting her will be Mrs. Hubert Conover, Mrs. John Hattstead, Mrs. Homer Lange, Mrs. Earl M. Oren, Mrs. Daniel Saidenberg, and Mrs. Ernest B. Zeisler.

The Cordon's New Year's tea will be held from 4 until 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger is opening her home in State parkway at 3 o'clock this afternoon for a tea for all the committees working on the "Spring Notes" fashion show and tea the board of the Woman's Symphony orchestra is giving on Jan. 16 at Field's.

Mrs. William H. Stanley, chairman of the show, is giving a luncheon at Field's today for the children and grandchildren of board members who are to model in the show.

Mrs. Walter S. Carr is giving a ballet party tonight for her son, Robert A. Carr, and his fiancée, Miss Margaret Morris Wiley. Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall G. Sampsell, also will be her guests.

Dartmouth Alumni Invite Ladies to Annual Party

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 29.—Tyrone Power and Clark Gable exchanging reminiscences about their South American travels at the Jack Benny party to Ruby Schinasi. . . . "What gave you your greatest kick, Ty?" asked Gable.

"At Colombia," said Power, breaking into a grin. "The manager of the local theater told me that he wanted to show me what happened when we made bad pictures in Hollywood. . . . A picture was just starting, I won't tell you the name of it, and it was pretty bad. All of a sudden the audience started lighting matches and holding them up like torches.

"'You see,' said the theater manager, 'if they don't like a picture, instead of booing or hissing they light matches, and if the picture isn't off the screen by the time those matches burn down to their fingers they start tearing up the theater seats.'

"Sure enough, the picture flickered off and a new picture started. The manager explained that as a precaution he always has three pictures and perhaps five shorts in the projection booth. Some nights he has to use them all to save his theater.

Gable chuckled: "Can you imagine the blaze of matches the night they saw 'Parnell'?"

What goes on at a big Hollywood party? Well, this party certainly qualified in numbers and quantity. The femmes included Myrna Loy, Carole Lombard, Annabella, Jane Wyman, Barbara Stanwyck, Ruby Keeler Jolson, Joan Blondell, Sally Eilers, Dorothy Lamour, Irene Hervey, Joan Bennett, June Collyer.

The males included Clark Gable, Tyrone Power, Robert Taylor, Al Jolson, Robert Young, Wayne Morris, Don Ameche, Andy Devine, Stu Erwin, Allan Jones, Bob Hope, Groucho Marx, Zeppo Marx, Frank Parker, George Burns, Morris Ryskind, Norman Krasna, Mervyn Le Roy, Benny Rubin, Freeman Gosden, Arthur Hornblow, Danny Danker, Mitch Leisen, Dick Powell, Walter Wanger. . . . So let's find out what they do when they're all together.

Immediately upon entering the house the women leave their escorts and attach themselves to a group of girl friends, while the men seek their pals at the bar. . . . As a result a party of 100 celebs resolves itself into perhaps fifteen groups of sixes and sevens.

A minority go immediately to the dance floor and start dancing and continue dancing all night long. . . . The women talk about clothes, jewelry, golf, the Christmas presents, their children, and cut up a few mutual friends in passing.

The men cluster around Groucho Marx or Benny Rubin to hear them tell stories about old vaudeville experiences. . . . At about 1 a. m. the party breaks up, the husbands collect their wives, and you shed a tear for all of the minks that must have been executed to present this sea of mink coats.

Groucho tells of the time at Salt Lake City when the Marx brothers were doing a vaudeville tour with "A Night at the Opera" before filming it. . . . Marx brothers' rehersals are probably the least impressive of any stage act you can call to mind, and the manager of the theater looked on from the empty auditorium with growing alarm as the screwy rehersal proceeded.

Finally he turned in desperation to Morrie Ryskind, who had written "A Night at the Opera," and said: "This is a very bad rehersal, Mr. Ryskind; what do you suggest?"

Ryskind, the No. 1 poker face of the Pulitzer prize winners, shook his head: "I would suggest that you go out immediately and get riot insurance."

The manager probably believes to this day that Ryskind is crazier than the Marx brothers, because later the manager approached him and said: "Mr. Ryskind, what do you propose to do if the audience at the end of the act calls 'Author, author'?" . . . Ryskind looked at him menacingly: "I have a pistol in my pocket," he said deliberately, "and I will defend myself to the last cartridge."

Welcome Song.

Tenants of the Bell building had a holiday party and at the height of the festivities the consul of one of the Central American countries, a tenant of the building, arrived. In honor of his appearance the merrymakers burst into La Cucaracha, welcome in their tones. The consul took it all right, our scout informs us, and no international incident results. He sang a song himself afterward, in Spanish, in rather quavery tones.

Virtuoso Virovai.

The musical sensation of the week in Chicago is Robert Virovai, 18 year old Jugo-Slavian violinist, who has been staying at the Congress with his mother during his three appearances with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the last of which is at this afternoon's concert. A pale youth, with long, heavy hair—"Byronesque" the press releases call it—and an assured manner, Virovai wears an informal blue suit to his afternoon concerts. Orchestra hall officials were hoping he would wear evening clothes to last night's concert, but didn't know whether he would or not and didn't like to ask.

• • •

Virovai started playing on a ¾ size violin that cost $10. His mother tried to interest him in music when he was three, but he was indifferent until she took him to Dubrovnik to hear the orchestra. He studied under Hubay, the great Hungarian violinist. Virovai's dearest wish is to ride a bicycle, and will as soon as he knows enough English to understand the trafic signs. Most of his conversation with his musical associates in Chicago has been carried on in German. He practices six or seven hours a day usually; three or four when playing in concert.

• • •

Observation of Chicago Symphony orchestra members: Although Fritz Kreisler, a violinist for some fifty years and the latest violin soloist to appear with the orchestra, stood far enough back on the Orchestra hall platform so that he could watch every move of Dr. Stock as he conducted, young Virovai stands out in front and Stock has to watch him.

Health Faddists.

The white-haired man accompanied by a younger woman, both bareheaded, wearing sweaters and tennis shoes who dog trot down Lake Shore drive about 10 o'clock these zero mornings.

Personal and Impersonal.

We're a pushover for pretty packages, for anything in the shape of shells or leaves, for things to eat toasted or a little bit burned on the outside, for music boxes and the sound of tinkling bells, like those on our new green suede and silver sabots.

Among the holiday packages (ideas for next year?): Dull navy blue paper adorned with tinsel stars pasted on in the forms of the simpler constellations such as Ursa Major (the dipper to you and me), the Pleiades and Cassiopeia. . . . A glamorous band of sequins and spangles held down by transparent tape. . . . Little angels for package adornments with pearl bead heads, candle wax coiffures, long, plaited tissue paper gowns and brilliant tissue paper capes (Inez Cunningham Starke's originations). . . . One Christmas box received by a friend had an Italian scarf inside, an agate box inside the scarf, a white carnation inside the box, and a moonstone, like a large drop of dew, in the carnation.

Cuff Notes.

Funniest night club ballroom stunt, George Olsen's system of eliminating all couples from the floor of the Gold Coast room by making the contending couples dance underneath a bar held lower and lower. The other evening the couple who won the champagne prize danced under looking like Cossack dancers. . . . Jimmy Cagney, accompanied by the missus, was in town this week, wearing another of those suits she weaves for him—brown worsted this time. His next picture is Every Dawn I Die, which has an electric chair in it, as have Angels with Dirty Faces and Oklahoma Kid. They're padding the electric chair at Warner's—he's in it so much. . . . Hollywood-on-Michigan boulevard note: A girl wearing blue slacks, a mink coat, and a blue snood over a long bob.

A Party Frock Makes Hearts Go Pitter Patter

BY RHEA SEEGER.

This may be the shopping doldrums to some, the annual seasonal sag to others, an exchanging binge to a few, but the younger set is out for party clothes.

Dance dresses for all of the end-of-the-year festivities include wide skirted ball gowns to float romantically to waltz time, airy concoctions of net and tulle to give that fragile feminine allure, and the sophisticated beauties in black.

All manner of such important regalia is available. Clinging lipstick red chiffons are shirred in at the waistline; pleated skirts have tiny scraps of bodices in candy pink, canary yellow and the newest lovely green tints. These will cause no end of excitement on and off the dance floor.

Old gold is another color guaranteed to flutter the heart of any escort. These tawny heart breakers come in chiffon or dull crêpe. Some are simple and unadorned, others, more eye-catching, glitter with dusky gold or copper colored braid or ribbon. All of them have full wide skirts, whether of sheer or dull crêpe.

Black taffetas, swishing with all kinds of yardage, are rather exciting new finds after all the thin pastels or high colored chiffons. Stiff taffeta fashions the swirling skirts that accent the bodices which fit tighter than skin. Always the shoulders are revealed, and tiny double ruffles just cover the top of the arm.

Black net ball gowns, made of too many yards to count, are exceptionally beautiful. Flounces, narrow, wide or graduated in width, trim the skirts; more fluted frills decorate the edge of the bodice; and small waistlines are contrasted with narrow sashes or belt. Rhinestones twinkle like fireflies all over the layers of these nets, and some shimmer with jet sequins. These are the last word in mysterious charm; airy, filmy and daringly dramatic for all personalities.

Pearls Should Have Setting of Youthful Skin

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

One of the ironies of life, we have always thought, is that along about the time there is enough money to purchase pearls and ermines, too much youth has fled to do these delicate luxuries proud. A sour thought, perhaps, inspired by first night groups, opera opening groups, bedecked to the ears in such grandeur.

To make comment on this isn't our idea exactly. A smart woman we know commented recently on how foolish such women are to expose themselves to the merciless whiteness. "There are such glorious other-colored furs and jewels."

Mink, the deep, rich, extravagant mink, she offered as more flattering to the older skin and hair. Blue fox, perhaps. Other tones.

True, some of our distinguished gray-haired women manage to maintain a glowing skin, brilliant eyes, and shining hair, exquisitely groomed and dressed. These women probably could wear nursery pastels and get away with it if they chose, which they wouldn't choose, no doubt, since they wouldn't be so distinguished looking. The point is that with the years rich, deep tones are likely to be more flattering. The white somehow belongs to youth or its cleverest simulation.

We recall an internationally famed beauty getting into a white heat over the unbecoming dead-white hat her mother arrived home with from a shopping tour.

"Even at my age," which was then around 30, "I wouldn't challenge the gods with dead-white. Creamy white, yes, anything but that flat white which exaggerates every fading strand of hair, every budding line, every facial shadow."

Well, we suppose that women whose husbands or selves can afford them will wear their pearls and ermine, as why shouldn't they? We probably wouldn't change either ourselves should that be our lucky fate. It may be that it is the hard faced sisters with the grossly hennaed hair who malign the beauty of the extravagances of which we speak. Long since, we realized that this hennaed group is a class who will not be persuaded that they aren't striking since every one stares at them. The nature of the stare isn't analyzed. Just enough that attention is attracted.

Our last word, however, is that the fitting complement for pearls and ermine is the fresh skin and young hair and eyes.

How to glorify blond tresses is one of the subjects of the booklet, "Bring Out the Beauty in Your Hair," by Antoinette Donnelly. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. By postpaid mail, 7 cents.

Four Sisters to Have Roles as Four Sisters in Movie

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Four sisters were cast today to play the rôles of four sisters in the film "Alexander Graham Bell." They will appear as the four daughters of Gardiner Hubbard, one of the backers of Bell, the telephone inventor. Georgianna once appeared in a bit part.

Busy Women Need Smocks

WOMEN'S AND MISS' SMOCK.

If you're a busy woman, and who isn't these days, you will have need for at least one utility smock in your wardrobe. Such garments are life savers for your clothes, and they lend a certain chic as well. School girls, women who work in offices, and career girls like smocks. We think the one offered in our pattern today is particularly smart. It may be finger tip length or slightly longer. It has a shoulder yoke and a neckline that may be either high or low. In either case, it has a soft rolled collar. The sleeves, which may be either long or short, are puffed at the shoulders. Shirring just under the yoke lends the desired fullness to the body of the garment. Pockets are absolutely indispensable, so the pattern provides for two of them, capacious pockets to hold all your implements and odds and ends.

Both plain shades and prints make up well. Gay colors are quite in order. Buttons may be arranged in groups or in a straight row. Contrasting binding may be called into service for some stunning yoke effects, and more of it may trim the pockets. If you like embroidery, use pattern No. E-700 available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 2039 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16, in the shorter length smock, requires 2½ yards of 39 inch material, with 2 yards of 2 inch binding.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Those perfectly swell little hair nets, to train hair upward, are on the market now. These, as you might remember, were created by one of the hair stylists who did a great deal to make upswept hair fashionable. They're not like any hair net you've ever seen before.

These are elliptical in shape, not more than eight or nine inches across, made of crocheted silk and on a wire frame. You simply press this framed net flat against the back hair; it is held snug by silk ribbons that will make a bow in front. You can wear it while you sleep or just after you've come from the hairdresser's to keep your hair from tumbling down before the evening even starts.

The colors are smart—particularly the one that's the rich red of the cockscomb. Heaven forbid that the old boudoir cap should ever return, but this can be tied on in the morning just as those old camouflagers used to be. You'll look pretty and perky and all the time it's on your back hair will be having a little training lesson in the upward movement you want to persuade it to take.

Those other hair nets, the ones that are made of human hair and were essential to grooming before short hair became universal, are having a return engagement. They've been improved considerably. They're no longer so big you must pin them into a wad behind one ear the way you used to. They fit better and are so fine they're practically invisible. It's a good idea if you step out much to adjust one in the evening just before you go outdoors. You can tuck it into your bag or pocket when you arrive at the party.

These same nets come in colors, too.

Young Virovai Takes a Turn as Grand Violinist

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A crowded Orchestra hall heard violin playing in the grand manner last evening. Robert Virovai, a 17 year old Hungarian who is already an international celebrity, made the second of his three scheduled appearances with Frederick Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra. He will conclude his engagement this afternoon.

Young Viroval's choice for this pair of concerts is the pompous D minor Concerto of Henri Vieuxtemps. He gave the grandiloquent pronouncements of the first movement a verve and enthusiasm calculated to restore their weightiness and their air of huge importance. The sirupy melodies of the second movement underwent a like transformation through the violinist's magnificent command of seemingly unconscious nuance.

The scherzo was a marvel of lightness and dexterity, the finale a proud and martial realization of certain of the more brilliant of late nineteenth century musical ideals. Long continued applause compelled a repetition of the scherzo. Mr. Stock coupled to his announcement of the encore his New Year's wishes for the audience.

Splendid as the performance was, it must be admitted that Robert Viroval is not tonally impeccable. There was a sense of strain in the cadenza of the first movement and in some of the more vigorous passages of the finale.

The early part of the evening was given over to a delicately planned presentation of Toch's "Pinocchio" [subtitled "a merry overture"] to a first Chicago performance of Paul Graener's "The Flute of Sans Souci," and to d'Indy's closely knit Second symphony [too closely knit, for logic of form has been allowed to become more important than that esthetic logic by which a work molds its own final form].

Paul Graener, living German composer, has succeeded in "The Flute of Sans Souci" in producing a finely imaginative piece of music which manages to catch the reticent spirit of that eighteenth century in which Frederick the Great, the master of Sans Souci, lived his curiously disjointed life. A Sarabande, a Gavotte, a tranquil Air, and a Rigaudon make up the suite.

Because of the serious illness of his wife and the recent death of his daughter, Igor Strawinsky has been compelled to cancel his engagements with the Chicago Symphony orchestra for Feb. 14, 16, and 17. No soloist or guest conductor to replace the great Russian composer has as yet been announced.

Her Second Choice

By Elizabeth York Miller

(Copyright, 1938, By Elizabeth York Miller.)

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy receives a letter from Ludia from her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock, breaking their engagement. Heartbroken Nora writes Jim she'll marry the next man who asks her. Jim's family live next door to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. When Bob Matherson of Fairways, rich young bachelor and recent neighbor, proposes to Nora she accepts. Three days before the wedding Jim returns and demands that Nora run away with him. Nora feels morally pledged to Bob. Jim gives Nora her love letters to him—except the one in which she vowed to marry the next man who asked her. Mrs. Pearl Almy, a former attachment of Bob's, who rents a cottage on his estate, gets the letter and sends it to Bob, hoping he'll call off the wedding, but Bob goes through with it. Their wedding night Bob tells Nora he married her for convenience, too. They agree their marriage will be in name only. Bob and his sister's husband, David Longton, are in the aircraft armament business for the government. Cissy Longton tells Nora that Mrs. Almy, who used to work in their office, is suspected of giving away the firm's secrets to a rival. Nora dismisses the housekeeper, Mrs. Cooper, when she finds her conspiring with Mrs. Almy. Bob is in danger of being arrested for double crossing his country. A government man, Capt. Grew, arrives at Fairways and Bob invites him to stay for an informal party. He tells Bob he is investigating Mrs. Almy, Bob's suspected mistress. Nora hears him. Mrs. Almy is plotting with Jim to steal plans that night from the Fairways Tower room safe. Pearl faints just after Jim has pretended to leave, but Mrs. Callender sees him going through the housekeeper's quarters. Bob takes Pearl home and returns to Nora with lipstick on his face. He doesn't explain that Pearl forced her Judas kiss on him. He thinks Nora gave Jim a duplicate key to the Tower room, but she convinces him otherwise. On her way to Sunday service Nora meets Jim. Bob pays off Mrs. Cooper, who had been staying with Mrs. Almy since her dismissal.

INSTALMENT XXIX.

A HASTY GETAWAY.

Pearl shuddered and drew her gown closer as though for warmth.

Was Bob talking at her through Mrs. Cooper? She sank into a chair, moistened her lips, and held out her hand.

"Give me a cigaret, please," she said faintly.

Bob obliged her.

"I don't think you look very well," he said critically. "Perhaps Green Mallows doesn't agree with you. Your going off like that last night, for instance. You don't as a rule have fainting fits, do you?"

She felt his glance on her hand, that was trembling horribly.

O, God, he knew!

There wasn't a ghost of a chance of escape for her if he had found out.

Wildly she searched about in her mind as to how she could throw the whole thing onto Jim Murdock, and perhaps involve Nora, too.

"I've been feeling queer for a long time," she said unsteadily.

"Why don't you go away for a little change?" Bob suggested.

Was he playing with her? His voice held no hint of unpleasantness and gave her the faint hope that she might be mistaken. This was nothing but a cat and mouse game.

"I told you yesterday at lunch that I did think of going to Nice," she said.

"Why not, then?"

Her hope of escape mounted. "You think it would be a good idea?"

"Any change is good if a person is feeling run down. Is it money?"

"No, I can manage that. Well, perhaps next week," she said cunningly.

"Why not this week?"

"It would be such a rush."

"Nonsense. Look here, Pearl. Make it Tuesday. I'll get your ticket and reservations tomorrow, and Keen can motor you to Dover, which will save you a lot of bother."

"It almost looks as though you want to get rid of me," she said.

"Perhaps I do," he said. "I got into a little trouble last night through a spot of lipstick."

It seemed rather a shame to put the blame onto Nora, but it made a good alibi.

"So that's it—Nora wants to get rid of me. I should think that as she seems so fond of Jim Murdock—"

Bob turned quickly towards the door.

"Tuesday then. I'll run in tomorrow evening to say good-by and bring your ticket."

Hardly had the door closed on him when Pearl flew to the telephone and rang up Jim, who, fortunately for her, had just that moment come in.

She had to be careful what she said, because the postmistress, who had charge of the local exchange, might be listening.

"Jim, today . . . in an hour. Do you understand?"

She could tell by the breathless silence that he did.

"Anything to add to that?" he asked, after a little pause.

"We can just do it if you call for me in an hour. That's all."

"Very well."

They had planned not to leave until tomorrow, but Pearl had known all along that every moment's delay was dangerous.

She went upstairs and dressed hurriedly. Most of her luggage was already packed, for she had prepared for any emergency.

It was a relief when Keen, Bob's chauffeur, came for Mrs. Cooper.

The afternoon boat left from Dover at 2 o'clock and, instead of Boulogne, the agent must be wired to meet them in Calais. That would only mean a short motor drive for him. They would wire him from the boat and perhaps get an answer before they landed.

When Jim Murdock appeared with the little car Mrs. Callender was so sure Mrs. Almy had given him, Pearl was ready.

But she was a bundle of nerves. Any moment Bob might show up again; it was impossible to say which way he was likely to jump.

Fortunately trees hid the cottage from Fairways, although it stood so near, but she had forgotten the Tower room. From that vantage any one would have a very clear view, with or even without the aid of field glasses.

Jim Murdock, who was more nervous than Pearl, if anything, dumped her bags into the back of the car. His own were strapped on behind.

"Where did you put it?" she asked, referring to the case of blueprints.

"In one of my suitcases. I've been sweating all night. Gad, I wish I hadn't got into this! And now to be hustled off at such short notice—"

"You can draw out now if you like," she said pettishly. "Give me the case and I'll deliver it by myself."

"And collar all the money? Like fun you will! What are you going to do with that dog?"

"Bonzo? He's coming with us, of course. Here Bonzo. Get in!"

There was something final about that. If Bonzo was going with them, then this wasn't just a little joy ride. It would mean six months' quarantine for him if or when Pearl Almy ventured to return to England.

Jim had told his parents that he was going up to London for a week. He realized now that when he kissed his mother good-by it might be forever.

Still, Bonzo wasn't his dog, and, unless that foreign agent insisted on seeing all three of them off together on the boat for the Argentine, he might manage to get his share of the money and give Pearl the slip. At this moment he was hating her like nothing on earth.

Only one thing cheered him, and over that he was secretly exultant. Nora had promised that when Bob Matherson was behind prison bars she would come to him, and once Pearl and he were safely across the channel with their booty, there was little chance of escape for Bob. Revenge is sweet indeed. Jim Murdock ran his tongue over his lips, tasting its savor.

When they were safely away and streaking it across country as fast as the condition of the roads would permit, Pearl's self-confidence began to return also.

Pearl explained to Jim how cunningly Bob had made sure she would remain in Green Mallows until Tuesday.

Surely not even Bob Matherson would dream they could cut and run at an hour's notice.

"What are we going to do with the car?" Jim asked, still inclined to grumble.

"Why not take it with us, too?" Pearl said. "It's too good to leave moldering in some garage."

That gave him a brilliant idea. With the car handy he could easily give her the slip and head for the Balkans instead of South America.

. . . . . .

Capt. Grew presented himself at Fairways before lunchtime, the hour when he was expected.

He had with him a warant to demand the plans for the giant bomber from Robert Matherson. They had already been demanded of Bob yesterday at his office and he had been unable to produce them. He said he had them in safekeeping at Fairways and would bring them to the office on Monday morning without fail. That, in Capt. Grew's opinion, was giving too much leeway.

Also, there was the question of the government seal. If that was broken—even should the case make its appearance in accordance with Robert Matherson's promise—then no explanation would hold water. If that seal had been tampered with it would amount to a confession of treachery.

Writer Voices Aspiration of a Good Parent

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

What do you deeply desire to do for your children? What do you want profoundly to be to them?

Many of the things we care most about, the ideals we strive most passionately toward do not always take definite form in our minds. Yet sometimes the very putting of our feelings, our aspirations as parents into words will help us to carry them through. Crystallizing our thoughts, if they're worthwhile ones, often gives them greater significance.

In a simple litany for parents, written several years ago, I tried to do this very thing: to formulate the longings that lie in the hearts of most of us who have children. Because it did sum up what so many of us feel, it met with such a warm response that it has been reprinted in this column at the approach of eacn new year.

A Mother's and Father's Litany.

To respect my children and in return
To be worthy of their respect—
May Love and Understanding help me.

To praise much and blame little,
To emphasize their successes
And minimize their failures—
May Love and Understanding teach me.

To make no promises to my children
That I cannot keep—
May Love and Understanding help me.

To have unbounded faith in my children,
To be loyal to them both at home and abroad—
May Love and Understanding lead me.

To allow them the dignity of their own personalities,
Not trying to make them over to my own desire—
May Love and Understanding help me.

To care well for my children's bodies,
But not at the expense of their minds and spirit—
May Love and Understanding help me.

To be cheerful and ready to laugh
Because children love laughter as they love sunshine—
May Love and Understanding help me.

To have infinite patience with my children,
And to make allowances for them,
Because they have so much to learn
And I myself am not so very wise—
May Love and Understanding help me.

To protect my children from my own nerves,
Ill temper, personal prejudice, pessimism, and fears—
May Love and Understanding lead me.

To help them to choose
The life work they are best fitted for,
Instead of gratifying through them
My personal ambition—
May Love and Understanding lead me.

To reserve time and fresh energy for my children,
So that I can be their close and interested friend—
May Love and Understanding help me.

To fit my children to meet life and people
Bravely, honestly, and independently—
May Love and Understanding help me.

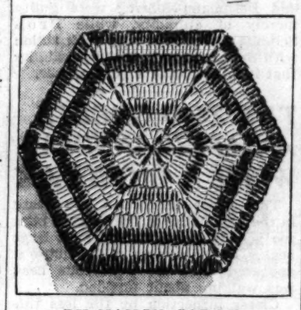
To give my children freedom, but
To teach them how to use that freedom,
So they will not confuse liberty with license—
May Love and Understanding guide me.

To show my warm love for my children
As well as conscientiously care for them—
May Love and Understanding lead me.

To manage them with intelligence and affection,
And not by punishment, condemnation,
Fear, faultfinding, and nagging—
May Love and Understanding help me.

To guide my children instead of driving them,
To direct their energy instead of repressing it—
To try to understand my children,
Instead of sitting in judgment on them;
And through all misdemeanors, both trivial and serious,
To love them steadfastly—
May Love and Understanding help me.

Quilt Pattern Is Inspiration for This Afghan



BY NANCY CABOT.

The old-fashioned quilt patterns furnish an excellent source of inspiration for crocheted afghan designs, and are as colorful as the beautiful quilt motifs. The "Old-Fashioned Flower Garden" design for an afghan is as popular as the quilt block from which it was adapted. It is not difficult to crochet, and the same variety of colors may be used for the throw as are used in the quilt. It requires no time at all to create one of these six sided medallions, and all are set together with an eye to contrast and harmony.

For instructions for crocheting the Old-Fashioned Fower Garden afghan, No. X-164, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Hits Counting Room Methods of Historians

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Human history no longer can be written by the literary onlooker who merely tells of shoes and ships and sealing wax. This was the method a few years ago when the world was believed to be made of solid materials that could be measured with yardsticks and a bit of arithmetic.

Such views were expressed in the address of Dr. Ross J. S. Hoffman of Fordham university before the American Catholic Historical association yesterday at the Stevens hotel. The speaker, the retiring president of the association pointed to the new mysterious universe of modern scientists and asserted that human history is no less mysterious and no more materialistic.

"One thinks," Dr. Hoffman said, "of our contemporary physicists who are becoming aware of the baffling mystery of the world of nature. They stress the limitations more than the achievements of physical science, and point less to what is known than to what is unknown. The study of human behavior has also awakened the mystic nerve . . . the student has hardly begun to discover what the problems of his science are."

Dr. Hoffman declared the old time certainty about the laws of the social world which led up to the doctrins of Karl Marx and his economic view of history are now absurd, —"a derisively reactionary notion."

Concerning historians holding the German view of "scientific history," Dr. Hoffman said: "They did not see historical activity as a living process, an unceasing movement of the human spirit and therefore profoundly mysterious; but saw it rather as a vast sum of events, connected in a machinelike manner. They fancied that genuine history as distinguished from false history was nothing other than an immense compendium of verified statements concerning past events."

Dr. Hoffman declared that people today are rebelling against the onlooking historian who merely narrates events. The new historian, he explained, must tell his story with all the feeling of one who is personally interested in events.

"It is wholly impossible," said Dr. Hoffman, "for us ever to understand the men of past history and their moment of historical life unless we enter intuitively into them, seeing as they saw, feeling as they felt, thinking again their thoughts."

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Apparently most players make a habit of selecting the unbid suit as their opening lead. This is as good a generality as any but, like all generalities, must bow to specific analysis. Question 25 of the recent examination did not please the group which put its faith in the "unbid suit." This question was:

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

You are West, the opening leader, and hold:

♠ Q J 2 ♥ K 10 8 ♦ Q J 10 ♣ A 9 4 3

What do you lead?

The official answer was that West should open the spade queen [or jack] and the lead of every other suit was penalized in varying amounts. A number of participants took exception to my statement that the lead of a club would be "silly" and, indeed, I suppose I had better withdraw that particular adjective and substitute "unwise." It seems to me that on the bidding, and with two potential heart tricks, West should bend every effort toward breaking up a cross-ruff. There are two good arguments against the lead of a club. One is that the lead of the ace of clubs or a low club may establish the club king in declarer's hand, whereas that card [which declarer may well hold] would be trapped if West let the suit alone. The second reason, though less concrete, is equally important. Presumably, West will want to lead not only one trump but at least two trumps to stop a cross-ruff. If he lays down the club ace and even is fortunate enough to find his partner with the king, East [partner] will be able to lead only one trump. Certainly he never will regain the lead. Thus, if there is a singleton heart in dummy, which may well be the case, declarer will be able to use dummy's remaining trump, or trumps, to excellent advantage. In short, West cannot eat his cake and have it, too. If he decides [as he should] that it is advisable to stop a cross-ruff, he should launch the attack immediately so that he will be able to resume it by means of club entries in his own and, possibly, his partner's hand.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Double
2 hearts	2 no trump	Pass	3 spades
Pass	4 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

I have recorded the bidding as it took place at one table in the American-Austrian match in the 1937 world tournament. I sat North and obviously made my spade bid as a third hand semi-psychic. As he afterward admitted, the East player immediately jumped to the conclusion that it was an out and out psychic and that I had, perhaps, only two or three small spades. Admittedly, in expert circles, one must be ever alert against psychics, but with all due respect, I think East went sadly astray on this hand. If I had been psyching in spades, or rather were short in the suit, it was improbable that my partner would immediately have rescued with two hearts. Thus it seems to me that East's bid of my suit at the three level was a bad sizing up of the situation. It would have been far better for him to show his diamond suit, and if West responded with either four diamonds or three no trump, then East could "smoke out" my possible psychic by bidding four spades.

As the bidding actually went, the diamond suit was not even mentioned by either player. Four spades went down two tricks (I did not double and warn them), whereas five diamonds, of course, would have been ice cold.

BY MARY MEADE.

Quick frozen fruits, vegetables, meats and fish have brought pleasant changes into menus and more smiles to the cook. They have many advantages: Freshness, uniform quality, wide variety all year 'round, time-saving features in preparation and cooking, and there's no waste at all. Every bit of what you buy in the package is edible.

There now are several brands of frozen foods available in Chicago. All of those which I've tried are excellent. I particularly like the fruits and vegetables. I like to buy fresh peaches out of season, strawberries at any time, blueberries in December. And I like the frozen spinach which has been cleaned for me, the peas which are uniform in size, bright green and tender, and cook in only five minutes. There's something very comforting about opening a package of frozen vegetables, emptying it into a little boiling water, and presto! finding it cooked to perfection, in no time at all.

Quick freezing halts the processes of metabolism in fruits and vegetables, so that one may buy them months after they have been harvested and find them with the flavors of vegetables direct from the garden and fruits fresh from the tree. No satisfactory freezing methods have yet been found for cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, onions, radishes, celery and cucumbers but, from the housewife's standpoint, this isn't at all important, for these are the vegetables she finds in the markets most of the year, anyway, and they require no bothersome mode of preparation. Citrus fruits, citrus fruit juices, and tomato juice haven't been frozen to the complete satisfaction of manufacturers and consumers yet, either, but citrus fruits are readily available at all times, and canned tomato juice leaves nothing to be desired. I do hope, however, that a good method of freezing orange juice is perfected soon, for many of us will welcome a fresh-tasting but ready-made breakfast of orange juice.

Here is a partial list of frozen foods generally available in the city. Dealers in frozen foods are scattered pretty well through Chicagoland, so I'm sure no homemaker is going to encounter much difficulty in locating a market in her vicinity.

SOME OF THE FROZEN FRUITS: Blueberries, strawberries, gooseberries, raspberries, loganberries, youngberries, honeydew melons, figs, peaches, plums, currants, cherries, both sour and sweet.

SOME OF THE VEGETABLES: Artichokes, asparagus in various sizes and cuts, lima beans, string beans, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, corn on the cob, corn off the cob, peas, peas and carrots, spinach, squash.

SOME OF THE FISH: Oysters, scallops, shrimp, crabmeat, lobster, fillets of sole, perch, halibut, cod and haddock.

SOME OF THE MEATS AND POULTRY: Turkeys, ducks, geese, chickens, chopped steak.

The containers give instructions for cooking and thawing. Meats and poultry must be thawed before they are used. Fruits usually are allowed to thaw, too, but vegetables may be put to cook in the frozen state.

Many of the best meat and poultry packers now are putting frozen fowl on the market. These turkeys, ducks and chickens are of excellent quality, and do the best of cooks credit when they're brought to table.

FOOD PRICE CUTS TO MAKE WATCH PARTIES CHEAPER

But New Year Dinner Will Be Higher.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

New Year's eve lunches served at midnight "watch parties" will cost less this year than last.

Stores in every neighborhood shopping center and downtown are featuring at lower prices such holiday specialties as pickles, olives, dressings, potato chips, beverages, orange, pineapple, and grapefruit juices, cheese, tuna fish, sardines, salmon, shrimp, peanut butter, coffee, cookies, corn beef, and bacon.

Many foods on the shopper's regular pantry list are higher, however. Meats have an upward tendency, too.

Butter and Eggs Higher.

Butter is up 1 to 4 cents a pound. Most grades of eggs are up 1 to 4 cents a dozen.

Ten pound sacks of sugar have been advanced 2 to 4 cents. Celery is up 1 to 2 cents a stalk in most places.

Potatoes are going higher. For today and tomorrow green grocers have raised their prices 2 cents a peck. Sweet potatoes also are higher in some stores.

Cranberries continue to go up. Merchants generally added 2 to 4 cents a pound to their prices this week. Cucumbers and brussels sprouts are higher.

Managers of staple, green grocer, and meat departments are all contributing to make New Year's day dinners costlier than those of Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Pork Leads Meat Upswing.

In butcher shops most of the price changes were upward. Pork is leading the upswing in meats. Loin roasts are 2 cents higher for today and tomorrow than they were a week ago. Pork spare ribs are up 2 cents a pound in many shops.

Poultry is higher. Chickens are up 2 cents a pound in some places. Turkeys are expected to be higher for Sunday dinners. Some shops have marked turkeys up as much as 5 cents a pound since Christmas day. Leg of lamb is up 1 cent a pound in some and down 2 cents a pound in others.

Beef rib roasts are among the few cuts marked down. Many shops cut their prices 2 cents a pound. Perch, trout, and whitefish prices are 2 to 4 cents a pound lower.

Few Green Grocer Cuts.

Prices were cut on a few items in the green grocer departments this week. Bananas are off 1 cent a pound; small lemons, 5 cents a dozen; green onions, 1 cent a bunch; lettuce, 1 cent a head, and broccoli, 3 cents a pound in several stores. Spinach is off 3 cents a pound in most places.

Wholesale cuts of meat, including pork, beef, and lamb, are 50 cents a hundred pounds higher than last week, according to federal reports from the stock yards.

The better grades of beef cattle went up 25 cents a hundred to a top price of $13.65. Live hog prices averaged 10 to 20 cents a hundred pounds less than last week, although hogs reached a top price of $8 a hundred early in the week. Farmers were paid 15 to 25 cents a hundred less for fat lambs. Top price was $9.50 a hundred.

There were few changes in wholesale prices of fresh fruits and vegetables on the central market.

President Roosevelt Talks on Radio 32 Times in Year

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—(AP)—The National Broadcasting company announced today that President Roosevelt spoke over its facilities thirty-two times during 1938. This brought his total broadcasts over NBC since his inauguration to 157. In all, the company carried 333 broadcasts by federal executives and legislators during the first eleven months of 1938.

BABY BURNED TO DEATH.

Morrison, Ia., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—James, 6 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dawyne Street, Morrison, was burned to death in his crib today in a fire starting from a heating stove. His sister, Paty, 4 years old, suffered from smoke inhalation.

RECTOR, FAMED CHEF, TO GIVE HIS FAVORITE RECIPES FOR VENISON

Some day your husband may come back from a hunting trip with a deer draped upon the fender of the car. Or he may come home bearing that rarest of gifts from a friend, venison. Against that day, you should cherish tried recipes for this noble viand.

In his column in the woman's section of Sunday's TRIBUNE George Rector, the famous chef, will propound his favorite formulas for preparing venison. They include one recipe for broiling steaks, another for an unusual ragout made from a shoulder cut.

From his pastry file, Mr. Rector also will present recipes for honey cake, chocolate icing, and individual sponge baskets.

TWO BOYS RAID RAID-PROOF U. S. MINT—FOR FUN!

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—All the king's horses and all the king's men, all the bold robbers and gangster men couldn't raid the United States mint here—but two boys did.

"It was simple," Paul Francis and William Gallagher, both 15 years old, told amazed officials today. "We just did it for fun to see if it could be done."

The boys, who live in an orphanage at San Rafael, chose the cover of darkness last night to break into one of the country's most impregnable buildings. They climbed a pipe to the second story, they related, and crept around a ledge to a partly open window, which they entered. Avoiding an elaborate alarm system, they went to the room where pennies are made and threw a large sheet of copper out a window.

A watchman finally spied them, and his alarm brought guards armed with machine guns, who surrounded the boys. The two are being held for juvenile authorities.

BOY MENINGITIS VICTIM HOLDS HIS OWN IN HOSPITAL

Although his temperature fluctuated from 99 to 103 degrees, the condition of Raymond Potter, 14 years old, victim of the usually fatal staphylococcus meningitis, was called satisfactory yesterday. His physician, Dr. Luther Lorance, said the boy will not be out of danger so long as bacteria remained in the bloodstream, but that symptoms of their attack on the meninges, or brain envelope, are few.

A blood culture test is now being made. If it remains negative during the next few days it will show that the blood is free from the bacteria and that there is no danger of a new flareup of the meningitis, said the physician.

Raymond has been in the municipal Contagious Disease hospital since Dec. 13. He was stricken eight days earlier in his home at 11347 Church street.

City to Hold Iroquois Fire Memorial Service Today

Mayor Kelly yesterday proclaimed today—anniversary of the Iroquois theater fire in 1903 in which 575 persons lost their lives—as Iroquois Memorial day in Chicago. He urged that citizens attend memorial services to be held at 3:30 p. m. in the city council chambers at the city hall, and make new resolutions to take every possible precaution against fire.

TWO HISTORIANS DIFFER ON BLAME FOR WORLD WAR

Two historians reported yesterday on twenty years of research into the causes of the world war. One placed the bulk of the blame on Austria and Russia, the other on Germany. They spoke before the American Historical society in the Stevens hotel.

Prof. Sidney B. Fay of Harvard university said Austria and Russia were not only more responsible than England but perhaps more responsible than Germany. Kaiser Wilhelm and his chancellor, Von Bethmann-Hollweg, were handed the primary responsibility by Prof. Bernadotte E. Schmitt of the University of Chicago.

One of the important points on which the professors differed was the Potsdam conference on July 5 and 6, 1914, attended by the kaiser, his ministers, and representatives of Austria. Germany gave assurances of support to Austria in the latter country's demands on Serbia over the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand. These demands brought war three weeks later. Prof. Fay said the kaiser and Bethmann-Hollweg were guilty merely of stupidity, while Prof. Schmitt maintained they took action with their eyes open to the possibility that it might cause a general war.

THE ZOO GREETS AN AFRICAN CHAP WITH A BIG BEAK

That great commotion you heard in the bird house at the Lincoln park zoo yesterday was caused by a large beak. To the natives of the house it appeared that the ponderous beak was walking about unaided.

Closer inspection by the less timorous disclosed a bird body behind the beak. This strange apparition, said Director Floyd Young, is an African hornbill.

SALES TAX RAISE TO 3 PCT. VOTED AT PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 29.—(AP)—A 3 per cent retail sales tax was passed today by city council in an effort to meet 1939 budget needs. The tax is a 1 per cent increase over the 1938 levy. It was adopted over the objection of Howard Cooper Johnson president of the Philadelphia Merchants association, who said it would prove disastrous to business and wage earners alike.

The tax is expected to help bridge a $25,000,000 gap between the city controler's estimates of next year's income and tentative budget needs of more than $93,000,000.

As spokesman for the merchants' association, Johnson said the 2 per cent sales tax effective in 1938 resulted in nearly 11,000 Philadelphians losing their jobs and a decrease of $53,200,000 in retail sales.

Two Chicago Milk Union Officials See Wallace Aid

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Two officials of unions serving the dairy industry in Chicago talked over the recent Chicago milk trust indictments today at the department of agriculture.

The visit of Robert G. Fitchie, president of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, and Frank J. Gillespie, secretary of the Dairy Employés union, was in connection with a petition filed last week by the Pure Milk association. The association seeks to avoid prosecution on the charges by consenting to the control of milk prices in Chicago by Secretary Wallace and the department of agriculture.

Fitchie was one of the labor leaders indicted. Gillespie was not indicted. He is a lawyer. The pair talked with Dr. E. W. Gaumnitz, chief of the dairy division. Department officials said after the conference that the union men wanted confirmation that the Pure Milk association had filed a petition and then asked what part they could play in it.

They were told, it was said, that the Chicago milk market is the problem of the department of justice at present and that agriculture officials cannot move unless the justice department permits it.

Fitchie and Gillespie were also told, according to reports, that they would be given an opportunity to be heard if a public hearing is granted on the Pure Milk association's petition. No discussion of a consent decree was held, officials insisted.

At the justice department, Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of trust prosecutions, said, in reference to the Pure Milk petition: "Frankly, my attitude is that they can work out anything they want to but it won't do them any good to come in here."

Neither Fitchie nor Gillespie called on Arnold, nor have they made any appointment to see him.

PARK PROPOSAL BEATEN BUT VOTE IS 5 TO 1 FOR IT

Voters of Bedford Park and a residential area in Stickney township adjoining Clearing, yesterday defeated a proposal to create a Southwest Towns Community Park district, although the favorable vote was five to one.

Voters in Summit, the other area represented in the proposed district, cast a heavy favorable vote. In a matter involving a park district comprising more than one community, however, an adverse vote in one municipality defeats the proposal for all. The other two districts voted no.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 29.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, who seem to play their best when their casualty list is topheavy, routed the Chicago Blackhawks, 4 to 1, in a National Hocky league game here tonight. A crowd of 7,000 saw Detroit take the lead on a goal by Marty Barry after only 19 seconds of play, score again in the second period, and twice in the final session.

It was the fourth time this season the world champions had failed to subdue the Wings, who had won two and tied one previously with the Hawks. The Chicagoans meet the Montreal Canadiens at the Chicago Stadium Sunday night.

Barry beat Goalie Mike Karakas with a beautiful shot into the corner after taking a double relay from Hector Kilrea and Syd Howe.

Conacher Gets a Goal.

Charley Conacher scored Detroit's second goal early in the second period with a blinding smash from the side after taking a nice pass from Barry. Howe also got an assist.

The Red Wings, who forced the pace throughout the game, tallied their third goal early in the final period when Kilrea smashed the puck into the net over the prostrate Karakas after Detroit had turned loose a fusilade. Barry and Doug Young got assists.

Chicago scored its only goal of the night a few minutes later when a five man attack resulted in a goal by Earl Robinson after Cecil [Tiny] Thompson dived to the ice. Paul Thompson and Baldy Northcott got assists.

Gus Giesebrecht, playing his first major league game, got Detroit's final score when he fired home a rebound of a shot by Carl Liscombe. Scotty Bowman also drew an assist. Giesebrecht was brought up by Detroit when injuries forced Modere Bruneteau, Ed Wares, and Alex Motter to the side lines.

COLLEGE COACHES WARNED OF TAINT IN SOME SCHOOLS

Rickey Attacks Half and Half Athletic Trend.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

"Intercollegiate sport must control itself. The tendency in all sport is toward professionalism. A few institutions violate the amateur code, thus discoloring the entire amateur setup. If coaches do not see and recognize the trend of critical public opinion and set out to correct these abuses, a superior power, outside the boards of control and the athletic associations, may create a radical change and forced conformity."

With these words Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinal Baseball club, warned 350 football coaches and college directors in the joint session of the American Football Coaches' association and the National Collegiate Athletic association yesterday in the Sherman hotel that "football cannot exist partly amateur and partly in violation of amateur ideals."

Stuhldreher Also Speaks.

Rickey spoke after the members of the associations had listened to Prof. William B. Owens of Stanford and Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, also speaking on the same subject, "The Relation of Intercollegiate Athletics and the Public."

Rickey didn't tell his listeners any new facts in the current discussion of amateurism in relation to college football. Neither did he confine himself entirely to the generalities of the problem, as did Prof. Owens, who began his address with the admission that he intended to confine his remarks to general aspects. Nor did Rickey refer to Stuhldreher's premise that "we coaches do not have to defend football; that when 50,000 to 100,000 persons watch a football game it is an endorsement of the game, not a criticism."

Pulls No Punches.

But Rickey, speaking with a sincerity and an occasional deliberation that held attention throughout, pulled no punches. He named the Southeastern conference, where athletes are given tuition, room, and board, as violator of the amateur code.

Rickey deprecated attacks on generalities such as President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago made in his recent suggestion of ten cent football in a magazine article. The attack, he said, fails to concede the underlying theme that "athletics has no place in educative systems if it transcends instead of being a subordinate part."

"Certain inconsistencies, certain deceits in college football have exposed the game to criticism," Rickey continued. "Rules and practice must conform in all colleges else it becomes the duty of college associations to draw the line between those who conform to amateur standards and those who do not and arrange intercollegiate competition accordingly.

Only Few to Blame.

"I refer to those schools that pay athletes, that secretly violate the rules of their conferences, that play men who are not eligible under their codes. I do not say that most schools do this. I do say that most are honest and sincere in the administration of athletics. But it is the few who create the problem confronting you and who are responsible for the public attitude of suspicion."

Near the conclusion of his remarks Rickey indicated that the ultimate result of continued violation of amateurism might be that the public would turn more and more to professional football.

"College football stands today where college baseball stood 40 years ago," he said. "Once college baseball was the big sport and professional baseball was secondary. Yale and Harvard had great teams. They even played professional teams for world championships. Then professionalism took over and today college baseball is dying.

"Crowds attend professional football, which stands at the threshold of taking over and dominating the field." Rickey's inference was that college football had no future by being professional in amateur guise, but that its hope for continued success lay in respect of the amateur code.

BEES LAY DOWN JUST $3,000 AND TAKE SIMMONS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Al Simmons, long one of baseball's costliest items, a $75,000 parcel only three years ago and a $100,000 luxury six years ago, yesterday was snapped up by President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees as a $3,000 bargain special. The foregoing, it should be said right here, are not some of those sketchy Chinese appraisals so common to baseball, for J. Louis Comiskey actually paid all that money for the so-called Duke of Milwaukee a half dozen annums ago and, in December, 1935, after paying him $91,665.67 in salary, sold him to the Detroit Tigers for $75,000 hard cash.

The fact that Simmons was through with his last American league connection, the Washington Senators, was not news when his sale to the Bees was announced yesterday by President Clark Griffith in Washington. On the closing day of the season Al got in a big jam with Griffith and it was apparent that he would not be with the Senators in 1939.

They All Waive Him Out.

At the recent winter meetings it was made known that all American league teams had waived on the veteran outfield and slugging star and that he would be in the National league if in the majors at all. President Griffith said during the meetings, however, that Simmons, as a matter of discipline, would not be given his unconditional release; that he would be sent a nominal contract on a take it or leave it basis, if all teams in the National refused to purchase. All National league teams subsequently refused to claim Al at the waiver price of $7,500, were above those of the majority of younger players in the majors.

Simmons' lifetime batting and fielding record is one of the greatest in baseball, and even his last year's marks, both as a fielder and a hitter, were above the majority of younger players in the majors.

Last season Al played in 125 games and compiled a batting average of .302, his socking including twenty-one homers, twenty-three doubles, and six triples.

Al Can Hit That Ball.

In his prime Simmons, now 35, rang up tremendous batting averages season after season while a member of the Philadelphia Athletics. He won the American league batting championship in 1930 and 1931 with marks of .381 and .390. Other high marks which left him just short of the championship were his .392 in 1927 and .386 in 1925.

Al should enjoy several good years in Boston. The Bees' left and center field stands are easily in his homer range and there are several other National league parks made to order for his right handed slugging style, notably the Polo Grounds in New

By lopsided scores, favorites advanced through the second round of the prep basketball tournament at the University of Chicago yesterday and won the right to appear in the quarter-finals today. The quarter-finalists will be Marshall, Crane, Hyde Park, Wells, Austin, Farragut, Lane, and Roosevelt.

Not one of the eight results yesterday could be called an upset; and unlike the first round matches, which were closely contested, only two decisions were in doubt during the last half.

Five West Side Teams Survive.

The early dominance by south side teams vanished when five west side teams and two from the north survived, leaving Hyde Park the only representative of the south.

Willie Pratscher, Hyde Park captain, took the scoring lead of the tournament with 26 points, eight of which were registered in his team's victory over Tuley yesterday. Killian of Wells, and Marshall of Crane, are tied for second with 25.

The two final games of the round produced the most excitement. Lane, had to battle down to the stretch to

LOYOLA DEFEATS MAROONS, 35-28; ENDS 3 YEAR JINX

Loyola university's Ramblers won their sixth basketball game of the season and broke a three year jinx by defeating Chicago, 35 to 28, before 3,300 at Loyola last night.

Wibs Kautz took scoring honors with five baskets and three free throws to run his season's total to 134 points. But George Wenskus, sophomore guard, supplied the fire in the first half that gave Loyola an 18 to 16 lead. Loyola's tightened zone defense and its ability to break through the Maroons' man to man defense gave the Ramblers the edge in the second half.

Loyola jumped to an early lead, holding a 9 to 1 advantage and then making the count 10 to 3 before Chicago hit its stride. The Maroons scored mostly on one-handed shots and long shots from side court to whittle the count down to a 14 to 14 tie with five minutes remaining.

Maroons Hold Lead Once.

Chicago took the lead with Stampf's basket from the side, but Novak tied it up seconds later and Kautz then put the Ramblers ahead with a push shot under the basket.

Hogan, Novak, Kautz, and Wenskus counted in quick succession before Stampf hit another side shot to make the score 26 to 18 early in the second half. After Richardson's push-up Kautz counted. Then Chicago began to catch up when Richardson and Stanley got field goals and Chet Murphy a free throw. Novak scored twice, however, to put Loyola safely out in front. Lineups:

GOPHERS, ILLINI WIN

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Minnesota gained its sixteenth consecutive basketball victory tonight by beating Temple, 38 to 35, in Convention hall, after Illinois had snapped Villanova's six game winning streak, 28 to 22. The double-header drew 8,926 fans.

The Gophers, fresh from the victory over New York university, were hard pressed but pulled the game out in the last two minutes when Johnny Kundla converted two straight free throw attempts and followed with a field goal. It was Kundla's sixth field goal. He shared scoring honors with Howie Black of the Owls.

Temple took a 35 to 33 lead with less than three minutes to play when Jimmy Usilton Jr., son of the coach, shot a long goal. The Gophers broke

5,089 SEE LEO RALLY IN CLOSE COLISEUM BOUT

Covelli, Roth Also Triumph.

Leo Rodak, only boxer to win three Golden Gloves championships, retained his position as the National Boxing association's No. 1 featherweight by defeating Leone Efrati of Italy in a ten round fight in the Coliseum last night.

It was a fiercely fought battle which ended in a photo finish decision. The 5,089 spectators, who paid $9,362 to see the bout, booed the verdict and gave Efrati a big hand as he left the ring.

Rodak rallied after a slow start and pounded out points in the last three rounds to earn the unanimous award of Referee Tommy Gilmore and Judges William Battye and Ed Klein.

Gilmore's vote was 54-46, Battye's 55-45, and Klein's 52-48.

It was Efrati's first setback in nine American appearances. His aggressive, two fisted style fighting is popular and his showing last night won him additional followers.

Rodak Starts Strong.

Rodak outboxed his rugged foe in the opening round, but Efrati found the range in the next two rounds to go into the lead. Efrati started the fourth as if he meant to annihilate Leo as he swarmed all over Rodak and pounded his body with both hands.

Just as the fans were beginning to feel awfully sorry for Rodak, he maneuvered Efrati into position, took careful aim, and landed a solid punch which scored a no count knockdown.

Efrati whanged away in the fifth, sixth, and seventh rounds to go to the front, but Rodak rallied to pile up points in the last three rounds. In the eighth Rodak suffered a cut over his left eye.

Roth Defeats Marquart.

Al Roth, New York lightweight, was awarded a decision over Billy Marquart of Winnipeg, Man., when Marquart was refused permission to come out for the sixth round of a match set for ten rounds. Marquart caught a series of left hooks which caused a swelling to appear on his right temple in the second round. At the end of the fifth round Dr. Frank A. Lagorio, chief medical examiner for the Illinois boxing commission, examined the injury and ordered the contest stopped. He said the injury might prove serious if the bout was allowed to continue.

Mancini Loses to Covelli.

Frankie [Kid] Covelli, featherweight from Brooklyn, whipped Al Mancini of Providence, R. I., in a ten round bout which followed the main event. Mancini beat Sixto Escobar, bantamweight champion, recently in a nontitle bout. Covelli won the first, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, and tenth rounds.

Johnny Barbara, Chicago welterweight, got revenge for a defeat at the hands of Harold Brown by handing his rival a beating in the second contest. The commission refused to permit Brown to answer the eighth and last round because of a cut lip. Brown suffered the injury when a right to the mouth dropped him for a nine count in the seventh round.

In the four round opener Verle Davis, Kankakee 138 pounder, conquered Babe Sabino of Dallas, Tex.

Ask President's Help in Bringing Army-Navy Game

Chicago will take its plea to President Roosevelt in an effort to bring the 1939 football game between the Army and Navy to Soldiers' field, leaders of the movement to have the annual service contest moved to Chicago said last night.

A committee headed by Gen. A. F. Lorenzen will sit in conference with the President next Wednesday and outline to him the principal reasons why the two service schools, which last played in Chicago in 1926, should appear in Chicago next fall, despite a previous agreement to meet in Philadelphia and despite the necessity of underwriting $500,000 to bring the game here.

The main reason for having Army and Navy play in Chicago next year, Gen. Lorenzen reiterated, is that both captains for 1939 come from Kankakee, Ill., which is within easy driving distance of Chicago.

Harry Stella, captain elect of the Army, and Allen Bergner, captain elect of the Navy eleven, who both play tackle, are from Kankakee, where they were prep stars. This, it was pointed out, is the first time that the two service schools have had football captains from the same Illinois town.

On Tuesday Gen. Lorenzen will lead a committee eastward that includes Walter Cummings, Gen. Robert Wood, James Slattery, Roy Barnett, George W. Crowley, James Igo, Frank Martinek, George Donoghue, Col. Thomas R. Gowenlack, and C. Rose Turner.

EIGHT INDICTED ON SWEEPSTAKE LOTTERY CHARGE

Report Ring Operating in Twelve States.

New York, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The government aimed a telling blow at the tremendous sale of Irish hospitals sweepstakes chances in the United States today by obtaining indictments against eight persons described by officials as heads of this country's biggest ticket selling ring.

The indictments returned by a federal grand jury climaxed a two year investigation by postal inspectors in twelve states scattered from coast to coast and carried charges new to the government's attack on foreign lotteries.

An innovation, Assistant United States Attorney John L. Delaney said, was the charge of using the express to transport tickets in interstate commerce. Another group was indicted about two years ago, he pointed out, but the charge then was using the mails.

Smuggling Is Charged.

Today's indictments, containing twelve counts in all, also alleged conspiracy to smuggle the tickets into the country, distribute them and return the money to the Irish promoters. No figures were mentioned but one official estimated the output of tickets by the defendants at $25,000,000 for the year 1936. Tickets generally are sold for $2.50 each and prizes range from $150,000 downward.

Arrest in 1936 of six defendants, named as Gerald Kelly, John W. Kelly, John W. Kelly II., John R. Kelly, Connie Neenan, and Clifford Burgett, all of New York, started the widespread inquiry. Free under bail since that time, they will be arraigned shortly to plead to the indictments. Bench warants, Delaney said, would be issued for William Mead of New York and Joseph McGarrity of Philadelphia.

They Had a Big Staf.

Delaney said the eight worked directly for the promoters of the sweepstakes in Ireland and distributed the tickets in the United States through some 700 agents whom they appointed. These in turn supervised more than 3,000 salesmen, he said.

Delaney listed the states in which the investigation was centered as Connecticut, Georgia, New Jersey, California, Florida, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Arizona, Kansas, Massachusetts, and New York, but added that the ticket-selling covered the country even more generally.

TWO SEAMEN HELD.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Two seamen charged with smuggling into the United States 11,000 booklets of Irish sweepstakes tickets with a sales value of $350,000 were ordered held tonight on bond of $5,000 each.

Ernest F. Passet, chief steward on the Isthmian Line freighter Steelworker, and Mariano Gaspe, ship's carpenter, pleaded innocent in a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner James K. Cullen.

Both denied knowledge or ownership of three suitcases containing the tickets which customs officials said were hidden on a pier of the Maryland Drydock company, where the ship docked after a trip from Avonmouth, England.

SMILIN' JACK—HEAD MAN

TERRY AND THE PIRATES — LOGICAL CONCLUSION, OR CEREBRAL ILLUSION?

RABBIT SEASON NEARS END; IT'S BEEN POOR YEAR

Tularemia Danger Keeps Hunters Out of Fields.

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois hunters have just one more day to hunt rabbits, the most popular upland game animal in the middle west. According to the Illinois game code the season closes tomorrow. After sundown tomorrow afternoon there will be no more shooting at the cottontails until the fall of 1939.

As far as thousands of shooters are concerned the rabbit season could have closed several weeks ago, because the widespread tularemia epidemic among Illinois cottontails just about took all the fun out of hunting them. With the danger of contracting the disease facing every one who handled a rabbit, many hunters who enjoy a hike through the fields in search of a few cottontails gave up this fun.

Fever Not Related to Cold.

David Williams of Wauconda, Ill., who since Nov. 10 has been leasing hunting privileges to rabbit shooters, writes us that the tularemia scare has kept many shooters from going after cottontails in that part of Chicagoland. During the three weeks preceding Christmas, when the Illinois health department reported 250 cases of human tularemia in the state, there was a marked drop in the number of hunters who were interested in bagging rabbits.

It may be some consolation to Illinois sportsmen to know that they aren't the only shooters who had to think about the danger of tularemia during the past few months. Wisconsin hunters also were warned some weeks ago about the prevalence of tularemia in rabbits in the southern part of that state.

One of the common but erroneous beliefs about rabbit fever is that the spread of the disease among animals is related to lack of cold winter weather or snow on the ground. Many times during November and early December we heard hunters remark that they weren't going out for rabbits until it got colder and there was snow on the ground, for then [they believed] the rabbits no longer would have tularemia.

Poor Year for Ducks, Too.

It would be great for the rabbits and the shooters if this were true. But unfortunately it isn't, so the rabbits continue to develop tularemia, and during the past month an all-time high for human tularemia cases was reported throughout the state.

With the Illinois duck season one of the poorest in years, and a tularemia epidemic among the rabbits in the state, Chicagoland hunters have had their troubles this fall.

28,000 WILL SEE OKLAHOMA AND TENNESSEE PLAY

Orange Bowl Crowd to Set State Record.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Dec. 29. — Twenty-eight thousand, the greatest crowd to watch a football game in the history of Florida, will gather in Burdine stadium Monday afternoon for the Orange Bowl contest between Tennessee's Volunteers, Southeastern conference champions, and Oklahoma's Sooners, champions of the Big Six conference.

Announcement of the expected record gathering was made today as the Volunteers and the Sooners, two of the four undefeated and untied major elevens in the nation this year, went through workouts under a bright sun. The Sooners drilled in Miami field, a baseball park located near the Orange Bowl stadium, while the Volunteers worked out on Miami high school's gridiron.

Everybody Wants to Go.

The seating capacity of Burdine stadium, built a year ago at a cost of $350,000, is 23,000. Temporary bleachers to accommodate an additional 5,000 were erected, and four days ago tickets for these seats were placed on sale. This afternoon only 1,800 remained unsold, but the intense interest in the game indicated they would be disposed of within the next forty-eight hours.

The presence of the Volunteers and the Sooners has brought a new Orange Bowl picture for Miami. Last year shortly before the game between Michigan State and Auburn, newspapers waged a campaign to have the Tropical Park race track conduct its program in the morning, thus enabling visitors to watch the football game in the afternoon.

It's All Football This Year.

There were times last season when the mention of the name of a halfback on the Michigan State or Auburn team would bring queries of "Where did you get the tip?" "How good is it?" and then the questioner would make a quick dash for racing sheets under the impression that a new turf discovery had been made. Now the chief topic of conversation along Flagler street is the contest between the Volunteers and the Sooners, surpassing in popularity even the visitors' No. 1 subject, the severe cold waves and snowstorms in the north.

Tennessee will rule as the favorite in the game. The Volunteers possess one of the outstanding half backs in the country this season in George Cafego, 200 pound junior, who carried the ball 105 times and gained 645 yards in the Southerners' ten games. Cafego also is a brilliant passer, this season completing sixteen out of thirty-five tosses.

Oklahoma Has Crowder.

Oklahoma will count heavily on its fleetest back, Earl Crowder, 182 pound senior, who was the Sooners leading ground gainer. Two of Oklahoma's regular back field men are injured and will not play against the Volunteers. Howard McCarty, 170 pound junior, suffered a broken leg in the game against the Oklahoma Aggies and Bill Jennings, sophomore right half back, incurred a broken ankle in the team's 28 to 0 victory over Washington State.

A special train from Norman, Okla., carrying the Sooners' band and fans, will arrive in Miami tomorrow morning. Tennessee supporters and the Volunteers' band will come in on two special trains Saturday.

NO ROSE BOWL DRILL

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Duke and Southern California football teams will enter the Rose bowl for the first time only thirty minutes before the kickox of their game Monday afternoon.

The Blue Devils from Durham, N. C., had thought of working out at least once in the bowl before the game, but gave up the idea because of the inability to keep sightseers out of the place. Southern California also abandoned plans to practice in the bowl, but after another spirited drill today on the Trojan field in Los Angeles, moved to Pasadena to remain until Monday.

U. S. C. injury worries dwindled today when Mickey Anderson, quarter back star of the Notre Dame game, and Tony Tonelli, regular guard, reported for practice in fine shape after training mishaps.

ALDRICH MAY PLAY

New Orleans, La., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Coach Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian university didn't know today whether his star center, Ki Aldrich, who is suffering from an ulcer on his eye, will be able to start against Carnegie Tech in the Sugar Bowl Monday.

The 197 pound Aldrich was stricken late yesterday, but today Dr. Webb Walker said the center has "an even chance to play against Carnegie." The doctor and coach both said Aldrich would not be permitted to play with one eye.

SUN BOWL A TOSSUP

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Fans who watched the Utah and New Mexico football squads work out today still were unable to call the turn for Monday's Sun Bowl game. With both elevens at the site of the game for the first time the prevailing odds remained "3 to 2 and take your pick."

TECH TEAM INTACT

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Scrimmage, perhaps the last strenuous workout before gametime Monday, occupied Texas Tech's football team today preparatory to meeting St. Mary's in the Cotton Bowl. Two or three players have bad colds, but not a major injury was reported in camp.

through, however, when Temple shifted from a zone to a man to man defense.

Illini Take Early Lead.

Illinois put on the pressure early and fought off repeated Villanova challenges in the second half to win.

Brilliant dribbling, cutting, and one hand shots gave Illinois its early lead. The Illini employed a defense that kept Villanova scoreless from the field for the first nine minutes. The visitors led, 14 to 7, at the half. Villanova rallied to outscore Illinois by one point in the second half.

Bill Hapac led the Illini with four field goals and two free throws. Pick Dehner, who set up a new individual scoring record with twenty-five points in New York against Manhattan, was held to seven points.

Paul Nugent, Villanova sophomore, entered the game as substitute in the second half and scored three field goals and a foul to help cut the Illini lead to 24 to 20 at one stage.

OHIO BEATS U. C. L. A.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Midwestern basketball broke even here tonight as Ohio State defeated the University of California at Los Angeles, 59 to 57, and the Nebraska squad suffered a 58 to 30 setback at the hands of the University of California at Berkeley. SHIFT IN N. U. LINEUP

Coach Dutch Lonborg plans to reshuffle Northwestern's basketball lineup for tomorow night's game with Notre Dame in an effort to snap the Wildcats' four game losing streak and reverse the 48 to 30 defeat at the hands of the Irish last week. The game will be played in Patten gymnasium, Evanston. Tickets still are available.

Since opening the season with a victory over Carleton, Northwestern has lost successive games to the Pittsburgh, St. John's, Temple, and Notre Dame. Inability to come up with a high scoring front line has been responsible for the Wildcats' failure to strike a winning stride.

A shoulder injury to Bernie Davis, first string forward, will force a change in the front line. It is probable that either Dick Peil, a sophomore, or Chuck Melchoir, a junior, will start in place of Davis, who will be unable to play for a week.

ST. THOMAS WINS IN MT. CARMEL BASKET TOURNEY

The St. Thomas the Apostle quintet upset St. Philip Neri, 21 to 16, to win the Mount Carmel grammar school basketball tournament in Mount Carmel High school gymnasium last night. Third place went to St. Gabriel, which beat St. Brendan, 23 to 14.

Emil Flarick, St. Thomas center, was the scoring star of the final game with 10 points. Dick Connors of St. Philip Neri was named most valuable player in the tournament. He scored 9 points last night.

Officials picked an all-star tournament team, including Robert Maxia, St. Cyril, and Robert Delaney, St. Philip Neri, forwards; Flarick, center, and John Halpin, St. Gabriel, and Robert Kelly, St. Brendan, guards.

Close Games in Irving Park Industrial League

Close games marked play last night in the Irving Park Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball league. Aetna Ball Bearing defeated John E. Fast, 27 to 26; Illinois Tool won from Stewart Dye Casting, 46 to 42, in two overtimes, and Chicago Roto Printing overcame W. F. Hall Printing, 26 to 23.

Lou Little Sees Football Trend to Balanced Attack

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Game by game football is returning to the time honored principles of blocking, tackling and a balanced attack, in the opinion of Lou Little of Columbia, who will succeed to the presidency of the National Football Coaches association at the organization's annual business meeting in the Sherman hotel today.

"Passing circuses were spectacular, but unproductive against strong opponents and were not good football," Little said. "Coaches are beginning to realize that successful football is only that in which running and passing are equally balanced and exploited. The teams with the best records are those that have the running attack to plow ahead and the aerial threat to clear the way for ball players.

"The general trend over the last few seasons has been the perfection of balanced offenses with considerable stress on mousetraps, spinners and cut back plays. Development of these techniques and their blending with a good pass attack has been the answer to the agitation for legislation a few years ago to curb the defense.

"The pros," Little continued, "did the most last season to establish the folly of relying entirely on passes. And we did a bit ourselves. Columbia passed more than ever before because of Sid Luckman, but we weren't very successful. Look at Washington and the Cardinals in the National league. They can complete more passes than the auditors can keep track of in one afternoon, but the Cardinals lost nine games and Washington was lucky to finish within hailing distance of the title.

"I don't see where there is ground for argument on the relative merits of professional and college ball. In my opinion the pros play no better football than the colleges. Their only advantage is in execution on days when a good team is good. But we get just as excellent execution from some of our college teams when they have their best days."

Milan Creighton, who resigned as coach of the Cardinals several weeks ago, has held daily conferences with half a dozen athletic directors on college jobs. Two of his best offers came from surprise sources.

The most active man in the convention is A. A. Stagg, dean of American coaches. Stagg, approaching his fiftieth year as a coach, was pleased with his season at the College of the Pacific, despite a few defeats. He leans toward Southern California in the Rose Bowl game. "It's not on order of the chamber of commerce either," he hastened to explain. "It's because Mr. Howard Jones has a really excellent football team."

Jay Wyatt, veteran Big Ten official, will enter a hospital for a minor operation and checkup after the meetings, which close today.

Dutch Clark, newly appointed coach of the Cleveland Rams, has been a lobby squatter during the last three days, cross-examining coaches on the ability of the players on Cleveland's draft list and looking for a couple of worthwhile tackles. "Tackles is what we will need most next season," Clark says.

Bees Acquire Simmons for Just $3,000

York, Ebbets field in Brooklyn and Wrigley field in Chicago. Al always liked Sportsman's park in St. Louis, where he will continue to play as a National leaguer.

They Can't Believe It.

Those who knew Simmons well, such as Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox, who played with him throughout his Philadelphia stardom and who came to Chicago in the deal which brought Simmons here, have had difficulty in believing some of the stories about Al's by-by jam in Washington. He is said to have quarreled with boxholders on the final day of the season, a quarrel in which he is said to have used "vile and obscene" language to the customers. While a prima donna in many ways, Al long had the reputation of being a gentle, though highly sensitive fellow.

With his acquisition by the Bees, Simmons becomes the second former White Sox slugger to be sold out of the American league by Griffith within the last month. The other was Zeke Bonura, who went to the Giants for a figure considerably in excess of the sum Al's deed fetched.

League Movie Is a Hit.

President Will Harridge of the American league, and Lew Fonseca, the league's famed magic lantern man, yesterday gave a holiday party in which the new, and fifth American league sound movie, "First Century of Baseball," was unreeled. Spectators voted it the best of the series produced under Mr. Fonseca's direction.

The American league's modern scenes as revealed yesterday, feature the 1938 world series more than the National league cinema, but perhaps there is a legitimate reason for this. The American league film, however, presents several good shots of Gabby Hartnett, Dizzy Dean, and Johnny Vander Meer, whereas the National league forgot to include any American league stars.

Ir the historical phase Mr. Fonseca uses admirable restraint in the use of false whiskers, which got a strong play in the National league epic. Lincoln and Grant are players on the National league team but were not issued costumes for the American league production.

HIRSCH JACOBS LEADS TRAINERS FOR SIXTH YEAR

New York, Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Hirsch Jacobs today was acclaimed the leading trainer of thoroughbreds in 1938. This is the sixth straight time he has topped all conditioners of race horses. Jacobs thus ties the record for consecutive years set between 1912 and 1917 by H. G. Bedwell.

Jacobs started his winning streak in 1933. Although Bedwell is one up in the number of yearly championships with seven—he won the first in 1909—Jacobs has saddled more winners.

During the seven years of his leadership Bedwell had 663 winners against 774 for Jacobs in six years. Jacobs has two more days on the Florida tracks.

Like Johnny Longden, the season's leading jocky, Jacobs started his turf career in Cuba about ten years ago. It was at old Oriental Park that both champions met—Longden, a fledgling of 18, and Jacobs six years older. Out of this meeting grew a friendship instrumental in starting the successful careers of both horsemen.

Jacobs conditioned horses for Charley Ferraro, and Longden rode for A. G. Tarn, Canadian sportsman, at the Cuban track. The trainer in time returned to New York and Longden followed.

HUNK ANDERSON IS NAMED LINE COACH OF LIONS

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Heartly W. [Hunk] Anderson, whose collegiate coaching career has included posts at his alma mater, Notre Dame, and St. Louis university, North Carolina State college, the University of Michigan, and the University of Cincinnati, will enter the professional side of the game next season.

Anderson was named line coach of the Detroit Lions of the National Professional Football league today. The Lions' new head coach, named Monday, is Elmer [Gus] Henderson, who came from the Los Angeles Bulldogs to succeed Dutch Clark, who recently resigned to coach the Cleveland Rams.

Bob Howard, also of the Bulldogs, will join Henderson with the Lions as back field coach.

Anderson, a native of Calumet, Mich., the town which sent George Gipp to Notre Dame, is 40 years old. He entered Notre Dame in 1918, and played guard on the teams of 1919, 1920 and 1921. He was assistant coach to Knute Rockne from 1922 to 1928. In 1928 he became head coach at St. Louis university, but returned to Dame and had charge of spring practice of 1930.

Anderson became head coach at Notre Dame in 1931, following Rockne's death, and continued as such until his retirement in December, 1933. A few weeks later he signed a contract as head coach at North Carolina State. In 1936 North Carolina State announced a reorganization of its athletic setup, and Anderson was not retained as coach. February of last year found Hunk appointed line coach at Michigan. During the 1938 season he served as assistant coach at Cincinnati.

He is accused of dealing in stock of the Sisto Financial corporation to his own profit and the company's loss, with falsifying the books of J. A. Sisto & Co., and with making wash sales for Sisto Financial.

Sisto Financial is an investment trust with assets of $716,872, according to its latest balance sheet. It has about 200 stockholders.

Sisto & Co., the exchange said, is in sound condition and none of its clients will suffer. The expulsion of Sisto, however, leaves the company without a floor trader. It was predicted that some other house will take over the Sisto accounts.

First Expulsion Since Whitney.

This is the first expulsion since that of Richard Whitney, former president of the exchange. He was sent to Sing Sing for defalcations in the brokerage firm of Richard Whitney & Co. last spring.

Trading on the exchange was not noticeably affected by the expulsion. The firm's stock trading business is small. It has only ten employés and carries no margin accounts. Its business is mostly underwriting, chiefly small issues.

Sisto issued the following statement:

"For the last several years the firm of J. A. Sisto & Co., of which I am a member and floor partner, has done business only on a cash basis, carrying no margin accounts. A full answer was made to the board of governors of the New York Stock exchange to the charges.

No Means of Redress.

"In my opinion, my conduct was in all respects proper. The board's interpretation of the rules was otherwise. As a practical matter, I have no right of appeal or other means of redress. I have no further comment to make."

Soon after the expulsion was announced the attorney general for New York ordered an investigation. The Securities and Exchange commission also began an inquiry.

Late this afternoon District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey disclosed the concern also was being investigated by his office.

The exchange's own investigation began last July. Specifications were delivered to Sisto eleven days ago, after which he had a trial, without an attorney. Legal assistants at such hearings are against the rules of the exchange.

This investigation, it was said, resulted from one of the periodic surprise audits that are made of the books of exchange members under the rules adopted after the Whitney scandal.

Once Big Bond Dealer.

Sisto, who rose rapidly in Wall street and was one of the street's big bond dealers before he was 35 years old, was an important figure in the Seabury investigation and the subsequent removal proceedings against Mayor James J. Walker in 1932.

Walker was accused of improperly receiving $26,000 worth of bonds from Sisto at a time when the banker was interested in obtaining legislation regulating the taxicab industry.

The first charge against Sisto was that on which Whitney, former president of the exchange, was expelled—"conduct or proceeding inconsistent with just and equitable principles of trade."

"The substance of the specification of which he was found guilty under this charge was that, on June 10, 11, and 16, 1937, J. A. Sisto caused the Sisto Financial corporation, of which he was president and a director and which he dominated and controlled, to purchase from him at $23 a share a total of 1,000 shares of the stock of the Sisto Financial corporation, which he had purchased on or about the same date for $15⅛ a share," the announcement said.

The second charge was that the books of Sisto & Co. were altered.

Charge of "Wash Sales."

The third charge contained three specifications that on thirty days in 1937 J. A. Sisto & Co. made "wash sales" [a sale to create a fictitious price in which the buyer and seller are the same person] for the Sisto Financial corporation; that J. A. Sisto & Co. records were improperly kept, and that Sisto caused account names on his firm's books to be changed to make it appear that unprofitable transactions of his firm had been his personal transactions, and his profitable personal deals had been made by his firm.

Sisto, it was learned, appeared before the governors at yesterday's meeting and argued his case. He appeared today before the committee on business conduct of the New York Curb exchange just before noon. The committee adjourned without taking action. Sisto resigned later as an associate member of the Curb.

Sisto, a friend of Benito Mussolini, was born in Newark, N. J., 48 years ago, the son of an Italian immigrant.

Court Calls R-K-O Plan Fair; Indicates Approval

New York, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Federal Judge William Bondy said today the proposed plan for reorganization of Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation seemed "fair, feasible, and equitable," and he indicated it would be approved generally after a hearing Jan. 5 to modify minor details.

Class 1 Rails Net Operating Income Climbs

Net operating income of 137 class one railroads in November totaled $49,664,682, compared with $32,519,097 in November, 1937, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. Net operating income is income before provision for interest on bonds and other fixed charges.

The November return is equal to a rate of 2.32 per cent on the railroads' investment, the association said. In November, 1937, the rate was 1.52 per cent. In November, 1930, it was 2.88 per cent.

Eleven Month Total Lower.

Net operating income of the roads for the eleven months ended Nov. 30 totaled $323,352,148, compared with $564,209,041 for the eleven months ended Nov. 30, 1937, and $820,214,052 for the eleven months ended Nov. 30, 1930. The percentages of return for the three eleven month periods were 1.34 for 1938, 2.34 for 1937, and 3.38 for 1930.

The railroads' gross operating revenues for November totaled $319,681,838, compared with $318,180,376 in November, 1937, and $394,261,533 in November, 1930. Operating expenses for the month totaled $231,257,086, against $249,295,347 a year earlier, and $295,812,115 in November, 1930.

Gross Earnings Drop.

For the eleven months ended Nov. 30 gross operating revenues totaled $3,247,154,629, against $3,865,747,780 in the eleven months ended Nov. 30, 1937, and $4,906,580,018 in the eleven months ended Nov. 30, 1930.

Operating expenses for the eleven month periods totaled $2,489,254,908 for 1938, $2,875,710,231 for 1937, and $3,636,468,116 for 1930.

Everyday Economics

Farm Income.

Although 1938 has been a year of good crops, the total cash income of the nation's farmers has declined from the 1937 total. Heavy production of some crops resulted in lower prices. Many families, moreover, have spent less for food this year, because of reduced income during the business recession.

The following table shows the sources of farmers' cash income for the first ten months of this year, compared with the amounts for the first ten months of 1937 [000 omitted]:

	First ten months. 1938.	1937.
All meats	$1,529,000	$1,668,000
Milk	1,249,000	1,241,000
Fruits, vegetables	765,000	991,000
All grains	701,000	942,000
Cotton, cottonseed	525,000	607,000
Poultry, eggs	439,000	502,000
Other crops, livestock	601,000	777,000
Government payments	395,000	355,000
Total	$6,198,000	$7,083,000

The biggest single source of farm income was the cow. Besides the revenues from cattle meats, farmers received $1,243,000,000 from milk.

STOCK MARKET LIFTED AGAIN BY AVIATION GROUP

Helped by Decrease in Tax Selling.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 29.—The stock market again advanced on a wide front today. The aviation group led the rise. Gains in the leaders ranged from fractions to around 3 points, and more sensitive issues climbed as much as 8 points.

All groups joined in the advance, with 730 issues closing higher, 52 lower, and 120 unchanged. Volume was 1,882,960 shares.

In pushing ahead so impressively the market easily absorbed a large amount of cash sales for income tax purposes. It seemed to ignore news of the expulsion of the J. A. Sisto firm from the stock exchange.

Aircraft Division Active.

The aircraft division contributed one of its strongest and most active sessions. Bendix, Douglas, United Aircraft, North American Aviation, Curtiss-Wright common and "A," Sperry, Consolidated, and Glenn Martin—with gains reaching 2½ points—closed above or near previous 1938 high levels. Wright Aero, making its first appearance on the tape since last Friday, rose 8 points to 121, a new peak for the year.

United States Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube took the honors in their group, rising 1¾ and 2¼ points respectively. Bethlehem and Republic made fractional gains. In the motors both Chrysler and General Motors worked fractionally higher. Yellow Truck added 1 point.

Metal shares reflected improved demand as a result of firmness of copper prices abroad and a boost in the domestic scrap price. International Nickel and Kennecott rose 1 and 1⅞ points respectively.

Rails Join Advance.

Carrier stocks shared in the advance. Northern Pacific took volume honors in the group and added a fraction. Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, and Union Pacific climbed 1 to 2¾ points. Rail equipment shares, including Pullman and Lima Locomotive, showed advances exceeding 1 point.

Fractional gains ruled among power and light shares. North American gained 1⅛ points.

Spiegel again took volume honors in the merchandising section. It rose one point to a new 1938 high of 15¾. Sears, Roebuck added ¾ point and Montgomery Ward, 1.

GRAIN MARKETS RISE AGAIN ON VARIED WEATHER

The grain markets yesterday continued the creeping advance which has been under way for more than a week. Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade closed ⅝ to ¾ cent a bushel higher. Final sales on the May delivery were at the highest price at which that future has closed since last August.

Corn futures closed ¼ to ⅜ cents a bushel higher. Prices were the highest since late in September. All deliveries of oats and soy beans sold at new seasonal high prices. Oats closed unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. Soy beans were 1⅛ to 1¼ cents a bushel higher.

Alternately freezing and thawing weather in the southwest, which is a frequent cause of heavy damage to winter wheat, had considerable influence on trading sentiment. General speculative interest in futures was the largest in a number of weeks, brokers said. The advance was helped along by buying of futures attributed to cash interests who were understood to have made fair sales of grain to the FSCC.

ELECTRIC POWER PRODUCTION HITS ALL TIME HIGH

Electric power generated by the nation's electric light and power industry in the week ended Dec. 24 topped the all time high reached in the preceding week. The Edison Electric institute reported yesterday that 2,362,947,000 kilowatt hours were produced last week, compared with 2,332,978,000 kilowatt hours in the week ended Dec. 17.

Last week's power output exceeded that of the comparative week in 1937 by 13.3 per cent. The 1937 week, however, included the Christmas holiday.

The Commonwealth Edison company group [Chicago area] announced that it was unable to compile its weekly report of electricity production because of the Christmas holiday.

Coal Minimum Is Union Club, Says Sen. Holt

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] predicted today that the bituminous coal commission would set minimum prices which, after being "used as a club" by the United mine workers in wage conferences with mine operators, would be nullified by the courts. The present wage agreement for approximately 450,000 soft coal miners expires April 1. Conferences on a new wage scale are scheduled to be held shortly before that date.

Senator Holt.

Club for John L. Lewis.

"I predict," said Holt, "that the coal commission will set its prices about March 15 so John L. Lewis will be able to use them as a club in the wage negotiations. [Lewis is president of the mine workers union.]

"The mine workers have never had anything like that before. They'll be able to say 'look at these minimum prices; we want wages based on them.' Then the prices will go to the supreme court and they'll probably be thrown out again."

Holt declared the coal commission's activities were "burocratic boondoggling." He described the agency as "$5,000,000 worth of nothing." He said that figure represented appropriations for the commission since it was created.

Fails in Court Test.

The commission's original minimum price scale failed to meet a Supreme court test several months ago. The court ruled that hearings on which the prices were based had been inadequate. In working out new prices the commission has conducted lengthy hearings on cost of production and other data pertaining to the mining and marketing of bituminous coal.

Another court case to test the commission's powers is pending. The litigant coal operators contend that cost data submitted for the commission's information may not be made public at hearings on the minimum prices.

YEAR'S BUILDING AWARDS 14.5 PCT. ABOVE '37 TOTAL

New York, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Engineering construction awards in 1938 totaled $2,791,931,000, an increase of 14.5 per cent over the 1937 figure, the Engineering News-Record reported today.

Public construction amounted to $1,991,175,000, a gain of 51 per cent. Private awards accounted for $800,756,000, a drop of 28 per cent.

In the last week, shortened by the Christmas holidays, awards totaled $59,510,000, compared with $86,597,000 in the preceding week and $44,989,000 a year ago. The week's awards were:

Chicago Business Gains in November Best of Year

Data released yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce disclosed that business and industrial activity in Chicago recorded the biggest gains during November since the beginning of the year.

Activity expanded in a variety of lines compared with the earlier months of the year. Decisive increases over comparable 1937 periods were shown by some indices. Factory employment for the city as a whole, however, remained below the level of November, 1937.

Among the indices in which gains over 1937 were shown were building permits and construction contract awards, telephones in use, carloadings, electric power output and pig iron production. Output of pig iron was about 20 per cent above November, 1937.

ASK COURT NAME RECEIVER FOR TRANSAMERICA

Los Angeles, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Illegal, fraudulent withdrawal of large sums of money and market manipulation were laid to Amadeo P. Giannini and other directors of Trans-America corporation today. The charges are in a Superior court suit filed by Rose Breakstone in behalf of herself and other stockholders.

The court was asked to place the corporation in receivership pending a complete accounting from the defendants.

The complaint charges that Giannini, with the consent of other directors, took sums totaling nearly $1,000,000 from the corporation from 1932 to 1936 inclusive. It also alleges he has engaged in stock market operations which have been fraudulent and are under investigation by the Securities Exchange commission.

SEC TO PROBE AUDIT WORK OF M'KESSON FIRM

New York, Dec. 29.—[Special.]—The Securities and Exchange commission tonight called public hearings on the auditing aspects of the McKesson & Robbins swindle case. It plans a study intended to cover the entire field of corporation accounting.

The hearing starts Thursday in the regional offices of the commission here. Adrian C. Humphreys, a certified public accountant, will act as trial examiner. Irving Galpeer, SEC attorney who has been in general charge of the McKesson investigation, will represent the commission. It is understood he will call to the stand first those Price, Waterhouse & Co. accountants who actually made the drug concern's audits.

BANK CLEARINGS DECLINE 3.3 PCT. BELOW YEAR AGO

New York, Dec. 29.—[Special.]—Bank clearings in twenty-two leading cities in the week ended Dec. 28, aggregated $4,825,272,000, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today. This total was 3.3 per cent below that of a year ago. Compared with the preceding week this year, check transfers were smaller by $2,427,555,000.

Transfers through New York City banks totaled $2,988,037,000, or 3 per cent less than a year ago. In the other 21 cities the total was $1,837,235,000, a decline of 3.8 per cent. The Chicago volume was $264,700,000, a drop of 8.6 per cent.

Assail Changes in Federal Data on Live Stock

A recent announcement that the department of agriculture will report only the "salable supply" of live stock beginning Jan. 2 has stirred up considerable resentment in the stockyards here, it was disclosed yesterday. Many traders said the proposed daily report would distort the true picture of the Chicago market as well as destroy the value of records kept for comparison during the forty years the Chicago yards have been in operation.

The government's daily report hereafter will ignore all direct shipments to packers and shipments unloaded for feed, water, rest, or inspection. Use of such data in the past, the department said, caused confusion.

Call Change Confusing.

Many leaders in the live stock market and meat packing industry, however, disagreed yesterday with the government about the "confusion." They contend that the trade will be confused if the proposed plan goes into effect. They also refute the claim that the new way of reporting receipts will place the various markets on a more uniform basis.

One leading market man here said the plan will result in less uniformity of reports on supply because the proportion of direct shipments does not always run the same.

Big packers are not concerned about the new method of reporting receipts. They will continue to get their own information on the "salable supply" as well as direct and through shipments at the larger markets every day, spokesmen said. Smaller plants and those without private wire service to other markets, however, will be deprived of the information on direct and through shipments.

No Comparative Totals.

The new system of reporting by the government will leave the trade without comparative totals for other years. The Board of Trade will continue to report total receipts including directs, since it gives a more accurate picture of the supply, according to Lyman West, statistician of the Board of Trade.

THE TRIBUNE will also continue to report total receipts, with comparisons for other years each week. Footnotes explaining the difference between THE TRIBUNE'S daily and weekly receipts and those supplied by the government will be carried to avoid confusion.

EXPORTS OF PORK IN NOVEMBER ARE BEST IN 4 YEARS

There was a 52 per cent increase in exports of pork from the United States during November over October, a department of commerce report on foreign trade disclosed yesterday. The November sales abroad were heaviest for any month since November, 1934. The total at 11,066,264 pounds compared with 7,260,664 during October, and with 7,793,234 a year ago.

The trade balance for the American pork packers in foreign markets during last month was the most favorable since June, 1935. Sales abroad exceeded imports for the month by 7,155,784 pounds. The October sales were 4,480,975 ahead of the imports.

During the first eleven months of 1938 packers sold 40,072,661 pounds more pork abroad than was imported during that period. For the first 11 months of 1937 imports ran 13,570,448 pounds ahead of exports.

Imports of beef and veal in the same periods were somewhat lower and exports higher.

U. S. GOLD STOCKS RISE 54 MILLIONS IN LAST WEEK

Fifty-four million dollars more gold was added to the national supply in the week ended Wednesday, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. Gold stocks on Wednesday totalled 14 billion 508 million dollars.

The continued inflow of gold contributed to a further expansion in idle bank reserves, the board's statement disclosed. Member banks of the system reported reserves that were 3 billion 70 million above the legal minimum, an increase of 90 million over the preceding week.

Bank loans declined in Chicago and New York. Outstanding commercial loans of Chicago banks Wednesday were three millions below a week earlier. Commercial loans of New York banks were off seven millions and loans to brokers on collateral were nine millions lower.

ARMOUR'S LOSS FOR FISCAL YEAR IS $1,505,089

Has Since Returned to Profit Basis.

Robert H. Cabell, president of Armour & Co., reported yesterday to stockholders that the company is again operating at a profit after losing $1,505,089 in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31.

Robert H. Cabell.

Cabell said that prospects of the company hinge on improvement in labor conditions in the industry, increased supplies of live stock, and continued improvement in national economic conditions.

Declining meat prices made profitable operation impossible during early months of the 1938 fiscal year, Cabell reported. Losses were incurred, he said, in each of the first five months. These were only partially offset by the profits which were made late in the year.

Profit Last Year.

The loss of $1,505,089, compared with a profit of $9,712,792 in the preceding fiscal year.

Cabell pointed out that two-thirds of the parent company's net loss last year resulted from the payment of income taxes to the federal government. The taxes were paid by Armour & Co. of Delaware whose operations for the year were profitable. The combined results of the companies were unprofitable, but this fact did not relieve the subsidiary company of its income tax liability.

Cabell said that an increased supply of live stock is needed to permit the most efficient operation of the company's large plants. Adverse conditions cut down supplies received at certain plants. To meet this situation, he said, the company acquired plants in sections where live stock supplies are increasing.

Keep Up Sales Tonnage.

The new plants, he said, enabled the company to maintain a "normal" tonnage. Tonnage sales for 1938 were off 2½ per cent from the preceding year. Dollar sales which totaled $723,537,907, were down 8¼ per cent.

Cabell said that the decision taken by directors to omit preferred dividends was believed in "the best interest of the stockholders."

"It will not be the policy of the company," he said, "to pay dividends unless they are earned and the management aims to build up our financial position which will automatically be reflected in the value of the holdings."

Storkline Profits Fall.

Storkline Furniture corporation, Chicago, informed stockholders that the year ended Nov. 30 showed a net profit of $60,316. Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 29.—[Special.]—The year-end rise of the bond market continued today. There was a lively upswing in rail loans. Leading corporate liens showed gains running to 2 or more points. Federal bonds also advanced.

Trading volume fell to $9,437,250 face value, from the preceding day's $15,499,000, which was a high mark for more than a year. Today's drop was attributed by brokers to the passing of tax selling. Wednesday was the last day for such operations on a regular delivery basis.

November earnings statements stimulated demand for rail loans. Traders said improved revenues and prospects for a legislative program to help the carriers will probably cause a revival of public buying in the rail list in the next few months.

The United States government list had gains ranging up to ¼ point. The foreign group showed a number of fair advances despite European political tension.

STICK WITH US! GERMANS WARN SOUTH AMERICA

Threaten to Take Trade Away from Latins.

BERLIN, Dec. 29. — (AP) — Rudolf Brinkmann, secretary of state in the German economics ministry, today warned South American countries to stick close to Germany economically or they might find themselves without a lucrative market.

He gave the implied threat of switching German business to southeastern Europe should Latin American states "succumb to the machinations" directed against Germany.

Charges Effort to Injure.

Brinkmann, writing in the Berlin economic magazine Wirtschaftsblatt, declared: "We are not surprised that efforts are being made to cloud our relations, good until now, with South America with the open aim of damaging us economically by crippling our raw material imports from there.

"We are convinced that the South American states will think practically enough not to succumb to such suggestions."

Italy Seeks Bigger Market.

ROME, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Signs of a campaign to reënforce Italian trade in South America, particularly in Argentina, appeared in the press today in the wake of the Pan-American conference at Lima.

Fascists took the view, as expressed by the newspaper Il Messaggero, that "the late Pan-American conference is a battle lost for the United States and democracy."

The Italian intention to bid for a bigger market was indicated first in the announcement of a new commercial treaty designed to triple Italian trade with Uruguay and then in newspaper comment that Argentina would profit more from trading with totalitarian states than with American countries.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Liberal receipts of hogs at Chicago yesterday, coupled with a setback of the buoyant wholesale trade for pork, resulted in a sharp decline in prices. The hog market fell 15 to 25 cents, with some closing sales as much as 30 and 35 cents under the high spot of the preceding session.

Reductions of 50 cents to $1.00 per hundred pounds were registered in most cuts of fresh pork.

Cattle trading was rather uneven. Top steers, as well as lower priced stock and all light yearlings, held firm. The bulk of medium and weighty steers was slow and weak to slightly lower.

Receipts of 20 sheep and lambs were the heaviest since last January. Prices fell 25 to 50 cents.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

Photo-diagram from an aerial view of central Chicago showing location of the present airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue, and of the proposed lake front airport. One objection to the present field is its inaccessibility to downtown Chicago, indicating the need for a superhighway to the southwest. A lake front airport would save more than a half hour of driving time. (Story on page 3.)
